[§] The inception date for the Institutional Class shares is December 30, 2011. Performance information for the Institutional Class prior to that date reflects the actual performance of the Fund's Investor Class (and uses the actual expenses of the Fund's Investor Class, for such period of time), without any adjustments. For any such period of time, the performance of the Fund's Institutional Class would have been substantially similar to, yet higher than, the performance of the Fund's Investor Class, because the shares of both classes are invested in the same portfolio of securities, but the classes bear different expenses, which are primarily differences in distribution and service fees.

[^] The Russell 2500™ Value Index measures the performance of the small to mid-cap value segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes those Russell 2500 companies with lower price-to-book ratios and lower forecasted growth values. The Russell 2500™ Index measures the performance of the small to mid-cap segment of the U.S. equity universe, commonly referred to as "smid" cap. The Russell 2500 Index is a subset of the Russell 3000® Index. It includes approximately 2,500 of the smallest securities based on a combination of their market cap and current index membership. [‡] Forward price to earnings: returns price divided by earnings; this calculation uses the median consensus EPS estimates for the current or next fiscal year to calculate a P/E ratio depending on the length of time until the end of the current fiscal year. Source: FactSet. 5-year estimated earnings growth: projected earnings per share growth rate of the companies invested in by the Fund. Projected growth rates are consensus analyst forecasts for companies' long-term (typically five years) growth rates; actual earnings growth rate may differ from projected earnings growth rate. Only stocks with at least three estimates in the I/B/E/S database are included; medians are less useful with fewer estimates, and research coverage may be less current. Source: FactSet. Interest coverage ratio (EBIT/interest): This characteristic measures companies' ability to pay interest expense with current profits. Source: FactSet.

Investing in small- and mid-cap stocks is more risky and more volatile than investing in large cap stocks. The Fund is often concentrated in fewer sectors than its benchmarks, and its performance may suffer if these sectors underperform the overall stock market. The intrinsic value of the stocks in which the Fund invests may never be recognized by the broader market.
