Dear Leuthold Fund Shareholders:

The year 2020 has been delivering an "unprecedented" number of "firsts." The magnitude of which is so pronounced that the word "unprecedented" no longer seems to have a precedent. A word for such extraordinarily unparalleled circumstances had previously been rarely applicable for describing day to day events; here in 2020, "unprecedented" has been exhausted to the point that it has effectively become as mundane as the word "unique." We are all too well acquainted with the seemingly immeasurable "firsts" that have touched our lives at every level during the last nine months. Pandemic, shortages, full employment-to-unemployment extremes, global economic shutdown, shelter-in-place, deserted offices and cities, distance and hybrid learning, traditions prohibited, celebrations restricted—even stock market action has produced some "firsts"—and this list does not scratch the surface.

These extraordinary "firsts" are being experienced collectively by humankind worldwide—another "first." Amongst the challenges, sadness, loss, and madness, individuals around the globe are confronting these "firsts" together, and we are finding solutions, compromising, adapting, sharing, inventing, researching, and getting creative. There is a bright light amid the world's turmoil, unknowns, and negativity. The resiliency and brilliance of mankind are awe-inspiring and will prevail. The "good" being done is not publicized enough (not a "first"), and we need to hear more of it. Stay safe, and remember to look for the "good stuff."

The Last Twelve Months' Market Action

The stock market rallied in the last three months of 2019, leaving the S&P 500's principal median-valuation ratios in the top decile of the 30-year history and above the level of the September 2018 market high. By January 2020, we believed a market "melt-up" had already occurred. From a long-term technical perspective (and possibly an economic and psychological stance, too), we observed that 2020 appeared to be a "better" candidate for a cyclical top than 2018.

In the 24 months leading up to January, big gyrations framed the type of long-term divergences that accompanied major tops like 1972 and 2000. We noted that if the stock market peaked in the first half of 2020, these non-confirmations would be remembered as ridiculously obvious omens of a stock market top.

Early February saw a new extreme in optimism by retail-oriented equity-option traders relative to the institutional players. We wrote, "From a pure sentiment perspective, this might be the worst market-entry point we've seen in the last 20 years." Practically on cue, in late February, the stock market dropped. The lengthiest bull market in history was snuffed-out as stock index losses convincingly passed the -20% threshold that defines a bear market. In 27 historic trading days, the DJIA collapsed 37%, and the S&P 500 experienced a 23-day, 34% peak-to-trough plunge. The extent of these losses is in the range of the median bear market decline of the last 120 years, but they far exceeded the post-WWII bear-market median loss of -27%.

W.D. Gann, a legendary trader and market analyst, argued that it was much more likely—than suggested by chance alone—for the market to have a meaningful trend-reversal on an anniversary of a historically-significant inflection point. Consistent with that theory, the 2020 bear-market low of March 23rd registered one-day short of the 20th anniversary of the S&P 500's Y2K peak.

Following this year's low, the stock market rebounded in what we believed was a typical "bear market rally." In late August, the relentless stock market recovery surpassed its previous record-price peak of February, and we were proven wrong. Technically, a new "bull market" was in process. Through September 30th, the S&P 500 had rallied nearly 52% from the 2020 low of the shortest bear market in history.

Since March, there has been an incredible amount of Fed liquidity dumped into the markets, and we respect the mostly bullish message of the stock-market tape. However, today, valuations for large caps (and growth stocks in particular) are so high that any remaining upside in the blue-chip averages is severely limited. The most heavily weighted S&P 500 measures that we monitor show historical percentile readings in the mid-to-upper 90s. Valuations for the median S&P 500 stock are also at those levels. Meanwhile, mid and small caps are in the vicinity of their long-term medians or even below. These pockets of cheaper valuations are attractive opportunities to realign away from the increasing madness that characterizes the large cap growth space.

In the years ahead, the "composition" of a tactical asset allocator's stock portfolio may be more critical than the overall "level" of exposure. That was the case during the 2000-2002 bear market and during much of the bull market that followed. We think the massive valuation premium on large cap growth stocks is extremely vulnerable if the cyclical recovery continues to trace out anything close to the typical path. When the upturn falters or even aborts, large cap growth premiums will likely persist—but we expect that will be at market levels 30-40% below today. Value, mid cap, and small cap stocks would also be susceptible in a double-dip scenario, but we doubt their relative valuations can compress much further. Putting on our rose-tinted glasses (which had accumulated a filthy layer of dust), recent sentiment measures have been slower to rebound than stock prices—a contrarian "positive."

From now 'til eternity, bullish market pundits will contend that the global spread of the coronavirus "triggered" the 2020 bear market and global recession. Although the pandemic was undoubtedly the ultimate catalyst, cracks had been developing in the stock market for over a year leading up to the February peak.

There were pre-existing warning signs from bonds, cyclical stocks, and especially corporate credit. Spreads on low-grade corporate bonds began to widen in early 2018 and then failed to "confirm" the stock market's huge 2019 gain. The yield curve initially inverted in March 2019, and the timing of the recession's arrival—March 2020—was right in line with that indicator's typical twelve-month lead time.

Last September's overnight repo-market intervention by the Fed signaled corporate liquidity had deteriorated badly. The Fed's move to "re-liquefy" initiated a rally that was narrow enough to thrash most active managers; but, it was somehow "broad" enough to prop up the NYSE Advance/Decline line until three weeks before the February high—which left most of the technical crowd heavily exposed when the 2020 bear market commenced.

The media narrative will be impossible to alter, but the reality is: The coronavirus was simply the kid in the crowd who shouted, "The Emperor has no clothes on!"

ANNUAL PERFORMANCE REVIEW

TACTICAL ASSET ALLOCATION—DOMESTIC & GLOBAL MUTUAL FUNDS

The Leuthold Core Investment Fund and Leuthold Global Fund began the 2019-2020 fiscal year with a neutral outlook for the stock market. That stance was reflected by the 51% average net equity allocation for the fourth quarter of 2019. In January, bullish forecasts abounded despite the pervasiveness of extended valuations for market-cap-weighted and median measures. The S&P 500 closed February 19th at a record high for the bull market that began eleven years ago. Within a few days of that mark, our quantitative analysis—which guides the tactical portfolios' level of stock exposure—tumbled to a deeply negative reading; we reduced net equity exposure down to 42%. The S&P 500 tallied losses for the next seven consecutive trading days (February 20th through month-end), culminating in a loss of 13%. The S&P 500 bounced nearly 6% by March 4th, but that was followed by a tumultuous period of one-day swings—alternating between 3-11% losses and 5-12% gains. From the February 19th market top to the March 23rd closing low, the S&P 500 and MSCI All Country World Index (ACWI) each booked a loss of 34%. By comparison, the Leuthold Core Investment Fund and Leuthold Global Fund losses for the same period were about 41% less, at -19.5% and -20.5%, respectively. By March 31st, both the S&P 500 and MSCI ACWI had rebounded 15% while the Leuthold Core and Global Funds had recovered about 8%.

Although we believed that a cyclical bear market was underway, April valuations had vastly improved over the prior two months' downswing. We lowered the Funds' equity hedge to reflect this development. Stocks went on a full-scale upsurge in April; the two benchmarks had gains ranging between 11-13% for the month, and our tactical funds—with average net equity exposure of just 46%—moved up 6%. Stocks enjoyed substantial gains over the next four months, but valuations on U.S. large caps had already moved back into the danger zone as early as June. The overall equity environment seemed precarious, and Leuthold tactical funds maintained a relatively cautious stance for the rest of the fiscal year (47% average net equity exposure).

The debate as to whether the upswing since March was a bear-market rally or a "brand new" bull market was resolved in late August when key market indices reached closing-day price levels above the prior records of February. During September, the S&P 500 made another new high before reversing course; it closed the month down nearly 4%, while the MSCI ACWI gave back over 3%. Even with the setback, S&P 500 valuations (market-cap-weighted and median measures) ended September at historically high percentile readings, while small to mid-cap valuations sat near, or below, their median levels.

For the twelve months through September, the Leuthold Core Investment Fund's retail share class posted a +6.72% total return. The gain is 354 basis points (bps) better than its peer group, Morningstar Tactical Allocation (+3.18% total return). The fully invested S&P 500 benchmark produced a +15.15% total return. The S&P 500 and the Leuthold Core Investment Fund's performance gap is primarily due to the Fund's average net equity exposure being 56% lower throughout the fiscal year.

The retail share class of Leuthold Global Fund ended September with a one-year total return of  $\pm 2.56\%$ . That is a wide-margin better than its peer-fund category, the Morningstar World Allocation average ( $\pm 0.34\%$  total return). The fully invested MSCI ACWI had a fiscal year total return of  $\pm 10.44\%$ . The big variance with the MSCI ACWI is due to the Fund's 44% lower net equity exposure combined with underperformance among its global equities.

Tactical Funds' Long Equity Exposure

Traditional stock investments made up 59% of both Funds' average monthly equity allocation (long stock exposure). U.S. large-cap growth stock returns dwarfed those of nearly everything else. The MSCI ACWI (+10.44%) held a relatively distant second place to the S&P 500's 15.15% gain, but no index came remotely close to the NASDAQ's +41% return. The Leuthold Core Investment Fund's U.S.-traded stocks returned +13.23%, and its Emerging Market (EM) equity holding produced +45.23%.

The Leuthold Global Fund's stock holdings were up 5.68%. Versus the benchmarks, Leuthold Core Investment Fund's domestic stocks trailed the S&P 500 by 192 bps, while its EM stocks far exceeded the MSCI Emerging Market index by a whopping 5,577 bps. The Leuthold Global Fund's equities lagged the MSCI ACWI by 476 bps. See specific equity performance drivers in the section, "Long Equity Exposure—Domestic & Global."

Emerging Market Equities—Core Investment Fund

We earmarked EM equities for a portion of the Leuthold Core Investment Fund's long-stock exposure; the average monthly weight was close to 3%. It was additive by nearly 80 bps. This allocation provided a small counterbalance when U.S. stocks plunged from late February through late March—losses generated in these holdings were minimal compared to the domestic long stock exposure. Despite massive underperformance since their January 2018 peak, the valuation case for EM stocks is not a slam dunk. A U.S. dollar decline may trigger a reversal in fortunes for EM equities. Considering their huge valuation discount, we anticipate some ample opportunities ahead to add exposure to this space.

Tactical Funds' Equity Hedge

The Funds began the fiscal year with a 14% hedge against long stock investments; this was trimmed to 9% in the last quarter of 2019. Our stock market analysis gradually deteriorated at the front end of 2020, prompting boosts to the equity hedge in January and late February. These moves repositioned the portfolios quite defensively just before the bull market disintegrated with a -34% S&P 500 nosedive over a brief period of 23 trading days, which officially ended the bull market that began in 2009. Between January and March 31st, the hedge offset stock losses by nearly 4%. This holding detracted from performance as the stock market recovered from April through August, but it delivered close to a 50 bps lift with September's stock market slump. The position's weight moved within a tight range all year; the monthly average was 11%. The allocation had a net loss for the twelve months, offsetting portfolio gains by -250 bps in Leuthold Core Fund and -180 bps in the Leuthold Global Fund.

Tactical Funds' Fixed Income

Fixed income markets continue to be devoid of compelling opportunities; however, this segment played its traditional role as a downside buffer through the February-March stock market collapse. The Funds' fixed income allocation was 20-21% during the fiscal year. Due to unappealing risk/reward prospects, our bond holdings' duration was at the short end of the scale compared to the benchmark. Fixed income investments were diversified to encompass differing risk profiles. Developed Market Sovereign Debt retained the heaviest weight (12%), followed by Quality Corporate Bonds (5%), and MBS Bond funds (2%). We sold Emerging Market Sovereign Debt in May (1.8% allocation), and, in August, High Yield Bonds were introduced as a 1.5% position. Marginal gains were achieved by DM Sovereign Debt, Corporates, and MBS Bonds, translating to about +95 bps. Combined, EM Sovereign Debt and High Yield Bonds shaved off about -25 bps.

Our long-time policy for fixed income exposure is a minimum level of 30%; however, the allocation has been about 10% below that threshold for many years. The risk of rising yields is pervasive, and the stakes are higher with long-term bonds—which is why we're opting for short duration. Despite the challenging environment and scarcity of "income," bonds still play a constructive role on a smaller scale. In time, this asset class' circumstances will reverse course, and more attractive prospects will be available to enhance the Funds' yield profiles.

Gold

This position inched from 3% in October 2019 up to 4% by late June. In July, it was tactically increased to 5%. Gold offers defense, diversification, and it profits from a softening dollar. The last twelve months' gain was nearly +28%; it added about 100 bps to the Funds' annual results. While gold should continue to benefit from the Fed's aggressive stimulus, we do not expect to add at current prices.

LEUTHOLD CORE ETF

The ETF version of the Leuthold Core Investment portfolio became available for investment on January 6, 2020. This product simulates the same asset allocation and tactical adjustments to produce the equivalent performance for investors who want to invest in our Core Fund's "best ideas" but prefer the features of an ETF vehicle. The Core ETF builds its stock market exposure with equity sector and industry ETFs of third parties that match the targeted stock market allocations traditionally obtained via individual stocks in the related Core strategy products. Corresponding fixed income, alternatives, and other potential positions, such as asset class hedges (when applicable), are also acquired through ETFs with parallel concentrations to the desired exposures.

The Leuthold Core ETF had a +6.52% NAV total return (+6.64% market total return) for the fiscal year's inception-to-date period of January 6, 2020, through September 30, 2020. This gain bested the benchmark S&P 500's +5.42% total return over that timeframe, which is impressive, given that the Core ETF's average net stock market exposure was 48% lower.

ETF Portfolio: Overall Performance Drivers

Among the traditional equity allocation (56% average long stock exposure), the Leuthold Core ETF held its largest weight in the diversified Technology sector; this concentration was also the primary source of the overall Core ETF gain, inception-to-date. The Core ETF's position in IT (26%) was similar to that of the S&P 500's, and its contribution to return was a solid 800 bps, but it trailed the S&P 500's respective +1,100 bps. The Core ETF's diversified Tech sector holding was augmented with a Semiconductor-focused security, which boosted the portfolio's gain by another 100 bps.

Positions representing the Communication Services and Consumer Discretionary sectors (overweights) were the next best performers, each adding 190 bps. Supplementary concentrations at the group level from Consumer Discretionary included Home Construction (80 bps additive), Homebuilders (+8 bps), and Retail (+3 bps). There were no underlying industry-specific investments associated with the Communication Services sector.

The Core ETF's Health Care sector exposure was not a robust contributor to return; the sizeably underweight allocation curbed its upside prospects. Complementing the broad HC sector was an investment that targeted Biotechnology (a solid performer, +120 bps), along with HC Providers and Pharmaceuticals, which had relatively flat results.

The Financials sector was a noteworthy performance detractor resulting in almost -600 bps. Luckily a sub-position to the Brokerage industry group had a minimal negative impact. The broad Consumer Staples sector had flat results; there was no other exposure to underlying Staples industries.

Traditional long stocks were hedged throughout the inception-to-date period with a security that signified a monthly average weight of 11%. This component (incorporated within the portfolio's equity arm) provided inverse stock market exposure for defense against equity declines. The allocation was constructive during the bear market downswing earlier in the year. Following the ensuing stock market rally from the March 23rd bear market low, measured through September 30th, the equity hedge was subtractive (-250 bps) from overall return.

The Core ETF's fixed income (average 20% of assets) did its conventional job as a downside buffer through the February-March stock market collapse. The securities were diversified across Developed Market Sovereign Debt (largest holding, at 12%), Quality Corporate Bond exposure (5%), and an MBS Bond allocation (2%). In May, Emerging Market Sovereign Debt was eliminated (near a 2% allocation), and, in August, High Yield Bonds were activated at a weight close to 1.5%. DM Sovereign Debt, Corporates, and MBS Bonds achieved marginal gains (combined for +90 bps); together, EM Sovereign Debt and High Yield Bonds detracted by -25 bps.

Gold was the dedicated "alternatives" allocation, which presented defense and diversification. The holding was a substantial value add on an absolute basis. In relation to its small portfolio weight (4% average), this component added a modest 100 bps.

In summary, the equity hedge had a relatively big negative offset to portfolio gains following the March 23rd stock market low, and the Core ETF would have profited from a higher level of equity exposure. Nevertheless, after breaking down performance attribution from underlying headline asset-class components, the equity portfolio's Financials position was most damaging. Absent the broad Financials sector investment, the Leuthold Core ETF's already outstanding relative results (with less than 50% net equities) would have been even more exceptional versus the 100% invested S&P 500.

LEUTHOLD SELECT INDUSTRIES AND LEUTHOLD GLOBAL INDUSTRIES

Long Equity Exposure—Domestic & Global Strategies

Leuthold Select Industries (SI) Fund and Leuthold Global Industries (GI) strategy are fully invested in the stock market. The "industry" emphasis was borne from Steve Leuthold's pioneering concept, 50 years ago, that industry group rotation and sector concentrations may provide attractive results versus a portfolio of stocks with no macroeconomic commonalities or shared performance drivers.

This top-down methodology aims to identify industry groups that, as an aggregate, are showing strength or appear likely to be leaders based on global trends and the economic setting. The momentum factor primarily guides industry group attractiveness. Valuation considerations drive stock selection. The equity universe for the SI Fund is composed of liquid, domestically traded securities. The Leuthold GI stock universe contains roughly 5,000 stocks traded on global exchanges, and it targets at least 40% of assets in non-U.S. equities.

For the fiscal year ended September 30th, 2020, the Leuthold SI Fund had a total return of +11.28%; this was an enormous lead of 1,179 bps over its peer-fund category, Morningstar Mid Cap Blend (-0.51% total return). Compared to the S&P 600 SmallCap benchmark, SI's performance was 1,957 bps better. As with most actively managed equity funds, SI trailed the large-cap growth dominated S&P 500 total return of +15.15%. The Leuthold GI strategy (Global Industries, L.P., net performance) produced a total return of +3.78%, which was worse than either the MSCI ACWI or the Morningstar World Large Stock category (+10.44% and +10.77% total returns, respectively).

Equity Sector/Industry Group Drivers

(Relative performance and portfolio overweight/underweight comparisons refer to the corresponding sector/group exposures of each strategy's respective benchmark.)

The strategies' equity rotation approach can result in large underweights or overweights compared to their respective benchmarks. We invest in industry groups that manifest leadership and appear likely to continue that role looking forward, given our longer-term investment outlook. Per our model, investing in the highest-rated industries has proven successful in providing alpha over time.

The Information Technology (IT) sector propelled the fiscal year gains of the S&P 500 and MSCI ACWI. The IT sector was also Leuthold SI's best performing broad sector and Leuthold GI's second-best, but its relative portfolio contributions were lower by 33% and 46%. SI had a similar IT weight as the benchmark, and GI held a small overweight.

From a relative stance, robust results also came from overweight exposures to Communication Services and Health Care. In contrast, although the Consumer Discretionary allocation in SI (overweight) and GI (underweight) was favorable, each trailed its benchmark on an absolute and relative basis.

The two strategies had poor overall results and relative underperformance from their holdings in the Financials and Industrials sectors. SI Fund was overweight in each allocation, and the GI strategy was overweight Financials, but underweight Industrials.

One of our key performance measurements is looking at what we call the "total effect" of attribution. This evaluates investments based on the combined success of "group" selection and the underlying "stocks chosen" to represent the industry. Based on this total effect gauge, the domestic and global portfolios had some commonalities. Both had highly constructive results with overweight positions in Semiconductor Equipment, Interactive Home Entertainment, and Homebuilding. The SI Fund additionally benefited from the total effect of exposure to Financial Exchanges/Data and Managed Health Care; both were overweight versus the benchmark.

Adverse "total effect" results varied between the two strategies. Each had poor outcomes with group concentrations and the stock selection from Consumer Finance (overweight) and Internet/Catalog Retail (underweight). Within the SI Fund, other large detractors included Technology Hardware/Storage and Semiconductors (underweights), along with Human Resources/Employment Services (overweight). The GI strategy suffered additional downside from its combined effect of group/stock selection in its Software (underweight), Regional Banks (benchmark weight), and overweights in Life/Health Insurance and Data Processing/Outsourced Services. Among these, the most unfavorable from a "strategy conviction" perspective was Internet/Catalog Retail (SI and GI), Software (GI), Technology Hardware/Storage (SI), and Semiconductors (SI). Even though these groups were substantially underweight, they were the worst relative performers.

The S&P 500 and MSCI ACWI bore losses from sector holdings in Utilities, Real Estate, and Energy. These allocations pared-back each index's annual gain by close to 300 bps. Leuthold SI had a relative advantage as it had zero exposure to those three sectors, and the GI strategy benefited as well, with no Real Estate position and virtually no Utilities (0.03% average weight) or Energy (0.29% weight).

Over the last twelve months, there have been numerous parallels between SI and GI portfolio allocations and the respective performance outcomes, yet many factors can inversely influence U.S. and non-U.S. industries. Among them are leadership and political structure, financial health, climates, and geography in general. Eurasia's contiguous boundaries make a natural setting for regional transcontinental-industry economics to ebb and flow alike. North American industries' physical detachment and distance from global peers often results in a different set of nuances impacting their business-cycle growth and leadership trends. These distinctions lead to the possibility that our internal group models may score an industry as "Attractive" for investment in one of the strategies but not in the other. Performance between a domestic group and its foreign counterpart may also be at odds.

Examples of this behavior were evident over the last twelve months in the SI and GI portfolios. An overweight exposure to the domestic Biotechnology group in SI was additive by over 150 bps. At the same time, GI had a minimal weight in Biotech—represented by global stocks, which resulted in a loss. The same occurred with SI industry allocations to Data Processing, Health Care Services, Life/Health Insurance, and Managed Health Care; these generated solid gains. The global versions of the same groups either detracted or added little, comparatively, to GI performance. Likewise, GI group investments in Construction Materials, Life Sciences, Semiconductors, and Thrifts/Mortgage Finance were materially additive versus the SI Fund's allocations to the same groups of the domestic variety.

Global/Foreign Equity Exposure

Leuthold SI and GI strategies do not have guidelines specifying the amount to invest in developed market (DM) or emerging market (EM) stock concentrations. These characteristics are a function of the quantitative process, which generates the list of groups eligible for investment. Some industries may be more prevalent in developed markets versus emerging markets, and the other way around.

The SI Fund obtains foreign stock exposure from ADR/ADS securities traded on U.S. exchanges. At times, this has materially affected performance, both on an absolute basis and relative to the S&P 500. For the fiscal year, DM foreign stocks made up a 6% quarterly average weight among SI assets, and there were no EM stocks among portfolio investments. The best performance comparison is against the MSCI ACWI ex-USA, which had a lackluster 3% gain over the last twelve months. Based on those results, and considering the SI Fund's small concentration, foreign holdings did not have much bearing on performance at all but provided a bit of diversification.

Leuthold GI methodology builds the portfolio by selecting stocks across the globe that best characterize the chosen industry allocations. U.S. stocks encompassed most of the assets, with 56% on average during the last year. Of the 44% in foreign securities, DM stocks (ex-U.S.) incorporated 32% of assets, and EM held 12%.

GI's U.S. stocks had a small additive contribution of about +2%, which paled compared to the MSCI ACWI U.S.-exposure's +10% (virtually its entire twelve-month gain). These results indicate that the MSCI ACWI is heavily biased to richly priced large cap U.S.-growth stocks. In contrast, our approach leans toward stocks with more attractive valuations. Securities in the Leuthold GI portfolio are more evenly weighted as well; this differs greatly from the top-heavy indexes that have been powered in recent years by a small number of the mega-cap stocks.

GI exposures in other countries that provided outstanding performance (absolute and relative) were industry investments in Germany, Netherlands, Denmark, Ireland, Luxembourg, Hong Kong, and Canada. These positions combined for relative outperformance of 380 bps. Results like this indicate that GI's selection of industries/stocks within those countries was superior to the index's investments. The portfolio's group concentrations affiliated with the U.K. had a negative outcome, both absolutely and relatively.

Among the EM industry investments in the GI strategy, those from China and Taiwan supplied the most upside. However, the relative effect of China was lower by over 50 bps. GI had poor results from exposure to Thailand, Indonesia, Mexico, and Brazil. These detractors were minimal allocations, and the losses ranged from -30 to -46 bps. In summary, the GI strategy had exposure to the economic landscapes of 26 different nations.

We do not adjust for global currency fluctuation in the Leuthold GI strategy. These hedging practices are expensive and don't guarantee against losses. Instead, the GI model incorporates a U.S. dollar-based relative strength component to identify potentially attractive, broad FX-market opportunities. Specific to the last twelve months, currency movement had a negligible performance impact on a relative basis. The portfolio was roughly equal-weight exposure to U.S. stocks and diversified well across the rest of the world—a combination that typically results in minimal currency impact.

GRIZZLY SHORT FUND

Short-Only Equity Exposure

The Grizzly Short Fund is 100% short individual stocks. Investors use this tactic for various functions: a means to potentially profit when stock prices decline, used in tandem with other investment styles to gain diversification, and managing capital gains exposure, among others. The Grizzly Short Fund is an actively managed, quantitative methodology used to identify mid/large cap stocks that look overvalued and vulnerable to a price decline. These are generally healthy companies with ample liquidity, not the type expected to be at risk of failing.

For the fiscal year ended September 30th, 2020, the Grizzly Short Fund produced a -32.96% total return. The result was somewhat worse than the -29.90% total return of the Morningstar "Bear Market" category. The S&P 500 had a total return of +15.15%. At face value, the gap between the Grizzly Short Fund's loss and the "inverse" of the S&P 500 (-15.15%) looks unusually large. However, an index's reverse performance is not an ideal comparator. A proxy that mirrors the inverse S&P 500 and trades in real-time exposes the true investment consequences of cash flows, volatility, and the effect of tracking assets in daily percentage terms. Over the last year, an investable vehicle that matched the exact reverse, daily percent return of the S&P 500<sup>1</sup> produced an annual total return of nearly -22%—almost 700 bps worse than what's implied by the S&P 500's inverse performance.

One would have had better results with short selling the mid cap space than either the Grizzly Short Fund or the S&P 500 inverse proxy. An investable security that mirrored the holdings of the S&P 400 MidCap<sup>2</sup>, on an inverse basis, had a -12% one-year total return. In contrast, the S&P 400 MidCap Index's inverse performance would reflect a +2.16% total return—a very misleading point of reference.

There can be extended periods in which the Grizzly Short Fund has conspicuous overweights or underweights to particular sectors. These sector deviations between Grizzly/S&P 500 allocations are generally advantageous for the Fund; this flexibility allows the movement in and out of market segments as their attractiveness changes. On the other hand, the S&P 500's sector concentrations do not dramatically change unless there has been a prolonged period of extreme results that alter market cap characteristics. For a market index, that is a gradual process. Having outsized or undersized sector/group positions in the Fund can also be a drawback when there is an abrupt market reversal or when industry news creates short-term day-to-day swings against the strategy.

Short Equity Exposure: Sectors And Industry Group Drivers

(Relative performance and Fund overweight/underweight references relate to the S&P 500's corresponding sector/group exposures.)

Eight of the eleven broad sectors incorporated in the Grizzly Short Fund's portfolio detracted from performance. Among the worst absolute performers, the Fund and S&P 500 had three in common: Information Technology, Consumer Discretionary, and Health Care. IT holdings were the most subtractive for each, but the Fund had considerably less exposure—which improved its relative results by over 260 bps. The Fund's Consumer Discretionary overweight was relatively more detractive by almost 400 bps, while its underweight to Health Care trailed the benchmark by nearly 220 bps. There was a big overweight to Industrials that led to another negative performance discrepancy; on a relative basis, the Fund's positions were more subtractive by about 450 bps.

Much of these sectors' terrible relative performance reflects exposure to industries that are unmistakably beneficiaries of the "pandemic culture." This turmoil has been continuously evolving since the shelter-in-place closure and distance-learning directive, not to mention the healthcare-related implications of COVID-19 itself. The Fund's varied exposure to pandemic beneficiaries within the IT, Consumer Discretionary, and Health Care sectors included Application Software, Internet Services/Infrastructure, Semiconductors, Data Processing/Outsourced Services, Casinos/Gaming (online channels), Health Care Equipment/Supplies, and Pharmaceuticals.

Less obvious is the pandemic stimulated windfall to the Industrials sector. This segment contains an extensive spectrum of specialties and resources that provide solutions and products playing to multiple end-markets. One of the Fund's key exposures involved securities from the Industrials Machinery group; this space features a seemingly boundless range of capabilities that have the potential to profit from the COVID-19 effect. Among them are sterilization/sanitation products, medical equipment, air quality treatment, consumer electronics, printing solutions, transportation, tools, packaging, and construction machinery.

Communication Services, Consumer Staples, and Financials detracted from the Grizzly Short Fund's return by similar amounts (-120 bps to -170 bps), while the benchmark's concentrations provided downside from -10 bps to -253 bps. The Fund's Financials' allocation was about one-half the S&P 500's weight, but it underperformed by over 100 bps, indicating unconstructive industry selection in the Fund's underlying group holdings. Conversely, Communication Services (underweight by about one-half) contributed better relative results of over 80 bps.

The poor performance from short selling in these three sectors is attributable to more pandemic repercussions. Among these were Communication Services' Interactive Home Entertainment and Interactive Media & Services groups. Consumer Staples had small losses from several positions, but the Packaged Foods/Meats and Personal Products industries generated most of the downside from that space. Financials sector losses were the result of Property/Casualty Insurance and Regional Banks stocks.

The Energy sector (overweight) and the Utilities sector contributed gains; both had relative outperformance, adding a combined 225 bps above that of the index. The oil industry's prolonged supply/demand imbalance has chipped away at Energy's clout for years, and it now represents the smallest sector weight in the S&P 500. The spread of coronavirus added fuel to the fire as worldwide oil demand plummeted even more. The Fund's exposure to this sector helped to scale back losses elsewhere. The Fund's industry positions had net gains from Integrated Oil & Gas, O&G Equipment/Services, O&G Exploration/Production, and O&G Storage/Transportation.

The Fund's Real Estate allocation was underweight by 1.5%, but it was relatively additive by a small amount; the index's exposure had a loss. This sector was impaired almost immediately from the aftermath of the "stay-at-home" decree, which abruptly became the new business-as-usual "normal." Groups that aided the Funds' results were REITS from Developers, Office, Residential, and Services subsets. (Curiously, considering the impact of the pandemic shutdown, Retail and Hotel/Resort REIT positions slightly detracted from performance.)

Grizzly Short Fund sector/industry group allocations may be far removed from the benchmark, both in terms of percent exposure and the underlying industries characterizing the respective sectors. The Fund has policies to manage position weights at both levels to avoid the potential for a particular concentration having too much influence due to expanding in size relative to the other stock/group investments. Procedures include short covering to lock in a portion of a gain or scale back a losing position. Also, the Fund's stocks are weighted similarly across the portfolio. Therefore, it is unlikely that a select few stocks could have an overwhelming effect on long-term performance, as is the case with the capweighted S&P 500. Portfolio holdings are monitored closely on an intra-day basis, and investors should expect high turnover.

THE "HIGHEST" MARKET "LOW" EVER

Today, the worry is not about the "risk of loss," it's the Fear Of Missing Out on gains. The investing public has a case of FOMO as contagious as that leading up to Y2K. The infection strain of 2020 involves single stocks that dwarf entire equity sectors. Several years ago, we were amazed when Apple's market cap surpassed the S&P 600 SmallCap Index as a whole. Two months ago, it eclipsed the entire market value of the S&P 400 MidCap Index! With five giant companies now comprising nearly 25% of the S&P 500, institutional equity managers have a new definition for the present-day FOMO contagion: Fear Of MegaCap Outperformance.

Valuations at the March 23rd stock market low were the highest ever experienced at a bear market bottom. Since that time, the S&P 500 has gained what may seem to be a "jaw-dropping" 51.75% (through September 30th). The size of that gain is not a rarity. The six-month rallies from the bear market lows of 1932, 1938, 1982, and 2009 had similar returns ranging from +44-53%. What is extraordinary about this new bull market is that it has propelled many large caps to valuation levels realized only four other times in history: 1999, 2000, 2019, and pre-pandemic 2020. Measured at the bull market's six-month anniversary on September 23rd, the S&P 500 price to earnings (P/E) ratio, based on five-year normalized earnings per share (EPS), was 26.9x—30% higher than the six-month mark of previous bull markets. Similarly, back in 2009, equity markets rallied sharply from the March low, but by the end of 2009, the S&P 500 valuation was still 30% below its price-high P/E level.

Many sophisticated investors claim that high valuations are warranted, given the environment of near-zero rates. Interest rate levels have no sway in our performance-forecasting measures. When valuation readings are as high as they are today, the stock market has never produced an annualized gain of +5% or higher in the next ten-year period (see scatterplot).

The present-day market mania hasn't quite matched the extremes of 2000 on a valuation basis. But, in some ways, we think psychology is even more dangerous than 20 years ago. At the height of the Technology Bubble, the "objects" of investment-infatuation were excessively overvalued businesses. Today, there is an underlying faith that the Fed and Treasury bureaucrats will keep both good and bad companies afloat (and richly priced). We can't unearth a single historical analog that merits such confidence.

Meanwhile, the yield for a traditional 60/40 U.S.-balanced portfolio (60% S&P 500/40% 10-Yr. Treasury Bond) plummeted to a tiny 1.37% in August—exactly one-third its 120-year average yield of 4.11%. Income has historically accounted for a bit more than half of the 60/40 annualized total return of +8%. For retirees and conservative investors, this is a major dilemma. With the time-honored 60/40 performance prospects now incredibly compromised, Leuthold tactical portfolios' flexible asset-allocation strategy is even more compelling as an alternative to the now seemingly obsolete "balanced" methodology.

There are times when our tactical "weight of the evidence" approach is perceived as "blinding us" to new realities of the marketplace. The late-1990s era was challenging for our tactical asset allocation. We "didn't get" the new economy. Instead, we had confidence in the guidance of our valuation measures that had offered practical direction for decades. The aughts turned out to be a terrific decade for our disciplines—one that more than paid off for that late-1990s' intransigence. In 2019 and 2020, our regard for time-tested valuation tools resulted in our tactical portfolios being underexposed to stocks (like in the late 1990s) during a pair of tremendous rallies (though the more defensive stance cushioned losses during two significant declines). The current day critique is that we don't appreciate today's policymakers' "brilliance" and their miraculous ability to pivot just when stocks (and the economy) need it most.

Indeed, a "weight of the evidence" approach has shortcomings when the market temporarily obsesses over a single phenomenon—like the dot-coms in 1999 and "liquidity" today. Others who employ multi-factor techniques have lately thrown up their hands, reluctant to fight the wall of money now descending on Wall Street.

Our tactical funds' goals are to preserve shareholder capital and grow assets without taking on disproportionate risk. Our quantitative approach removes subjectivity, we have the latitude to participate in new opportunities as they materialize, and we can hedge exposures when needed. We believe these features combine for an asset allocation system that is better equipped than its peers to navigate the market as the underlying cycles develop and the appeal of investment prospects rotates.

Our stock portfolio methodologies are as disciplined as our tactical asset allocation process. Some market dynamics are more constructive for our techniques, and some are less productive. Over the long term, our approach has successfully identified groups of stocks that can profit or add value under the given stock market setting, be it positive or negative. The goal is to find the most attractive leadership areas and selectively obtain exposure to a concentrated number of themes rather than capture the broad stock market's performance. This is what separates us from most other managers.

Looking forward, we believe the market will experience a three- to four-year period where headline indexes like the S&P 500, DJIA, and NASDAQ will be more inclined to move sideways, with minimal upside progress. This should provide plentiful occasions for active managers, like us, who can focus on industry groups and themes that had previously been neglected and who have the clearance to invest across all stock market styles and sizes.

We are thankful for your support as shareholders, and we value your confidence in us to manage your assets. As coshareholders, we guarantee you that we have a firm conviction in our investment practices, and we will always make every effort to realize the best results possible.

We welcome you to contact us at any time if you have questions or would like to give us feedback.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. ORGANIZATION AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Leuthold Funds, Inc. (the "Company") was incorporated on August 30, 1995, as a Maryland Corporation and is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission as an open-end management investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"). In addition, the Funds are considered investment companies under, and follow the accounting and reporting guidance in, Financial Accounting Standards Board Accounting Standards Codification Topic 946 – Investment Companies. The Leuthold Group, LLC, doing business as Leuthold Weeden Capital Management, is the investment adviser (the "Adviser"). The Company consists of five series (each series a "Fund" and, collectively, the "Funds"):

		Inception – Retail I	nception – Institutional
Fund	Investment Objective	Share Class	Share Class
Leuthold Core Investment	FundSeeks total return consistent with prudent investment risk over the long term	11/20/1995	1/31/2006

Grizzly Short Fund	Capital appreciation	06/19/2000	n/a
Leuthold Core ETF	Capital appreciation and income	01/06/2020	n/a

All classes of shares in a Fund have identical voting, dividend, liquidation, and other rights, and the same terms and conditions, except that certain fees and expenses, including distribution and shareholder servicing fees, may differ among classes. Each class has exclusive voting rights on any matters relating to that class's servicing or distribution arrangements.

The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Funds.

a) Investment Valuation - Securities listed on a national securities exchange (other than The NASDAQ OMX Group, Inc., referred to as "NASDAQ") are valued at the last sale price on the day the valuation is made. Securities that are traded on NASDAQ under one of its three listing tiers, NASDAQ Global Market, NASDAQ Global Select Market, and NASDAQ Capital Market, are valued at the NASDAQ Official Closing Price. Price information on listed stocks is taken from the exchange where the security is primarily traded. Securities, including securities sold short, which are listed on an exchange, but which are not traded on the valuation date are generally valued at the mean between the bid and the asked prices. Unlisted securities for which market quotations are readily available are valued at the latest quoted bid price or, if unavailable, at prices provided by an independent pricing service. Securities sold short which are not listed on an exchange but for which market quotations are readily available are generally valued at the average of the current bid and asked prices. Debt securities are valued at bid prices provided by an independent pricing service that may use a matrix pricing method or other analytical pricing model. Exchange-traded options are valued at the last reported sale price priced on the primary exchange on which the option is traded. If no sales are reported on a particular day, the mean between the highest bid and lowest asked quotations at the close of the exchanges is used. Non-exchange traded options are valued at the mean between the last bid and asked quotations. For options where market quotations are not readily available, fair value shall be determined. Shares of open-end investment companies (other than shares of an exchange-traded fund traded on domestic securities exchanges or on NASDAQ) are valued at one of the following prices as determined by the Adviser: (a) the net asset value announced by such open-end investment company following the close of business on the business day a Fund's net asset value is to be calculated; (b) the net asset value announced by such open-end investment company following the close of business on the business day immediately preceding the day a Fund's net asset value is to be calculated; or (c) a value determined by the Adviser by adding to, or subtracting from, the net asset value announced by such open-end investment company following the close of business on the business day immediately preceding the day a Fund's net asset value is to be calculated, an amount equal to the Adviser's estimate of the effect of changes in the market prices for the types of securities held by such investment company. Other assets, including securities for which no quotations are readily available, are valued at fair value as determined in good faith by the Board of Directors ("Directors") pursuant to the Funds' "Pricing and Valuation Guidelines."

The Funds may invest in foreign securities. Foreign securities may be priced at the closing price reported on the foreign exchange on which they are principally traded. Trading in foreign securities may be completed at times that vary from the closing of the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE"). The Directors have approved the use of their independent pricing provider's proprietary fair value pricing model to assist in determining current valuation for foreign securities traded in markets that close prior to the NYSE. Foreign securities quoted in foreign currencies are translated into U.S. dollars at current exchange rates. Occasionally, events that affect these values and exchange rates may occur between the times at which they are determined and the closing of the NYSE. If these events materially affect the value of portfolio securities, then these securities may be valued as determined in good faith by the Directors. Some of the factors which may be considered by the Directors and the Funds' Fair Value Pricing Committee in determining fair value are fundamental analytical data relating to the investment, the nature and duration of any restrictions on disposition, trading in similar securities of the same issuer or comparable companies, information from broker-dealers, and an evaluation of the forces that influence the market in which the securities are purchased and sold. The use of fair value pricing by a Fund may cause the net asset value of its shares to differ significantly from the net asset value that would be calculated without regard to such considerations.

- b) Fair Valuation Measurements –The Funds have adopted fair valuation accounting standards, which establish a definition of fair value and set out a hierarchy for measuring fair value. These standards require additional disclosures about the various inputs and valuation techniques used to develop the measurements of fair value and a discussion of changes in valuation techniques and related inputs during the period. These inputs are summarized in the following three levels:
  - Level 1 Quoted prices in active markets for identical securities.
  - Level 2 Other significant observable inputs (including quoted prices for similar securities, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.).
  - Level 3 Significant unobservable inputs (including the Funds' own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments).

The inputs or methodology used for valuing securities are not an indication of the risk associated with investing in those securities.

The following is a summary of the inputs used to value the Funds' investments and securities sold short as of September 30, 2020:

The Leuthold Core ETF has provided additional disclosures below regarding derivatives and hedging activity intending to improve financial reporting by enabling investors to understand how and why the Fund uses futures contracts (a type of derivative), how they are accounted for and how they affect an entity's results of operations and financial position. The Fund may use derivatives for risk management purposes or as part of its investment strategies. Derivatives are financial contracts whose values depend on, or are derived from, the value of an underlying asset, reference rate, or index. The Fund may use derivatives to earn income and enhance returns, to hedge or adjust the risk profile of its portfolio, to replace more traditional direct investments, and to obtain exposure to otherwise inaccessible markets.

The average notional amount for futures contracts is based on the monthly notional amounts. The notional amount for futures contracts represents the U.S. dollar value of the contract as of the day of opening the transaction or latest contract reset date. The Leuthold Core ETF's average notional value of futures contracts outstanding during the period ended September 30, 2020, was $503,735. The following tables show the effects of derivative instruments on the financial statements. As of September 30, 2020, the Leuthold Core ETF did not hold any futures contracts.

c) Federal Income Taxes – Provision for federal income taxes or excise taxes has not been made since the Funds have elected to be taxed as "regulated investment companies" and intend to distribute substantially all taxable income to shareholders and otherwise comply with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies. Distributions from net realized gains for book purposes may include short-term capital gains, which are included as ordinary income to shareholders for tax purposes. The Funds also designate as distributions of long-term gains, to the extent necessary to fully distribute such capital gains, earnings and profits distributed to shareholders on the redemption of shares.

The tax character of distributions paid during the fiscal years ended September 30, 2020 and 2019 was as follows:

Net investment income and realized gains and losses for federal income tax purposes may differ from that reported on the financial statements because of permanent book-to-tax differences. U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("U.S. GAAP") requires that permanent differences between financial reporting and tax reporting be reclassified between various components of net assets. These differences are primarily due to partnership adjustments, securities sold short, earnings and profits distributed to shareholders on the redemption of shares, net operating losses, realized gain on redemptions in kind, and expiration of capital losses.

Additionally, U.S. GAAP requires that certain components of net assets relating to permanent differences be reclassified between financial and tax reporting. These reclassifications have no effect on net assets or net asset value per share. For the year ended September 30, 2020, the following table shows the reclassifications made:

The Leuthold Select Industries Fund and Grizzly Short Fund intend to defer and treat $8,921 and $2,093,109, respectively, of qualified late year ordinary losses incurred during the fiscal year ended September 30, 2020 as arising on the first day of the fiscal year ending September 30, 2021.

As of September 30, 2020, the Funds had no tax positions that did not meet the "more-likely-than-not" threshold of being sustained by the applicable tax authority. Generally, tax authorities can examine all the tax returns filed for the last three years. The Funds recognize interest and penalties, if any, related to unrecognized tax benefits as income tax expense in the Statements of Operations. During the year ended September 30, 2020, the Funds did not incur any interest or penalties.

- d) Distributions to Shareholders Dividends from net investment income, if any, are declared and paid quarterly for the Leuthold Core Investment Fund, Leuthold Global Fund, Leuthold Select Industries Fund, and Grizzly Short Fund, and are declared and paid annually for the Leuthold Core ETF. Distributions of net realized capital gains, if any, are declared and paid at least annually.
- e) Use of Estimates The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

- f) Basis for Consolidation for the Leuthold Core Investment Fund and Leuthold Global Fund Leuthold Core, Ltd. and Leuthold Global, Ltd. (the "Subsidiaries") previously acted as investment vehicles in order to enter into certain investments for the Leuthold Core Investment Fund and Leuthold Global Fund, respectively. The Subsidiaries were liquidated in May 2018 and, therefore, the financial statements of these Funds are no longer consolidated.
- g) Securities Sold Short For financial statement purposes, an amount equal to the required amount of collateral to be segregated for securities sold short is included in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities as an asset. The amount of the securities sold short, shown as a liability, is subsequently marked-to-market to reflect the current value of the securities sold short. Subsequent fluctuations in the market prices of securities sold short may require purchasing the securities at prices which could differ from the amount reflected in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. The Funds are liable for any dividends or interest payable on securities sold short. As collateral for their securities sold short, the Funds are required under the 1940 Act to maintain segregated assets consisting of cash, cash equivalents, or liquid securities. These segregated assets are valued consistent with Note 1a. The amount of segregated assets is required to be adjusted daily to reflect changes in the fair value of the securities sold short. The Leuthold Core Investment Fund, Leuthold Global Fund, and Grizzly Short Fund's collateral at broker for securities sold short is with one major international security dealer.

With regard to the cash collateral that is posted with counterparties, the Funds have established a collateral account for each respective counterparty with its custodian (the "Account") and have entered into a tri-party agreement with the custodian and the respective counterparty regarding the transfer of assets to and from the Account.

The Adviser reviews each Account on a daily basis to ensure that the Account does not maintain a material amount of cash collateral in excess of what is required by the applicable counterparty (the amount of collateral required by such counterparty is subject to change and generally not known until the next business day, which necessitates the maintenance of a minimum amount of excess cash collateral). In the event that the excess cash collateral in an Account is equal to or in excess of the greater of $250,000 or 3% of the total assets of the applicable Fund calculated at each month end, then the applicable Fund, pursuant to the tri-party agreement, will instruct the custodian to sweep such excess cash collateral into the Fund's interest bearing account with the custodian. The amount of collateral held related to this tri-party agreement is included in the Statement of Assets and Liabilities as an asset.

- h) Other Investment and shareholder transactions are recorded on the trade date. The Funds determine the gain or loss realized from the investment transactions by comparing the original cost of the security lot sold with the net sales proceeds. The Funds utilize an identified lot approach to transactions. Dividend income is recognized on the ex-dividend date or as soon as information is available to the Funds, and interest income is recognized on an accrual basis. Discounts and premiums on bonds are amortized using the yield to maturity method over the life of the respective bond. For financial reporting purposes, the Funds isolate changes in the exchange rate of investment securities from the fluctuations arising from changes in the market prices of securities for realized gains and losses.
- i) Expenses Expenses that directly relate to one of the Funds are charged to that Fund. Other operating expenses of the Funds, such as Directors' fees and expenses, insurance expense, and legal fees are allocated between the Funds based on the relative net asset value of the individual Funds.

- j) Counterparty Risk Counterparty risk may arise as the result of the failure of a counterparty to a securities contract to comply with the terms of the contract. Potential counterparty risk is measured by the creditworthiness of the counterparty and additional risk may arise from unanticipated events affecting the value of the underlying security.
- k) Managed Futures Strategy/Commodities Risk (Leuthold Core ETF only) The Fund may invest in underlying investments that principally invest in the commodities markets through investment in managed futures programs. Such investments may subject an underlying investment to greater volatility than investments in traditional securities. Commodities are real assets such as oil, agriculture, livestock, industrial metals, and precious metals such as gold or silver. Prices of commodities and related contracts may fluctuate significantly over short periods for a variety of reasons, including weather and natural disasters; pandemics and other global health emergencies; governmental, agricultural, trade, fiscal, monetary, and exchange control programs and policies; acts of terrorism; tariffs; and U.S. and international economic, political, military and regulatory developments. The demand and supply of these commodities may also fluctuate widely based on such factors as interest rates, investors' expectations with respect to the rate of inflation, currency exchange rates, the production and cost levels of the producers and/or forward selling by such producers, global or regional political, economic, or financial events, purchases and sales by central banks, and trading activities by hedge funds and other commodity funds. Commodity underlying investments may use derivatives, such as futures, options, and swaps, which expose them to further risks, including counterparty risk (i.e., the risk that the institution on the other side of the trade will default).
- Shares May Trade at Prices Other Than NAV (Leuthold Core ETF only) As with all exchange traded funds ("ETFs"), shares may be bought and sold in the secondary market at market prices. Although it is expected that the market price of shares will approximate the Fund's net asset value ("NAV"), there may be times when the market price of shares is more than the NAV intra-day (premium) or less than the NAV intra-day (discount) due to supply and demand of shares or during periods of market volatility. This risk is heightened in times of market volatility, periods of steep market declines, and periods when there is limited trading activity for shares in the secondary market, in which case such premiums or discounts may be significant.
- m) Authorized Participants, Market Makers and Liquidity Providers Concentration Risk (Leuthold Core ETF only) The Fund has a limited number of financial institutions that may act as authorized participants ("APs"). In addition, there may be a limited number of market makers and/or liquidity providers in the marketplace. To the extent either of the following events occur, shares may trade at a material discount to NAV and possibly face delisting: (i) APs exit the business or otherwise become unable to process creation and/or redemption orders and no other APs step forward to perform these services, or (ii) market makers and/or liquidity providers exit the business or significantly reduce their business activities and no other entities step forward to perform their functions.
- n) Recently Issued Accounting Pronouncements In August 2018, the FASB issued ASU No. 2018-13, Fair Value Measurement (Topic 820): Disclosure Framework-Changes to the Disclosure Requirements for Fair Value Measurement, which changes the fair value measurement disclosure requirements of Topic 820. The amendments in ASU No. 2018-13 are the result of a broader disclosure project called FASB Concept Statement, Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting-Chapter 8: Notes to Financial Statements. The objective and primary focus of the project are to improve the effectiveness of disclosures in the notes to the financial statements. ASU No. 2018-13 is effective for all entities for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2019, including interim periods therein. Early adoption is permitted for any eliminated or modified disclosures upon issuance of ASU No. 2018-13. Management has chosen to early adopt the revised disclosures for the fiscal period ended September 30, 2020.

o) Subsequent Events – In preparing these financial statements, the Funds have evaluated events and transactions for potential recognition or disclosure through the date the financial statements were issued. The global outbreak of coronavirus disease 2019 ("COVID-19") has disrupted global economic markets and adversely affected individual companies and investment products. The prolonged economic impact of COVID-19 is uncertain. The operation and financial performance of the issuers of securities in which the Funds invest depends on future developments, including the duration and spread of the outbreak, and such uncertainty may in turn impact the value of the Funds' investments.

2. INVESTMENT TRANSACTIONS

Purchases and sales of investment securities, other than short-term investments and securities sold short, for the year ended September 30, 2020 are summarized below.

	Leuthold		Leuthold
	Core	Leuthold	Select	Leuthold
	Investment	Investment Global Industries		Core
	Fund	Fund Fund		ETF
Purchases	$ 271,210,658	$ 14,346,754	$ 7,058,607	$ 12,656,203
Sales	364,150,455	37,803,049	11,021,940	2,553,252

There were no purchases or sales of investment securities in the Grizzly Short Fund because this Fund invests only in securities sold short.

At September 30, 2020, gross unrealized appreciation and depreciation of investments and securities sold short and cost of investments and cost of securities sold short for tax purposes were as follows:

	Leuthold Core Investment Fund	Leuthold Global Fund	Leuthold Select Industries Fund	Grizzly Short Fund	Leuthold Core ETF
Tax cost of investments	$ 401,855,441	$ 22,940,546	$ 5,775,215	$ 98,064,864	$ 10,679,918

Unrealized depreciation	(7,233,351)	(1,832,786)	(63,410)		(57,061)
Net unrealized appreciation (depreciation)	$ 126,806,361	$ 1,826,126	$ 2,946,490	$ 	$ 656,639

The differences between book and tax basis of unrealized appreciation (depreciation) are primarily attributable to the tax deferral of losses on wash sales and passive foreign investment company transactions.

The Leuthold Core Investment Fund owned 5% or more of the voting securities of the following companies during the year ended September 30, 2020. As a result, these companies are deemed to be affiliates of the Leuthold Core Investment Fund as defined by the 1940 Act. #### 3. INVESTMENT ADVISORY AND OTHER AGREEMENTS

Each of the Funds has entered into an Investment Advisory Agreement ("advisory agreement") with the Adviser. Pursuant to its advisory agreement with the Funds, the Adviser is entitled to receive a fee, calculated daily as applied to each Fund's average daily net assets and payable monthly, at annual rates of:

Leuthold		Leuthold
Core	Leuthold	Select	Grizzly	Leuthold
Investment	Global	Industries	Short	Core
Fund	Fund	Fund	Fund	ETF
0.90%	0.90%	1.00%	1.25%	0.50%

The Adviser has agreed to waive its advisory fee and/or reimburse the Funds' other expenses, to the extent necessary to ensure that the Funds' total operating expenses (exclusive of interest, taxes, brokerage commissions, dividends and interest on securities sold short, and extraordinary items) do not exceed the following rates, based on each Fund's average daily net assets:

Leuthold		Leuthold
Core	Leuthold	Select	Grizzly	Leuthold
Investment	Global	Industries	Short	Core
Fund	Fund	Fund	Fund	ETF
1.25%	1.85%	1.50%	2.50%	0.65%

Any waiver or reimbursement is subject to later adjustments to allow the Adviser to recoup amounts previously waived or reimbursed to the extent actual fees and expenses for a fiscal period are less than each Fund's expense limitation, provided, however, that the recoupment period for the Adviser is limited to three years from the time the expenses were waived or incurred and is limited to the lesser of (1) the expense cap in effect at the time of the waiver, and (2) the expense cap in effect at the time of recapture.

Amounts subject to future recoupment as of September 30, 2020 are as follows:

U.S. Bancorp Fund Services, LLC ("Fund Services"), doing business as U.S. Bank Global Fund Services, serves as transfer agent, administrator, and accounting services agent for the Funds. U.S. Bank, N.A. serves as custodian for the Funds.

4. DISTRIBUTION PLAN

The Leuthold Global Fund – Retail Class has adopted a distribution plan pursuant to Rule 12b-1 under the 1940 Act, whereby Rafferty Capital Markets, LLC serves as distributor. This plan allows the Fund to use up to 0.25% of its average daily net assets to pay sales, distribution, and other fees for the sale of its shares and for services provided to investors. The Fund may pay all or a portion of this fee to any securities dealer, financial institution, or any other person who renders personal service to the Fund's shareholders, assists in the maintenance of the Fund's shareholder accounts, or who renders assistance in distributing or promoting the sale of shares of the Fund pursuant to a written agreement approved by the Directors. To the extent such fee is not paid to such persons, the Fund may use the fee for its expenses of distribution of its shares, including, but not limited to, payment by the Fund of the cost of preparing, printing, and distributing Prospectuses and Statements of Additional Information to prospective investors and of implementing and operating the plan.

5. SUB-TRANSFER AGENT AND SHAREHOLDER SERVICING FEE PLANS

The Funds are permitted to pay sub-transfer agent fees for various platform agreement not to exceed 0.15% of the Funds' average daily net assets. In addition, the Retail Class shares of the Leuthold Core Investment Fund, Leuthold Select Industries Fund, and Grizzly Short Fund have adopted a Shareholder Servicing Fee Plan not to exceed 0.15% of these Funds' Retail Class shares average daily net assets. These fees are used to finance certain activities related to servicing and maintaining shareholder accounts. Sub-transfer agent and shareholder servicing fees incurred by the Funds are disclosed in the Statements of Operations.

6. INDEMNIFICATIONS

The Funds enter into contracts that contain a variety of indemnifications. The Funds' maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown. However, the Funds have not had prior claims or losses pursuant to these contracts and expect the risk of loss to be remote.

7. ILLIQUID SECURITIES

Each Fund may invest up to 15% of net assets in illiquid investments. An "illiquid investment" is any investment that a Fund reasonably expects cannot be sold or disposed of in current market conditions in seven calendar days or less without the sale or disposition significantly changing the market value of the investment. A Fund will take into account relevant market, trading, and investment specific consideration when determining whether an investment is an illiquid investment. The illiquidity status of an investment is generally evaluated monthly. The 15% limitation may include securities whose disposition would be subject to legal restrictions ("restricted securities"). Restricted securities often have a market value lower than the market price of unrestricted securities of the same issuer and are not readily marketable without some time delay. This could result in a Fund being unable to realize a favorable price upon disposition of restricted securities and in some cases might make disposition of such securities at the time desired by the Fund impossible.

8. LENDING PORTFOLIO SECURITIES

The Funds may lend portfolio securities constituting up to 30% of total assets to unaffiliated broker dealers, banks, or other recognized institutional borrowers of securities, provided that the borrower at all times maintains cash, U.S. government securities or equivalent collateral or provides an irrevocable letter of credit in favor of the Funds equal in value to at least 100% of the value of the securities loaned. During the time portfolio securities are on loan, the borrower pays the lending Fund an amount equivalent to any dividends or interest paid on such securities, and the Fund may receive an agreed-upon amount of interest income from the borrower who delivered equivalent collateral or provided a letter of credit. Loans are subject to termination at the option of the lending Fund or the borrower. The lending Fund may pay reasonable administrative and custodial fees in connection with a loan of portfolio securities and may pay a negotiated portion of the interest earned on the cash or equivalent collateral to the borrower or placing broker. The lending Fund does not have the right to vote securities on loan but could terminate the loan and regain the right to vote if that were considered important with respect to the investment.

The primary risk in securities lending is a default by the borrower during a sharp rise in price of the borrowed security resulting in a deficiency in the collateral posted by the borrower. The Funds will seek to minimize this risk by requiring that the value of the securities loaned will be computed each day and additional collateral be furnished each day if required.

The Funds engaged in securities lending during the fiscal year ended September 30, 2020 but were not engaged in securities lending as of September 30, 2020.

Expense Examples – September 30, 2020 (Unaudited)

As a shareholder of the Funds, you incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, including redemption fees and exchange fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including management fees; distribution and/or service fees; and other Fund expenses. This example is intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Funds and to compare costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The Examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held the entire period (April 1, 2020 - September 30, 2020).

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following tables provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. Although the Funds charge no sales load (the Leuthold Core Investment Fund and Leuthold Global Fund charge a 2% redemption fee for redemptions made within five business days after a purchase), you will be assessed fees for outgoing wire transfers, returned checks, or stop payment orders at prevailing rates charged by U.S. Bancorp Fund Services, LLC, the Funds' transfer agent. If you request a redemption be made by wire transfer, currently a $15.00 fee is charged by the Funds' transfer agent. To the extent that the Funds invest in shares of other investment companies as part of its investment strategy, you will indirectly bear your proportionate share of any fees and expenses charged by the underlying funds in which a Fund invests in addition to the expenses of the Fund. Actual expenses of the underlying funds are expected to vary by fund. These expenses are not included in the following examples. The examples include, but are not limited to, management fees, shareholder servicing fees, fund accounting, custody, and transfer agent fees. However, the following examples do not include portfolio trading commissions and related expenses, and extraordinary expenses as determined under generally accepted accounting principles. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Examples for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following tables provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Funds' actual expense ratios and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Funds' actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Funds and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the tables are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as redemption fees or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the tables is useful in comparing ongoing costs only and will not help you determine the relative costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher.

LIQUIDITY RISK MANAGEMENT PROGRAM DISCLOSURE (Unaudited)

On May 11, 2020, the Directors of Leuthold Funds, Inc. reviewed and considered a written report prepared by the program administrator of the Funds' Liquidity Risk Management Program (the "Program"), the Funds' Liquidity Risk Management Committee (the "Program Administrator"), which addressed the operation of the Program and assessed the Program's adequacy and effectiveness of implementation for the most recent annual period (the "Review Period"). In considering the report, the Directors noted that the Program Administrator has determined that the Funds primarily hold, and continue to hold, assets that are highly liquid investments, and thus may rely on the exclusion from the requirements to determine and review a highly liquid investment minimum and to adopt shortfall policies and procedures. They then confirmed with the Program Administrator that no material changes were made to the Program, and reviewed all of the material features of the Program to ensure that they understand how the Program is designed to assess and manage the risk that the Funds could not meet requests to redeem shares issued by the Funds without significant dilution of remaining investors in the Funds. The Directors noted that the Program Administrator concluded that in all market conditions and under all Fund-specific stresses to date, the Funds have been able to meet redemption needs without significant dilution to the Funds' remaining investors during the Review Period. Following the Directors' review and discussion, they determined that they believe the disclosures in the report, taken as a whole, provide the information necessary for the Directors to effectively assess the Program and its implementation during the Review Period, and that they are comfortable with the report's conclusion that the Program is reasonably designed to assess and manage the Funds' liquidity risk and complies with the requirements of Rule 22e-4, and that the Program has operated as intended during the Review Period.

Basis for Opinion

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Funds' management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on each of the Funds' financial statements and financial highlights based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) ("PCAOB") and are required to be independent with respect to the Funds in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud. The Funds are not required to have, nor were we engaged to perform, an audit of the Funds' internal control over financial reporting. As part of our audits we are required to obtain an understanding of internal control over financial reporting but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Funds' internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion.

Our audits include performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our procedures included confirmation of securities owned as of September 30, 2020, by correspondence with the custodians and brokers. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.
