

FUND DESCRIPTION

The Fiera Capital Small/Mid-Cap Growth Fund (the “Fund”) seeks to achieve long-term capital growth. The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing in a diversified portfolio of common stocks of small and mid-cap growth-oriented companies that are selected for their long-term capital appreciation potential and which are expected to grow faster than the U.S. economy. The investment team believes the intersection of bottom-up stock selection and the identification of global secular growth trends is the key driver of results. The team allocates to a combination of stable growth and emerging growth companies, tilting the allocation based on their economic outlook.

Mutual fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible.

The Fund invests primarily in small capitalization equity securities which, like all equity securities, carry the potential for unpredictable drops in value and periods of lackluster performance. Foreign securities may not be subject to uniform audit and financial reporting and disclosure standards. In addition, the Fund's foreign investments may be subject to adverse changes in investment or exchange control regulations, expropriation or confiscatory taxation, political or social instability, and nationalization of companies or industries.
