Fund Profile

- Objective: long term capital appreciation with income as a secondary objective.
- Seek long term, above average risk adjusted rates of return.
- “Deep value” style of investing—“bottom up” focus on business fundamentals rather than on macro factors like direction of interest rates or economy.
- Diversified portfolio of equity and convertible securities issued by small and micro-cap firms which adviser believes are trading at significant discounts to underlying earnings power or asset value. Securities chosen will generally have market caps of less than $1 billion at time of investment. Disciplined trading strategy employed.
- Securities chosen are often out of favor or overlooked in marketplace, may trade at depressed prices which may not reflect true intrinsic value. Many will be neglected or orphaned stocks trading under the radar screen of large institutional investors.

All performance reflects reinvestment of distributions and does not reflect taxes payable on distributions or redemptions of shares held in taxable accounts. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. The investment return and principal value may fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than original cost. Shares redeemed within one year of purchase are subject to a 1% redemption fee payable to the Fund. Performance data does not reflect the redemption fee and, if reflected, total returns would be reduced. Adviser has contractually agreed to waive fees and/or reimburse expenses to extent required to maintain Fund net annual operating expenses at 1.49% (excluding extraordinary expenses and acquired fund fees and expenses).

Organization and Philosophy

Founded Jan. 2003, Bertolet Capital LLC is a registered investment adviser specializing in the analysis of small and micro-cap securities (under $1 billion market cap) purchased on a value basis. The firm is adviser to the Pinnacle Value Fund (PVFIX) an open end, diversified, SEC registered mutual fund.

We believe that small and micro-cap companies offer compelling return opportunities. They often operate niche businesses and focus on a limited number of areas where they excel. Balance sheets are often more conservative. Insiders are often major shareholders, aligning their interests with ours. They often generate excess cash flow which can be used for dividends, share repurchases, debt repayment and acquisitions. Such firms are often less well known and improperly priced by investors.

We focus on understanding the intrinsic value of a business, what it might sell for in a private transaction between rational, well informed parties. We are buying a piece of a real business, not a stock certificate. A strict fundamental approach emphasizes understanding management priorities, balance sheets, cash flows, internal rates of return and the strategic, operating and financial dynamics impacting the business. We attempt to purchase securities which we feel are trading at a substantial discount to its underlying asset value or earnings power. We are conservative and prefer a wide margin of safety.

We are risk averse and attempt to limit risks in several ways. First, we are adequately diversified across multiple industries and companies. Next, we have the ability to hold significant cash in the absence of suitable investment ideas. Finally, we are disciplined in the prices we accept, and are extremely patient in waiting for the right price.

Active share is the percentage of stockholdings that differ from the benchmark and indicates the extent of active fund management. The higher the active share, the less overlap with the benchmark. Standard deviation is a statistical measure of return volatility. The lower the standard deviation, the lower a fund's volatility. The Sharpe Ratio uses a fund's standard deviation and its excess return (difference between a fund's return and the risk free rate of return) to determine reward per unit of risk. The higher a fund's Sharpe Ratio, the higher a fund's risk adjusted rate of return.

This material is not authorized for distribution unless preceded or accompanied by a current prospectus which should be read carefully before investing. The Fund invests primarily in small cap stocks which may involve more risk than investing in large cap stocks. Mutual fund investing involves risk and loss of principal is possible. The Fund generally invests a significant portion of its assets in a limited number of stocks which may involve more risk than a broadly defined portfolio because a decline in value of any one stock may cause the Fund's overall value to decline by a greater degree. The Fund's investment objectives, risks and expenses must be considered carefully before investing.
