MassMutual Select Funds – President's Letter to Shareholders (Unaudited)

To Our Shareholders

Paul LaPiana

"MassMutual recognizes that talking about your future can be uncomfortable. That's why we're here – to help you build the future you want for yourself and your family. For nearly 170 years, through ups and downs and good times and bad, we have helped our clients protect their loved ones and prepare for a better tomorrow."

The return of market volatility challenges retirement investors

I am pleased to present you with the MassMutual Select Funds Annual Report. During the fiscal year ended September 30, 2021, U.S. stocks were up over 30%, with investors seeing an end in sight to the global economic recession brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic. Foreign stocks in developed markets and emerging markets also experienced strong gains in the fiscal year, aided by increasing economic activity, generous fiscal and monetary stimulus, and strong corporate earnings throughout the reporting period. U.S. bond investors experienced negative returns in the rising interest rate environment, fueled by an increase in economic growth expectations, heightened inflationary pressures, and a lessening of monetary and fiscal policy support.

The return of volatility and the reality of market sell-offs can test an investor's mettle, but also serve to remind investors that it's important to maintain perspective and have realistic expectations about the future performance of your investment accounts. As described in this report, financial markets can reverse suddenly with little or no notice. That's why we continue to believe that retirement investors should create and maintain a plan that focuses on their goals, how long they have to invest, and how comfortable they are with market volatility.

Suggestions for retirement investors under any market conditions

- You are likely in it for the long term. Retirement planning involves what financial professionals refer to as "long-term investing," since most people save and invest for retirement throughout their working years. Although the financial markets will go up and down, individuals who take a long-term approach to investing realize that they have time to ride out the downturns as they work toward their retirement income goals.
- Keep contributing. While you have no control over the investment markets, you can control how often and how much you contribute to your retirement account. Saving as much as possible and increasing your contributions regularly is one way retirement investors can help boost their retirement savings, regardless of the performance of the stock and bond markets.
- Invest continually.* Financial professionals often advise their clients to stay in the market, regardless of short-term results. Here's why: Retirement investors who can invest in all market conditions have the potential to be rewarded even during market downturns, when more favorable prices may enable them to accumulate larger positions.
- Monitor your asset allocation and diversify. Stocks, bonds, and short-term/money market investments are asset classes that tend to behave differently, depending upon the economic and market environment. These broad asset classes contain an even greater array of asset sub-categories (such as small-cap stocks, international stocks, and high-yield bonds). Most financial professionals agree that investors can take advantage of different opportunities in the market and reduce the risk of over-exposure to one or two poorly performing asset types by selecting a number of investments that represent a mix of asset classes and sub-categories.

*Systematic investing and asset allocation do not ensure a profit or protect against loss in a declining market. Systematic investing involves continuous investment in securities regardless of fluctuating price levels. Investors should consider their ability to continue investing through periods of low price levels.

Is it time to track your progress?

If you work with a financial professional, you may wish to consider checking in with him or her to help you determine if:

- you are saving enough for retirement;
- your retirement account is invested appropriately for all market conditions, based on your goals and objectives, as well as your investment time horizon; and
- you are taking steps to help reduce your longevity risk, which is the chance that you could "run out" of retirement savings during your lifetime.

Get to where you want to be

Sincerely,

De Lika

MassMutual Select Funds Annual Report – Economic and Market Overview (Unaudited)

September 30, 2021

Market Highlights

- For the reporting period from October 1, 2020 through September 30, 2021, U.S. stocks were up over 30%, with investors seeing an end in sight to the global economic recession brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic.
- In the fourth quarter of 2020, investors looked past rising COVID-19 cases and responded positively to global plans to roll out COVID-19 vaccinations, further fiscal stimulus, and a post-Brexit trade agreement between the U.K. and the European Union. ("Brexit" an abbreviation for "British exit" refers to the United Kingdom's withdrawal from the European Union on January 31, 2020.)
- In the first quarter of 2021, investors embraced falling COVID-19 case counts, a faster-than-expected vaccination rollout, another round of fiscal stimulus, and upgrades to economic growth and corporate earnings forecasts.
- The second quarter of 2021 was a continuation of the prior quarter, with a significant percentage of the U.S. population receiving at least one dose of the vaccine and the widescale reopening of the economy. Concerns about inflation began to emerge, as the sharp rise in the demand for goods, services, homes, and labor outpaced supply.
- In the third quarter of 2021, another wave of rising COVID-19 case counts slowed economic growth and heightened supply shortages and inflationary pressures. Expectations for the tightening of monetary policy and the U.S. Congress's procrastination to pass a bill to avert a government shutdown in October added to the uncertainty.
- Foreign stocks in developed markets and emerging markets also experienced strong gains in the fiscal year, aided by increasing economic activity, generous fiscal and monetary stimulus, and strong corporate earnings throughout the reporting period.
- U.S. bond investors experienced negative returns in the rising interest rate environment, fueled by an increase in economic growth expectations, heighted inflationary pressures, and a lessening of monetary and fiscal policy support.

Market Environment

Global stock investors experienced declining levels of volatility and strong positive returns for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 2020. U.S. stocks rose steadily in the period, buoyed by the Federal Reserve Board's commitment to low interest rates, additional rounds of fiscal stimulus, rising expectations for strong economic growth, and rebounding corporate earnings. As a result, the broad market S&P 500[®] Index* (the "S&P 500") delivered a strong 30.00% return for the fiscal year. The Dow Jones Industrial AverageSM was also up a respectable 24.15%. The technology-heavy NASDAQ Composite Index was also a big winner, advancing 30.26% for the fiscal year. Small- and mid-cap stocks outperformed their larger peers, as small-caps gained 47.68% – while value stocks outperformed their growth counterparts by approximately 8% during the period.

The continued market recovery, additional fiscal stimulus, conclusion of the U.S. presidential election, expectations for the tightening of monetary policy, and heightened inflationary pressures affected sectors differently, though all 11 sectors were in positive territory for the fiscal year. The energy, financial, and communication services sectors led in performance, enjoying double-digit growth, as they outperformed the S&P 500. The energy sector was the strongest performer for the fiscal year, up over 80%, aided by an 87% increase in the price of West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude oil during the period. The utilities and consumer staples sectors trailed the S&P 500, each by nearly 20%.

Developed international markets, as measured by the MSCI EAFE[®] Index, trailed their domestic peers, ending the fiscal year up 25.73%. Emerging-market stocks, as measured by the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, ended up 18.20% for the period. Developed international and emerging-market stocks benefited from increasing economic activity, generous fiscal and monetary stimulus, and strong corporate earnings during the fiscal year.

MassMutual Select Funds Annual Report – Economic and Market Overview (Unaudited) (Continued)

Bond yields rose sharply during the fiscal year, with the 10-year U.S. Treasury bond yield rising from a low of 0.68% on October 1, 2020 to close the period at 1.52%. Rising yields generally produce falling bond prices; consequently, bond index returns suffered. The Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index ended the period down 0.90%. Investment-grade corporate bonds fared somewhat better. The Bloomberg U.S. Corporate Bond Index, which tracks investment-grade corporate bonds, ended the period with a 1.74% gain. The Bloomberg U.S. Corporate High Yield Bond Index also ended in positive territory, advancing 11.28%, aided by a sharp increase in commodity prices.

MassMutual Total Return Bond Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Total Return Bond Fund*, and who is the Fund's subadviser?

The Fund seeks maximum total return, consistent with preservation of capital and prudent investment management, by investing, under normal circumstances, at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in a diversified portfolio of investment grade fixed income securities (rated Baa3 or higher by Moody's, BBB- or higher by Standard & Poor's, BBB- or higher by Fitch, or A-2 by S&P, P-2 by Moody's, or F-2 by Fitch for short-term debt obligations, or, if unrated, determined by the Fund's subadviser to be of comparable quality). The Fund's subadviser is Metropolitan West Asset Management, LLC (MetWest).

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Total Return Bond Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class I shares returned 0.24%, outperforming the -0.90% return of the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the investment grade, U.S. dollar-denominated, fixed-rate taxable bond market securities, including Treasuries, government-related and corporate securities, mortgage-backed securities (MBS) (agency fixed-rate and hybrid ARM pass-throughs), asset-backed securities (ABS), and commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS).

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

For the year ended September 30, 2021, credit issue selection delivered a boost to the Fund's returns, with notable contributions coming from finance companies, communications such as wirelines, and non-cyclical health care, as these also outpaced the benchmark. Further benefiting returns was the Fund's allocation to high yield, as that sector was one of the best-performing in the fixed income universe. In securitized products, residential mortgage sectors rewarded the Fund, supported by a strong housing market characterized by annualized double-digit home price appreciation, scant supply, and robust demand. Notable contributors included Fund holdings such as Alt-A and option ARM legacy non-agency MBS as well as low-coupon agency MBS TBAs. ("Agency" refers to debt issued by U.S. federal government agencies or government-sponsored entities for financing purposes. In a TBA or "to be announced" trade, the seller of MBS agrees on a sale price, but does not specify which securities will be delivered to the buyer on settlement day.) The MBS TBAs continued to benefit from significant purchases by the Federal Reserve Board (the "Fed"), evidenced by their ongoing "specialness," which represents the additional yield an investor receives by holding TBAs versus specific mortgage pools. Adding to relative returns were Fund holdings in CMBS as well as ABS, particularly floating-rate government guaranteed student loans. Finally, amid loftier rates, a shorter-than-benchmark duration profile bolstered the Fund's relative performance. Duration is a measure of a bond fund's sensitivity to interest rates. The longer the duration, the greater the price impact on the bond or portfolio when interest rates rise or fall.

Turning to the downside, hampering the Fund's performance was its defensive posture, as those with more macro risk generally outperformed given the strong economic rebound from COVID-19-induced volatility. Specifically, an underweight allocation to credit sensitive industries, such as energy and cyclicals detracted from performance.

The Fund's use of derivatives to manage duration and yield curve positioning had a minimal impact on performance. Derivatives are securities that derive their value from the performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Most derivatives are used for hedging, speculation, or both.

Subadviser outlook

Looking ahead, MetWest believes that the record-setting equity gains and historically tight fixed income spreads are unsustainable, particularly considering the massive debt and deficit overhang that will have to be dealt with. Additionally, the Fed (along with central banks globally) will likely have a difficult job in trying to manage stimulus withdrawal, especially as the list of "unknowns" grows. In MetWest's view, risks include the potential for meaningful volatility due to a possible Fed mistake, higher inflation, slowing growth, elevated leverage, and a change in the course of COVID-19. As such, Fund management believes that the Fed could be quicker to increase accommodation than to reduce it. Despite this vulnerable environment, in MetWest's opinion, caution is warranted (especially in credit) as the disparate indicators will need to be reconciled. While it's hard to know exactly how that will happen, in Fund management's view, it won't be a smooth process.

Performance results in the graph and table are shown both with and without the imposition of the maximum applicable sales charge (if applicable) and reflect the percentage change in net asset value, including reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions. Investors should note that the Fund is a professionally managed mutual fund, while the index or indexes shown above are unmanaged, cannot be purchased directly, and, with the exception of any peer group index, do not incur expenses.

Performance data quoted in the graph and table represents past performance; past performance is not predictive of future results. The investment return and principal value of shares of the Fund fluctuate, so your shares, when sold, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Current performance of the Fund may be lower or higher than the performance quoted. The performance shown does not reflect the deduction of taxes, if any, that a shareholder would pay on Fund distributions or the redemption of Fund shares. Performance data current to the most recent month end may be obtained by calling 1-888-309-3539.

Investors should read the Fund's prospectus with regard to the Fund's investment objectives, risks, and charges and expenses in conjunction with these financial statements. Employee retirement benefit plans that invest plan assets in the Separate Investment Accounts (SIAs) may be subject to certain charges as set forth in their respective Plan Documents. Total return figures would be lower for the periods presented if they reflected these charges.

MassMutual Strategic Bond Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Strategic Bond Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks a superior total rate of return by investing in fixed income instruments. Under normal circumstances, the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in U.S. dollar-denominated fixed income securities and other debt instruments of domestic and foreign entities, including corporate bonds, securities issued or guaranteed as to principal or interest by the U.S. Government or its agencies or instrumentalities, mortgage-backed securities, and money market instruments. The Fund's subadvisers are Western Asset Management Company, LLC (Western Asset) and its affiliate, Western Asset Management Company Limited (Western Asset Limited), which were responsible for approximately 59% of the Fund's portfolio (Western Asset Limited manages the non-U.S. dollar denominated investments of the Fund); and Brandywine Global Investment Management, LLC (Brandywine Global), which was responsible for approximately 41% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021. Effective August 10, 2021, Brandywine Global was added as a subadviser of the Fund.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Strategic Bond Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 1.61%, outperforming the -0.90% return of the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the investment grade, U.S. dollar-denominated, fixed-rate taxable bond market securities, including Treasuries, government-related and corporate securities, mortgage-backed securities (MBS) (agency fixed-rate and hybrid ARM pass-throughs), asset-backed securities (ABS), and commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS).

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

With respect to the Western Asset component of the Fund, both investment-grade and high-yield credit exposures contributed positively to performance, as spreads tightened considerably during the period ended September 30, 2021. Credit spreads represent the difference in yields between nearly identical bonds with comparable maturities, but different quality ratings. Exposures to structured products, including non-agency residential and CMBS, as well as ABS, also contributed over the 12-month period. "Agency" refers to debt issued by U.S. federal government agencies or government-sponsored entities for financing purposes. Western Asset's emerging markets exposures, which included both local currency and U.S. dollar-denominated positions, also meaningfully contributed to performance over the period, led by local currency exposures, given a generally weaker U.S. dollar.

In aggregate, Western Asset's top-down macro strategies detracted from performance. For most of the period, the Western Asset Fund component had more interest rate exposure (duration) than the benchmark, which detracted from performance as interest rates rose meaningfully from the beginning to the end of the period. (Duration is a measure of a bond fund's sensitivity to interest rates. The longer the duration, the greater the price impact on the bond or portfolio when interest rates rise or fall.) Over the period, the 10-year U.S. Treasury yield rose from 0.69% to 1.52%. In addition, the 5s-30s section of the curve, which compares 5-year rates to 30-year rates, ended the period slightly flatter than it began. Thus, Western Asset's yield curve positioning, which was biased toward a yield curve flattening environment, modestly contributed to returns. (The yield curve is a graph showing the term structure of interest rates by plotting the yields of all bonds of comparable quality with maturities ranging from the shortest – typically one month – to the longest – typically 30 years – available. The resulting curve shows whether short-term interest rates are higher or lower than long-term rates.) Finally, Western Asset used derivative instruments mainly for hedging purposes during the period, including adjusting duration and term structure exposures. The portfolio also used currency forwards and options to adjust exposure to various foreign currencies. Derivatives are used for hedging, speculation, or both. Overall, the portfolio's use of derivatives contributed to performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Most derivatives are used for hedging, speculation, or both. Overall, the portfolio's use of derivatives contributed to performance during the period.

During the portion of the period that Brandywine Global served as a subadviser of the Fund (August 10, 2021–September 30, 2021), the Brandywine Global Fund component benefited from its notable underweight allocations to both benchmark duration and corporate credit exposure. Brandywine Global was invested in highly liquid positions with limited interest rate sensitivity (such as treasury floaters), paired with a small amount of corporate credit exposure. The Fund component's corporate credit holdings and its underweight allocation to U.S. Treasury duration drove performance during the reporting period. Conversely, while relatively small in their allocation size and overall impact, the limited number of Fund component holdings in MBS worked against Brandywine Global in absolute and relative terms, over the period. Brandywine Global used U.S. Ultra Bond Futures to add an average of 0.86 years of U.S. Treasury duration into its portfolio. The performance result of these positions was benign, although this derivative use did detract modestly from the Brandywine Global's absolute performance during the reporting period.

Subadviser outlook

Western Asset's base case outlook is for continued improvement in global gross domestic product growth in the coming year as well as higher inflation as the world economy recovers on continued progress with the COVID-19 vaccination rollout. That stated, Western Asset is cautious about extrapolating short-term cyclical boosts into a presumption of a higher secular trend rate of growth or inflation. After the reopening bounce, Western Asset believes that the uncertainty of what lies ahead necessitates policy caution. Slowly rising long-term core inflation rates, with a broadening economic recovery, is the objective. The secular challenges that have kept U.S. and global growth to a moderate pace at best over the last several decades persist. These include the stagnation of Western societies' middle-class wages, aging demographics, and rising global debt burdens. Given this backdrop, Western Asset expects central banks could remain extraordinarily accommodative for the foreseeable future and that strategic portfolio diversification should remain paramount.

Looking ahead, Brandywine Global expects either a spread-widening event in corporate credit, a sharp rise in Treasury yields, or a mix of both, which could create forward-looking value anomalies worthy of more material investment weightings. Were such market conditions to unfold, Brandywine Global would look to reposition from its currently reserved absolute risk posture towards higher-conviction weightings in the affected asset segments.

MassMutual Diversified Value Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Diversified Value Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks to achieve long-term growth of capital and income by investing primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity securities of larger, well-established companies. The Fund invests primarily in stocks of companies that the subadvisers believe are undervalued in the marketplace. While the Fund does not limit its investments to issuers in a particular capitalization range, the subadvisers currently focus on securities of larger size companies. The Fund normally invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in stocks, securities convertible into stocks, and other securities, such as warrants and stock rights, whose value is based on stock prices. The Fund's subadvisers are T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. (T. Rowe Price), which was responsible for approximately 35% of the Fund's portfolio; and Brandywine Global Investment Management, LLC (Brandywine Global), which managed approximately 65% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Diversified Value Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 39.38%, outperforming the 35.01% return of the Russell $1000^{\ensuremath{\mathbb{R}}}$ Value Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the large-cap value segment of U.S. equity securities. It includes the Russell 1000 Index companies with lower price-to-book ratios and lower expected growth values. It is market-capitalization weighted.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

With respect to the Brandywine Global component of the Fund, Brandywine notes that the reporting period began with strong performance from higher-priced companies within the value benchmark. Eventually, however, there was a pronounced rotation into lower-valuation companies. The Brandywine Global Fund component benefited by maintaining an underweight allocation to the safety of higher dividend-yielding sectors, such as utilities and consumer staples, while maintaining substantial exposure to banking and consumer finance industries within the financial sector. The technology sector was another area of strength for Brandywine Global. Despite maintaining a substantial overweight allocation to this underperforming sector, the strong performance by Fund component holding Oracle in the software industry helped to drive performance. Elsewhere, the global shortage of chips benefited semiconductor equipment manufacturers, such as Fund component holding Applied Materials. On the downside, health care is a defensive sector that lagged the broader market. Brandywine Global held an overweight allocation to this underperformed. Biopharmaceutical company Amgen was a top detractor from the Fund component's performance after it published a disappointing earnings release from weaker drug sales.

Within the T. Rowe Price component of the Fund, stock selection in the financial sector was the biggest contributor to relative performance, led by Fund holding Wells Fargo. Shares of the bank ended the period higher as consumer credit resilience and other factors boosted performance. The materials sector also aided relative results, due to Fund holdings like CF Industries, a manufacturer and distributor of agricultural fertilizers. Shares of the company ended the period higher, driven by an earnings report that showed the company executed well in an uncertain environment driven by unfavorable weather. Fund holdings in the industrials and business services sector also contributed to relative performance, led by General Electric. On the downside, Fund component holding Las Vegas Sands in the consumer discretionary sector was the largest relative detractor. Shares fell over the period due to coronavirus-driven uncertainty as vaccine distribution began and a return to leisure travel was uncertain. The energy sector also detracted from relative results for the period, driven by unfavorable stock selection, although a favorable overweight allocation to the sector partially offset losses.

The T. Rowe Price component of the Fund held warrants during the period, which generated minimal exposure and had a minimal impact on performance. Derivatives are securities that derive their value from the performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Derivatives can be used for hedging, speculation, or both.

Brandywine Global observes that the world has gone through a tremendous amount of change over the last 18 months. Nevertheless, Brandywine Global has adhered to its investment philosophy of dispassionately focusing on undervalued companies and avoiding companies with unattractive quantitative and fundamental characteristics. The long overdue rebound in value only began during the last quarter of 2020 and has slowed recently. Brandywine Global believes in mean reversion over longer cycles and staunchly believes this could simply signal a pause in the rotation away from growth.

T. Rowe Price believes the potential exists for a decent recovery for the economy. They do ponder one key question, however: How much of this good news is already priced into the markets? While the market is historically on the expensive side, there are few realistic alternatives to equities, and equities within the value universe may benefit due to the regulatory and valuation concerns of big technology companies. As of September 30, 2021, the outlook for COVID-19 was improving, although the pace of global vaccine progress and "immune escape" variants created near-term market concerns. Looking ahead, T. Rowe Price believes selectivity will be key in investing, as certain areas of the market have become expensive due to the strong rebound since March 2020.

MassMutual Fundamental Value Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Fundamental Value Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks long-term total return by investing primarily in equity securities of issuers that the Fund's subadvisers believe are undervalued. Under normal circumstances, the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in equity securities, with a focus on companies with large market capitalizations (which the subadvisers believe are generally above $1 billion). The Fund's subadvisers are Boston Partners Global Investors, Inc. (Boston Partners), which managed approximately 49% of the Fund's portfolio; and Barrow, Hanley, Mewhinney & Strauss, LLC (Barrow Hanley), which managed approximately 51% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Fundamental Value Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 41.74%, significantly outperforming the 35.01% return of the Russell 1000[®] Value Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the large-cap value segment of U.S. equity securities. It includes the Russell 1000 Index companies with lower price-to-book ratios and lower expected growth values. It is market-capitalization weighted.

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

For the period ended September 30, 2021, within the Boston Partners component of the Fund, the primary driver of performance was stock selection within the information technology, communication services, and industrial sectors. Within information technology, semiconductor equipment companies Applied Materials, Lam Research, and KLA were three Fund component holdings that benefited from increased capital spending by manufacturers. Avoiding underperforming benchmark constituent Intel also contributed. Fund component holdings in the communication services sector that were standouts were internet-related companies Alphabet and Facebook, which both continued to report strong earnings. Within the industrial sector, machinery company Deere aided relative performance, as agriculture fundamentals were extremely strong, as was equipment demand. Stock selection detracted within the materials and financial sectors. In materials, Boston Partners' positions in gold miners Yamana and Kinross underperformed relative to more economically sensitive materials companies that are expected to benefit more from the reopening of the global economies. In the financial sector, an overweight allocation to auto insurer Progressive detracted on a relative basis, as the company performance.

Within the Fund's Barrow Hanley component, an underweight allocation to and stock selection within the consumer staples sector, and stock selection within the health care and industrial sectors added to Barrow Hanley's relative performance during the period. On the other hand, stock selection in the communication services, energy, and real estate sectors detracted from the Barrow Hanley Fund component's performance.

Boston Partners plans to continue to maintain a focus on finding investments that have not only attractive valuation characteristics and solid business fundamentals, but also improving business momentum and catalysts to help drive stock prices higher. Boston Partners' view is that the global economy could see a steady cyclical recovery over the next few years.

In Barrow Hanley's opinion, the primary conditions needed for a sustained, impactful value run - including higher inflation, rising interest rates, and reasonable economic growth – are not only potentially present, but they are also more pronounced than they were in the fourth quarter of 2020. Barrow Hanley's view is that not only has the value set-up improved, but value stocks have the potential to outperform their growth counterparts over the next four quarters.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Service Class shares returned 29.63%, underperforming the 30.00% return of the Index, which measures the performance of 500 widely held stocks in the U.S. equity market.

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

Generally, the Fund's underperformance versus the Index was mainly attributable to the impact of fees and expenses necessary for the management and operation of the Fund. The Index is not subject to fees, expenses, or taxes and it is not possible to invest directly in the Index.

During the period ended September 30, 2021, global equities continued to rally from the 2020 lows brought on by COVID-19. The fourth quarter of 2020 was strongly positive, with a major boost from positive news around vaccine development and distribution. During the first quarter of 2021, continued rising interest rates and inflation concerns weighed on equity returns – but inoculation, economic reopening, and stimulus tailwinds proved powerful enough to result in modestly positive returns. In the second quarter, government bond yields settled, while U.S. equities – and growth stocks in particular – rebounded from mid-quarter pressure. Global equities advanced, as improving economic growth, policy support, and strong earnings overcame peak growth and excess inflation. Global equities were flat in the third quarter due to investor concerns on peak growth, inflation, and unwinding stimulus in September. U.S. small-cap value stocks were the strongest-performing market segment for the year, while emerging markets were the weakest, although still in positive territory.

The top-performing sectors within the Index were energy and financial, returning 82.95% and 59.14%, respectively. The energy sector benefited as prices moved sharply higher over the last six months, with natural gas at the forefront. The financial sector was helped by a rally in interest rates late in the third quarter.

Utilities and consumer staples were the worst-performing sectors for this period, with returns of 10.97% and 11.34%, respectively. Defensive sectors, such as utilities and consumer staples, were impacted, as investor worries began to fade.

The Fund uses equity futures to equitize/gain market exposure for relatively small amounts of cash in the Fund in order to minimize the uninvested cash balances and reduce the impact of any cash drag. Derivatives are securities that derive their value from the performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Derivatives can be used for hedging, speculation, or both.

Subadviser outlook

Looking ahead, NTI believes that the uncertainty concerning inflation and unwinding of stimulus measures is likely to prevail.

MassMutual Equity Opportunities Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Equity Opportunities Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks growth of capital over the long-term by investing primarily in equity securities of U.S. companies that the Fund's subadvisers believe are financially sound, valued conservatively by the market, and have improving prospects. Under normal circumstances, the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in equity securities. The Fund's subadvisers are T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. (T. Rowe Price), which was responsible for approximately 28% of the Fund's portfolio; and Wellington Management Company LLP (Wellington Management), which managed approximately 72% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Equity Opportunities Fund.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

Within the Wellington Management component of the Fund, weak stock selection drove relative results, particularly within the industrial, consumer discretionary, and materials sectors. This was partially offset by stock selection within the consumer staples sector. Sector allocation also detracted from the Fund component's relative performance. Wellington Management's overweight allocation to consumer staples and lack of exposure to the energy and communication services sectors detracted the most. This was partially offset by the Fund component's overweight allocation to the financial sector and lack of exposure to utilities. Top relative detractors for the period included Fund component holding consumer products company Colgate-Palmolive (consumer staples) and not holding Alphabet (communication services), a leading internet search provider (and parent company of Google). Shares of Colgate-Palmolive declined over the period as organic growth reported for the second quarter fell short of consensus expectations and management noted that the civil unrest and political disruptions in Columbia and Myanmar acted as headwinds to sales. Alphabet reported strong earnings in the second quarter, driven by accelerating Cloud and YouTube revenues. Although Alphabet's stock traded up over the period, near the close of the fiscal year, shares came under pressure after the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission found that Google used its position to preference its own services and shield them from competition in ad-tech services. The commission subsequently called for new regulatory solutions. Top relative discretionary). Shares of American Express benefited from a significant reserve release in the second quarter. Revenue beat consensus estimates, driven by strong consumer spending. Management revised revenue guidance upward for 2021, as travel and expense spending recovered faster than previously expected. Amazon was a major COVID-19 beneficiary, however, in anticipation of economies reopening and the continuation of

For the T. Rowe Price component of the Fund, adverse stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector detracted from relative returns for the year ended September 30, 2021. Shares of casino owner Las Vegas Sands fell over the period due to coronavirus-driven uncertainty as vaccine distribution began and the timing for a return to leisure travel was unclear. Later in the period, reported earnings for this Fund component holding continued to show uncertainty – particularly with respect to when Macau and Singapore, from which Las Vegas Sands derives a majority of its revenue, would return to more normal operations. Detrimental stock choices in the energy sector also had a negative impact on relative results, although this was largely offset by the Fund component's advantageous overweight exposure to the top-performing sector. Turning to the positive, the financial sector was the top contributor to T. Rowe Price's performance for the period due to favorable stock selection. Shares of Fund component holding Wells Fargo ended the period higher, as consumer credit resilience, among other factors, boosted performance. Strong stock choices in the materials sector, such as CF Industries, a manufacturer and distributor of nitrogen fertilizer, also contributed to relative performance. Shares of this Fund component holding ended the period higher, as the company executed well in an uncertain environment driven by unfavorable weather. The T. Rowe Price component of the Fund held warrants during the period, which generated minimal exposure and had a minimal impact on performance. Subadviser outlook

Wellington Management believes that the degree of confidence prevailing from market observers and participants alike seems extreme. In Fund management's view, those who are generally more upbeat continue to express the positive narrative with a strong voice, buoyed by several years of success. Many of the more cautious observers, like Wellington Management, remain equally confident that the clouds on the horizon are dark and many. In Wellington Management's view, these are the most uncertain of times. Management believes that growth, low rates, productivity, and the cycle remain constructive factors for markets, while COVID-19, China, inflation, and the political environment remain challenges. Wellington Management believes that, while it is important to have a view and execute accordingly, it would be folly to do so with excessive confidence. At the end of the period, the Wellington Management Fund component had its largest overweight allocation to the consumer staples and health care sectors, and its greatest underweight allocation to the information technology sector.

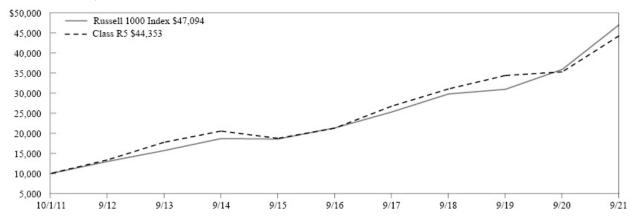

T. Rowe Price believes the potential exists for a decent recovery for the economy. They do ponder one key question, however: How much of this good news is already priced into the markets? While the market is historically on the expensive side, there are few realistic alternatives to equities, and equities within the value universe may benefit due to the regulatory and valuation concerns of big technology companies. As of September 30, 2021, the outlook for COVID-19 was improving, although the pace of global vaccine progress and "immune escape" variants created near-term market concerns. Looking ahead, T. Rowe Price believes selectivity will be key in investing, as certain areas of the market have become expensive due to the strong rebound since March 2020.

MassMutual Fundamental Growth Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Fundamental Growth Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks long-term growth of capital by investing primarily in domestic equity securities that the Fund's subadvisers believe offer the potential for long-term growth. While the Fund may invest in issuers of any size, the Fund currently focuses on securities of mid-capitalization companies. The Fund's subadvisers are Westfield Capital Management Company, L.P. (Westfield), which was responsible for approximately 48% of the Fund's portfolio; and Wellington Management Company LLP (Wellington Management), which managed approximately 52% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Fundamental Growth Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 28.29%, underperforming the 30.45% return of the Russell Midcap[®] Growth Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the mid-cap growth segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes Russell Midcap Index companies with higher price-to-book ratios and higher forecasted growth values. It is market-capitalization weighted.

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

In the Wellington Management component of the Fund, sector allocation, a residual of Wellington Management's bottom-up stock selection process, weighed on performance, driven by underweight allocations, relative to the benchmark, to information technology and real estate, and overweight allocations to communication services and consumer discretionary. Weak security selection within the health care, financial, and information technology sectors also detracted from relative performance. This was partially offset by stronger security selection within the consumer discretionary and communication services sectors. Fund component holdings that were top detractors from relative returns included Incyte and BWX Technologies. Incyte is a U.S.-based biopharmaceutical company with leading blood-cancer drug Jakafi. The stock price fell amid FDA approval headwinds in the company's new dermatology cream, Ruxolitinib Cream. Wellington Management subsequently exited the position. The share price of BWX Technologies, a nuclear component and product supplier, also fell over the period. In its most recent quarterly release, BWX Technologies management announced results below expectations due to headwinds in its Navy division, as temporary COVID-19- and capital expenditure-related disruptions pressured results. Fund component holdings that were top contributors to relative performance included KLA and CDW. The share price of KLA, a supplier of process controls for the semiconductor industry, rose as management topped expectations on consecutive earnings releases and delivered fiscal third-quarter guidance above consensus. Shares of CDW, a dominant value-added reseller of IT products and services, rose during the period, as CDW management reported strong earnings that beat consensus in all four reporting periods. Wellington Management trimmed its position in CDW but retained an overweight position as of September 30, 2021.

Within the Westfield component of the Fund, Fund component holdings in the health care sector were the top detractors from relative results. Targeted therapeutics company Ascendis Pharma was the largest detractor, due to a volatile first quarter in the biotech industry, in tandem with the absence of material fundamental news flow for the company. Fund component holdings within the financial sector were the primary drivers of Westfield's for positive relative performance to the benchmark. For example, Synchrony Financial, a leading U.S. consumer lender, was the sector's top contributor over the period. Fund component holdings within the consumer discretionary sector also added to Westfield's performance during the period. Williams-Sonoma, Inc., a home products retailer, was the top contributor. The company experienced robust demand across its key brands, driven by increased consumer interest in investing in their homes and the company's strong omni-channel capabilities.

Subadviser outlook

Wellington Management remains constructive, overall, on the macroeconomic backdrop in the U.S., recognizing there could be some bumps along the way. While Wellington Management notes that historically, they have tended to have overweight allocations to software, recently, they have been very selective, given generally unattractive valuations – and have used this underweight as a source of funds for what Wellington Management views as long-term opportunities, particularly in the communication services and consumer sectors. As of September 30, 2021, Wellington Management held its largest overweight allocations to the consumer discretionary, communication services, and financial sectors, and its greatest underweight allocations to the health care, information technology, and real estate sectors.

Looking forward, Westfield believes that companies with strong underlying earnings growth that trade at reasonable valuations could be favored at the expense of high multiple momentum growth stocks. Westfield believes that, with persistent inflation likely for the foreseeable future, their focus will remain on high-quality operators with pricing power that are advantageously positioned for uncertain input costs and continued supply chain disruptions.

MassMutual Blue Chip Growth Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Blue Chip Growth Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks growth of capital over the long term by investing, under normal circumstances, at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in the common stocks of large- and medium-sized blue chip growth companies. The Fund's subadvisers currently define blue chip growth companies to mean firms that, in their view, are well-established in their industries and have the potential for above-average earnings growth. The Fund's subadvisers are T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. (T. Rowe Price), which was responsible for approximately 55% of the Fund's portfolio; and Loomis, Sayles & Company, L.P. (Loomis Sayles), which managed approximately 45% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Blue Chip Growth Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 21.46%, significantly underperforming the 27.32% return of the Russell $1000^{\text{(B)}}$ Growth Index, which measures the performance of the large-cap growth segment of U.S. equity securities. It includes the Russell 1000 Index companies with higher price-to-book ratios and higher forecasted growth values. It is market-capitalization weighted. The Fund also significantly underperformed the 30.00% return of the S&P 500^(B) Index, which measures the performance of 500 widely held stocks in the U.S. equity market.

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

For the T. Rowe Price component of the Fund, security selection hampered relative results for the reporting period, although the effect was partially offset by favorable sector allocation. Consumer discretionary, information technology, and health care detracted the most from the Fund component's relative performance, while communication services and consumer staples contributed the most to relative returns. With respect to specific Fund holdings, continued waves of regulatory pressure weighed on shares of Alibaba Group Holding. Most recently, the Chinese government announced new guidelines that seek to prevent unfair competition and limit the extent to which companies can utilize user data. Within the information technology sector, Global Payments, which provides payment processing services to merchants, detracted. Despite a strong rebound for merchant and consumer businesses in the U.S., stay-at-home dynamics in the second half of 2020 and an uneven global recovery weighed on overall payment volumes, sending shares lower. In health care, Vertex Pharmaceuticals declined in value after the discontinuation of two key developmental treatments following disappointing clinical results. Communication services was the biggest relative contributor for the year ended September 30, 2021, owing to a favorable overweight allocation to the sector, while weak stock selection partially offset the gains. Within the sector helped relative performance, as the defensive haven fell out of favor due in part to the continued rollout of COVID-19 vaccines, which is expected to reduce stay-at-home behaviors.

Within the Loomis Sayles component of the Fund, stock selection in the consumer discretionary, health care, information technology, financial, consumer staples, and energy sectors – along with the Fund component's allocations to the industrial, information technology, consumer staples, and financial sectors – detracted from relative performance. Fund component holdings Alibaba (China) and Vertex Pharmaceuticals were the largest detractors from performance, whereas Alphabet and Nvidia were the top contributors. Alibaba is the world's largest retail platform. During the period, Alibaba reported solid fundamentals and continued market share gains, but shares have been under pressure since late 2020 due to investor concerns regarding increasing regulatory intervention by the Chinese government. Due to its conviction to the long-term value of the Fund component holding, Loomis Sayles added to its position in Alibaba in July. Vertex Pharmaceuticals, the leader in creating therapies for patients suffering from cystic fibrosis, declined modestly during the Fund component's holding period. On the positive side, Alphabet, the parent company of Google (the global leader in online search and advertising) reported financial results that reflected a strong recovery in advertising spending, which had been depressed due to COVID-19, while revenue growth accelerated and adjusted operating margins expanded. Nvidia is the world leader in graphic processing units, which enable computers to produce and utilize highly realistic 3D graphic imagery and models. Nvidia reported financial results during the period that were better than consensus expectations, driven by broad-based strength that included quarterly revenue records in the company's gaming, data center, and professional visualization segments in the second half of the year.

T. Rowe Price notes that, despite the strength and speed of the global economic recovery, potential risks to growth seem to persist. Vaccine progress remains slow in parts of the world, and new variants remain a potential threat. While the Biden administration is seeking to raise the U.S. corporate tax rate, T. Rowe Price believes that any increase is likely to be moderate and neutral for U.S. equity markets. However, they believe that proposed increases in capital gains and dividend taxes could be negative for after-tax returns on most asset classes. The U.S. debt ceiling impasse in Congress has injected uncertainty into financial markets. In China, a tightening regulatory environment threatens to constrain the growth prospects of large technology firms.

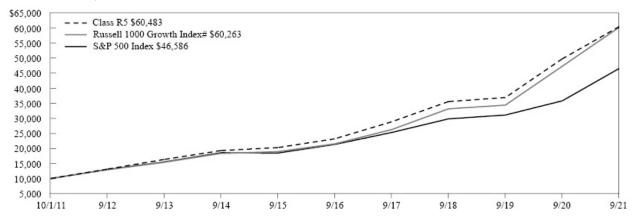

The Loomis Sayles investment process is characterized by bottom-up, fundamental research and a long-term investment time horizon. The nature of the process leads to a lower turnover portfolio, where sector positioning is the result of stock selection. At the end of the fiscal year, the Loomis Sayles Fund component held overweight allocations to the health care, communication services, industrial, energy, consumer staples, and financial sectors – and underweight allocations to the information technology and consumer discretionary sectors. Loomis Sayles held no positions in the real estate, materials, or utilities sectors.

Generally accepted accounting principles require adjustments to be made to the net assets of the Fund at period end for financial reporting purposes only, and as such, the total return based on the unadjusted net asset value per share may differ from the total return reported in the financial highlights.

Performance results in the graph and table are shown both with and without the imposition of the maximum applicable sales charge (if applicable) and reflect the percentage change in net asset value, including reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions. Investors should note that the Fund is a professionally managed mutual fund, while the index or indexes shown above are unmanaged, cannot be purchased directly, and, with the exception of any peer group index, do not incur expenses.

Performance data quoted in the graph and table represents past performance; past performance is not predictive of future results. The investment return and principal value of shares of the Fund fluctuate, so your shares, when sold, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Current performance of the Fund may be lower or higher than the performance quoted. The performance shown does not reflect the deduction of taxes, if any, that a shareholder would pay on Fund distributions or the redemption of Fund shares. Performance data current to the most recent month end may be obtained by calling 1-888-309-3539.

Investors should read the Fund's prospectus with regard to the Fund's investment objectives, risks, and charges and expenses in conjunction with these financial statements. Employee retirement benefit plans that invest plan assets in the Separate Investment Accounts (SIAs) may be subject to certain charges as set forth in their respective Plan Documents. Total return figures would be lower for the periods presented if they reflected these charges.

MassMutual Growth Opportunities Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Growth Opportunities Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks long-term capital appreciation by investing primarily in equity securities of U.S. companies that the Fund's subadvisers believe offer the potential for long-term growth. Under normal market conditions, the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in equity securities. The Fund's subadvisers are Sands Capital Management, LLC (Sands Capital), which managed approximately 51% of the Fund's portfolio; and Jackson Square Partners, LLC (Jackson Square), which was responsible for approximately 49% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Growth Opportunities Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 28.64%, outperforming the 27.32% return of the Russell $1000^{$}$ Growth Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the large-cap growth segment of U.S. equity securities. It includes the Russell 1000 Index companies with higher price-to-book ratios and higher forecasted growth values. It is market-capitalization weighted.

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

For the period ended September 30, 2021, the Sands Capital component of the Fund benefited from both sector allocation and security selection. The communication services sector accounted for over 50% of the Fund component's outperformance for the period. On a relative basis, the Fund component holdings that were the largest contributors to performance included Sea, a leading gaming, ecommerce, and digital payments platform in Southeast Asia; Square, a digital financial services provider; Align Technology, the market-leading producer of orthodontic clear aligners; Match Group, a leader in online dating applications; and Atlassian, a leading vendor of workplace collaboration and productivity software. On the downside, Fund component holdings that were the largest relative detractors from performance were all businesses that Sands Capital sold during the period. They included Microsoft, a leading global software business; Alphabet, the operator of Google and YouTube; Adobe, a leading content creation and editing software provider; Grocery Outlet, the largest U.S. grocery discounter by market share; and Coupa Software, a leading provider of enterprise procurement software.

Within the Jackson Square component of the Fund, from a sector perspective, strong relative performance in health care partially offset weak relative performance in the information technology sector. Fund component holdings that were the top contributors to performance included KKR & Co. Inc., Datadog Inc., and Paycom Software, Inc. Specifically, KKR, a global investment firm that manages multiple alternative asset classes across private and public markets, reported strong earnings during the period. The firm's fundraising tailwinds showed no signs of slowing and the company was able to deploy capital quickly. On the other hand, Fund component holdings that were the largest detractors from performance were Wix.com Ltd., Coupa Software, Inc., and Zoom Video Communications, Inc. The share price of top detractor Wix.com Ltd., a cloud-based web development platform, reversed after the company reduced its 2021 guidance. The company, like most other internet businesses, saw weakness in demand during the summer of 2021.

Sands Capital notes that the factors that drove market returns over the course of 2021 demonstrates how unpredictable markets can be in the short term. Over longer time periods, Sands Capital believes that history shows us that stock prices tend to follow compounded earnings growth, and that most value creation accrues to a select group of winners. Therefore, Sands Capital plans to continue to focus on finding the select companies that Fund management believes can generate above-average growth over the next five or more years.

In the view of Jackson Square, the economic backdrop remains accommodative to equity prices, although with a sustained higher level of volatility and market concerns over the potential inflation impact of a return to normal business activity. Jackson Square believes that the U.S. market may have passed the peak of negative impacts brought on by the Delta variant of COVID-19 – and that investors have turned their attention to assessing the level and profile of economic recovery. Furthermore, Jackson Square notes there is increasing investor focus on assessing the impact of potential Biden Administration policy changes, and the latest political battles – including how far to go on aggressive spending programs in infrastructure and social services. Nevertheless, Jackson Square remains consistent in its long-term investment philosophy of owning strong secular growth companies with competitive positions that have the potential to grow market share and possibly deliver shareholder value in a variety of market environments.

MassMutual Mid Cap Value Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Mid Cap Value Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks growth of capital over the long-term by investing primarily in equity securities of mid-capitalization companies that the Fund's subadvisers believe are undervalued. Under normal circumstances, the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in the stocks of mid-cap companies. The Fund's subadvisers are American Century Investment Management, Inc. (American Century), which managed approximately 34% of the Fund's portfolio; PanAgora Asset Management, Inc. (PanAgora), which oversaw approximately 30% of the Fund's portfolio; and Thompson, Siegel & Walmsley LLC (TSW), which was responsible for approximately 36% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021. Effective March 31, 2021, PanAgora and TSW were added as subadvisers of the Fund.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Mid Cap Value Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 36.22%, significantly underperforming the 42.40% return of the Russell Midcap[®] Value Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the mid-cap value segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes Russell Midcap Index companies with lower price-to-book ratios and lower forecasted growth values. It is market-capitalization weighted.

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

Within the American Century component of the Fund, stock selection in the financial sector detracted from relative results. American Century's preference for owning higher-quality banks and not owning companies in the consumer finance industry weighed on performance for the year ended September 30, 2021. An overweight allocation (relative to the benchmark) to and stock selection within the typically defensive consumer staples sector also weighed on returns, as investors favored lower-quality stocks or those benefiting more directly from economic reopening. The share price of Fund component holding Conagra Brands, a food products company, lagged after standing out as one of the primary beneficiaries of stay-at-home directives and surging grocery store sales. On the other hand, Fund component holdings within the information technology sector, particularly in the semiconductors and semiconductor equipment industry, helped to drive American Century's absolute returns. Semiconductor company Applied Materials was a top contributor, as it benefited from strong product demand. American Century exited the position on the strong outperformance. American Century buys foreign exchange forward hedge contracts to offset the inherent currency risks of holding foreign securities. Exposure to derivatives did not have a material effect on performance in the period. Derivatives are securities that derive their value from the performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Derivatives can be used for hedging, speculation, or both.

Within the Fund's TSW component during the period March 31, 2021 through September 30, 2021, the primary detractors for the year were the real estate and basic materials sectors. Within real estate, an underweight allocation to the sector was the primary detractor. Within basic materials, TSW's underweight allocation to the sector and position in Kinross Gold Corp. were the primary detractors. Kinross, a gold exploration company, had a fire at one of their mines impacting production in the short term, negatively impacting the stock price. From a traditional attribution lens, the primary contributors for TSW were the consumer discretionary and telecommunications sectors. Within consumer discretionary, an underweight allocation to and stock selection within the sector contributed to returns. Fund component holdings LKQ, an auto parts distributor, and eBay Inc., an e-commerce provider, were the top contributors. Within telecommunications, Fund component holdings Liberty Broadband Corp., a company providing cable and broadband services, and DISH Network Corp., a pay-tv provider with meaningful wireless spectrum ownership, were the top contributors.

Within the Fund's PanAgora component during the period March 31, 2021 through September 30, 2021 the top detractors were the financial and utilities sectors. Within the financial sector, the largest detractor was PanAgora's underweight allocation to Discover Financial Services, an American financial services company whose share price appreciated over 25% for the period. On the other hand, top contributions within the PanAgora Fund component came from the health care, real estate, and materials sectors due to strong stock selection. Within health care, an overweight allocation to Waters Corp., an analytical laboratory instrument and software company headquartered in Milford, Massachusetts, helped to drive PanAgora's returns, as the share price of the stock advanced over 20% for the year. PanAgora subsequently exited the position. Within the real estate sector, the top contributor was Jones Lang LaSalle Inc., a global commercial real estate services company whose stock price surged at the beginning of August due to earnings beating estimates.

Subadviser outlook

American Century believes that high-quality stocks are trading at a discount, and that easy monetary and fiscal policies have encouraged investors to hold lowerquality and more volatile stocks. Their metrics show low-quality stocks are now trading at the widest premium to high-quality stocks in more than a decade. In American Century's view, higher-quality and lower-volatility stocks have the potential to outperform if interest rates rise, inflation increases, and the economy enters a mid-cycle phase.

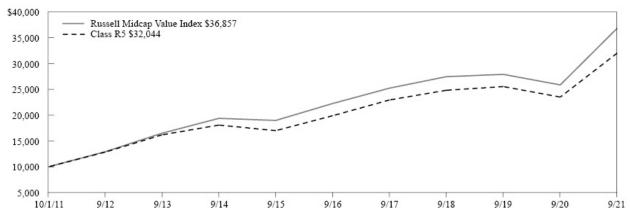

The economy remains, in TSW's estimation, on track for a potentially meaningful recovery, driven by continued vaccine deployment; however, TSW believes that persistent supply chain disruption and inflationary concerns warrant a watchful eye. In TSW's view the market has become overly optimistic; but TSW also notes that, over longer periods of time, markets generally act rationally and efficiently.

PanAgora does not attempt to forecast its excess returns. In their view, PanAgora's investment process and stock selection methodology enhances their U.S. Mid Cap Stock Selector strategy. The strategy's focus on company fundamentals plays a critical role during periods of market turbulence. PanAgora believes that preferring companies that are profitable, well managed, and competitive within their industry will give their strategy the potential to prevail during periods of extreme market stress.

MassMutual Small Cap Value Equity Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Small Cap Value Equity Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks to maximize total return through investment primarily in small capitalization equity securities that the Fund's subadvisers believe are undervalued. Under normal circumstances, the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in equity securities of companies whose market capitalizations at the time of purchase are within the market capitalization range of companies included in the Russell 2000[®] Index or the S&P SmallCap 600 Index. The Fund's subadvisers are Wellington Management Company LLP (Wellington Management), which managed approximately 55% of the Fund's portfolio; and Barrow, Hanley, Mewhinney & Strauss, LLC (Barrow Hanley), which was responsible for approximately 45% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Small Cap Value Equity Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 54.14%, significantly underperforming the 63.92% return of the Russell 2000 Value Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the small-cap value segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes those Russell 2000 Index companies with lower price-to-book ratios and lower forecasted growth values. It is market-capitalization weighted.

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

In the Wellington Management Fund component, sector allocation and stock selection in the financial, materials, and energy sectors both detracted from performance for the period ended September 30, 2021. From the sector perspective, an underweight allocation to the energy sector and an overweight allocation to the consumer staples sector hampered performance for the reporting period. Fund component holdings that were among the top relative detractors included American Woodmark (industrial) and CDK Global (information technology). Shares of American Woodmark ended the period lower after the cabinet maker experienced earnings disruption from supply chain issues and cost pressures. Shares of CDK Global, which sells subscription-based software and technology solutions to automotive retailers, ended the period lower after reporting disappointing guidance for the upcoming fiscal year. Strong security selection in the health care, information technology, and industrial sectors helped to fuel the Wellington Management Fund component's strong absolute performance for the year, and a positive contribution from an underweight allocation to the health care sector was also additive. Fund component holdings that were among the top relative contributors for the period included Magnolia Oil & Gas (energy) and Onto Innovation (information technology). Shares of Magnolia Oil & Gas, an independent oil and gas exploration and production volumes and lower costs on a per-well basis. Shares of Onto Innovation, an equipment manufacturer that makes process control equipment used in both the front and back ends of the manufacturing process, rose as the company benefited from strong new product introductions that both won the company market share and expanded their market. As a result of continued strength, the stock reached Fund management's price target and Wellington Management eliminated the position.

Within the Barrow Hanley component of the Fund, Fund management's heavy concentration in economically sensitive stocks, such as those in the industrial sector, materially underperformed since the beginning of the new year as interest rates and the COVID-19-affected economy began to temporarily soften. Defensive and high-yielding stocks such as those found in the utilities and real estate sectors (which Barrow Hanley has traditionally avoided due to their lower longer-term return potential) underperformed to the Fund component's relative advantage. One Fund component holding that contributed to Barrow Hanley's strong absolute performance for the reporting period is Greenbriar Companies, Inc., which is the largest global manufacturer of railroad cars and barges for the maritime transportation of goods. Barrow Hanley purchased this stock less than a year before the March 2020 bear market lows, at prices in the low $20s. Then at prices about 40% below those initial levels, Fund management leveraged an outstanding opportunity to add to the Fund component's exposure. As economic expectations deteriorated during the late bear market, Barrow Hanley began to significantly increase its stake in Greenbriar Companies, and shares have risen from about $13 at their lows to $45 as of the end of the reporting period.

Based on Wellington Management's three- to-five year time horizon, Fund management believes they will be able to continue to find attractively valued investment opportunities created by the inefficiencies frequently found among small- and mid-cap companies. At the end of the period, the Fund component had its largest overweight allocations to the industrial, consumer staples, and financial sectors. During the period, Wellington Management added bank holding company First Citizens (financial), hydrocarbon exploration company Chesapeake Energy (energy), and Syneos Health (health care), a biopharmaceutical company, to the Fund component. As of the end of the reporting period, the Wellington Management Fund component held its largest underweight allocations to the real estate, communication services, and health care sectors.

Barrow Hanley does not try to predict absolute returns. Instead, it strives to provide for the highest level of relative returns possible, regardless of market conditions. Consistent with this objective, its view is that the market's desire for certainty and "the company of the crowd" will provide a high level of individual stock-specific opportunity for longer-term, lower-risk investing. Barrow Hanley believes that, when this occurs, those with the discipline to remain apart from the crowd and seek out unpopular opportunities could benefit disproportionately.

MassMutual Small Company Value Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MassMutual Small Company Value Fund*, and who are the Fund's subadvisers?

The Fund seeks to achieve long-term growth of capital by investing primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity securities of smaller companies that the Fund's subadvisers consider to be undervalued. Under normal circumstances, the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in the securities of companies whose market capitalizations at the time of purchase are within the market capitalization range of companies included in the Russell 2000[®] Index or the S&P SmallCap 600 Index. The Fund's subadvisers are AllianceBernstein L.P. (AllianceBernstein), which managed approximately 68% of the Fund's portfolio; and American Century Investment Management, Inc. (American Century), which oversaw approximately 32% of the Fund's portfolio, as of September 30, 2021.

* Prior to 05/01/2021, the Fund's name was MassMutual Select Small Company Value Fund.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class R5 shares returned 73.32%, significantly outperforming the 63.92% return of the Russell 2000 Value Index (the "benchmark"), which measures the performance of the small-cap value segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes those Russell 2000 Index companies with lower price-to-book ratios and lower forecasted growth values. It is market-capitalization weighted. The Fund also significantly outperformed the 47.68% return of the Russell 2000 Index, which measures the performance of the small-cap segment of the U.S. equity universe. It is a subset of the Russell 3000 Index and includes approximately 2000 of the smallest securities based on a combination of their market cap and current index membership.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

For the year ended September 30, 2021, with respect to the AllianceBernstein component of the Fund, security selection and sector allocations both contributed to the Fund's remarkable performance in both relative and absolute terms. Security selection in the industrial sector helped to drive the Fund component's performance, more than offsetting its less-than-favorable stock selection in the energy sector. An underweight allocation to the health care sector also contributed, while an underweight allocation to the energy sector detracted. Equipment rental company Herc Holdings was one Fund component holding that contributed to returns, after management outlined strategic initiatives, a capital allocation plan and introduced forecasts with strong revenue and cash flow growth over the next three years. Another Fund component holding, textbook and education technology company Houghton Mifflin Harcourt (HMH), rose after agreeing to sell its HMH Books & Media trade publishing business for $349 million. Internet marketing company Criteo was another Fund component holding that outperformed after its fourth-quarter 2020 earnings beat expectations and it provided 2021 revenue and earnings guidance that exceeded consensus expectations. On the downside, the AllianceBernstein component of the Fund did not hold any shares in GameStop or AMC Entertainment, and this lack of exposure detracted over the 12-month period, as both stocks were driven up by speculative fervor. Homebuilder KB Home was one Fund component holding that hampered performance, due to increased investor concerns that demand growth in the housing market, spurred by the pandemic, would wane.

Within the American Century component of the Fund, an overweight allocation to the financial sector proved beneficial, especially in banks. Stock selection was advantageous as well. For example, shares of Fund component holding Signature Bank, a higher-quality New York-based commercial bank, were driven by a strengthening economy, rising interest rates, a steepening yield curve, and notable cryptocurrency deposits. (The yield curve is a graph showing the term structure of interest rates by plotting the yields of all bonds of comparable quality with maturities ranging from the shortest – typically one month – to the longest – typically 30 years – available. The resulting curve shows whether short-term interest rates are higher or lower than long-term rates.) Exposure to the capital markets industry also supported returns. An overweight allocation to consumer discretionary was beneficial, with stock selection in household durables contributing most. Positions in the textiles, apparel and luxury goods industry also added to performance for the American Century Fund component. On the downside, Fund component holdings in the materials sector detracted, particularly in the containers and packaging industry. Pactiv Evergreen, a large producer of fresh food and beverage packaging, underperformed due to this Fund component's lower-than-expected guidance for the year, driven by transitory challenges caused by the pandemic. Also hampering American Century's performance was an underweight allocation to the energy sector, particularly in the oil, gas, and consumable fuels industry. Fund component holdings in this industry also hindered performance. The American Century Fund component's exposure to derivatives did not have a material effect on performance during the period. Derivatives are securities that derive their value from the performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Derivatives can be used for hedging, speculation, or both.

AllianceBernstein observes that the most recent quarter did little to resolve investor uncertainty about the post-pandemic U.S. economic recovery. Positive trends in mobility data and consumer demand were offset by supply-chain bottlenecks and labor shortages. Investors continue to grapple with how these supply-chain issues and spiraling inflation will affect company earnings. Despite this uncertainty, AllianceBernstein remains focused on holding companies that combine value and quality, with a focus on those companies with strong business models and management teams that AllianceBernstein believes will be able to navigate supply-chain shortages and pass along input cost increases.

Looking ahead, American Century believes that attractive valuations could come from information technology, since certain Fund component holdings within that sector have been driven down to compelling valuations due to cyclical factors, trade war fears, or operational miscues. In addition, American Century is optimistic about its large overweight allocation to the consumer discretionary sector, which is dispersed across higher-quality specialty retail companies (boat and automobile dealers), leisure product manufacturers, attractively valued restaurant and leisure companies, and household durables providers. American Century continues to hold these positions on their belief that they have the potential to perform well as the economy continues to recover from the COVID-19 crisis.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

Generally, the Fund's underperformance versus the Index was mainly attributable to the impact of fees and expenses necessary for the management and operation of the Fund. The Index is not subject to fees or expenses and it is not possible to invest directly in the Index.

During the period ended September 30, 2021, global equities continued to rally from the 2020 lows brought on by COVID-19. The fourth quarter of 2020 was strongly positive, with a major boost from positive news around vaccine development and distribution. During the first quarter of 2021, continued rising interest rates and inflation concerns weighed on equity returns – but inoculation, economic reopening, and stimulus tailwinds proved powerful enough to result in modestly positive returns. In the second quarter, government bond yields settled, while U.S. equities – and growth stocks in particular – rebounded from mid-quarter pressure. Global equities advanced, as improving economic growth, policy support, and strong earnings overcame peak growth and excess inflation. Global equities were flat in the third quarter due to investor concerns over peak growth, inflation, and unwinding stimulus in September. U.S. small-cap value stocks were the strongest-performing market segment for the year. Emerging markets were the weakest performing segment, but were still in positive territory.

The top-performing sectors within the Index were energy and financial, returning 105.64% and 63.78%, respectively. The energy sector benefited as prices moved sharply higher over the last six months, with natural gas at the forefront. The financial sector was helped by a rally in interest rates late in the third quarter.

Consumer staples and utilities were the worst-performing sectors for this period, with returns of 14.81% and 22.69%, respectively. Defensive sectors, such as consumer staples and utilities, were impacted as investor worries began to fade.

The Fund uses equity futures to equitize/gain market exposure for relatively small amounts of cash in the Fund in order to minimize the uninvested cash balances and reduce the impact of any cash drag. Derivatives are securities that derive their value from the performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Derivatives can be used for hedging, speculation, or both.

Subadviser outlook

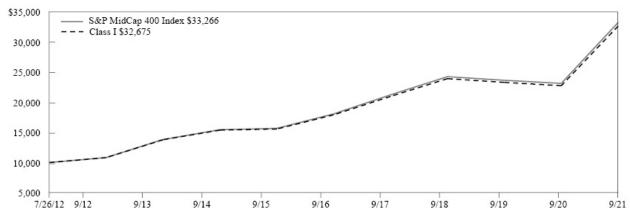

Looking ahead, NTI believes that uncertainty concerning inflation and unwinding of stimulus measures is likely to prevail.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

Within the T. Rowe Price component of the Fund, a meaningful underweight allocation to the information technology (IT) sector drove relative underperformance for the period ended September 30, 2021. Stock selection in IT services and an underweight allocation to software also weighed on relative performance in a period where richly valued, aggressive growth companies delivered exceptional returns. Additionally, security selection in the health care sector hampered relative performance for the period. With respect to specific Fund component holdings, despite strong performance on the back of Pfizer's positive vaccine news, shares of medical supply company Teleflex had been volatile since the spring, when a resurgence of coronavirus cases prompted fears that elective and noncritical medical visits and procedures would be cancelled or postponed, curtailing demand for the company's products. On the other hand, stock selection, coupled with a favorable underweight allocation to the controls the exclusive commercialization of the immensely popular F1 motorsport races, gained ground over the period, as the widespread availability of vaccines enabled the return of in-person sporting events. Finally, consumer staples also contributed due to an underweight allocation to the sector.

For the Frontier component of the Fund, an underweight allocation to technology, due to high valuations across software companies, detracted from the Fund's relative performance despite favorable stock selection within the sector. The strongest returns from Frontier's Fund component holdings came from the consumer discretionary and financial sectors, although this was offset partially by headwinds in health care. With respect to specific Fund component holdings, in health care patient care service provider Amedisys Inc. was hurt by lower-than-expected occupancy in their hospice business, resulting from a higher member death rate during the pandemic. Within real estate, cellular tower operator SBA Communications declined due to muted 5G installations. Turning to the positive, Casino operator Caesars Entertainment Inc. reported a record profit margin as business improved dramatically with rising vaccination rates and operating costs that remained low due to the changes implemented during the pandemic. In the financial sector, SVB Financial Group rallied on earnings that trounced Wall Street's expectations on strong capital markets and robust loan growth, fueled by a nearly 90% jump in the asset base.

T. Rowe Price notes that 2021 has been a good year for equity markets, but continues to be a frustrating environment for valuation-conscious growth investors. While the high-flying growth stocks have taken a pause in recent months, Fund management has yet to see multiples contract in recognition that the persistently high-growth expectations being priced into entire industries that management believes is unlikely to come to fruition for many constituents. As the global economy slowly moves beyond the coronavirus-induced hardships of the past 18 months, T. Rowe Price believes there is a potential path for growth to broaden out to attractively valued, but ignored, companies that feature fundamentally sound but temporarily impaired businesses ready to participate in economic reacceleration and a "return to normalcy."

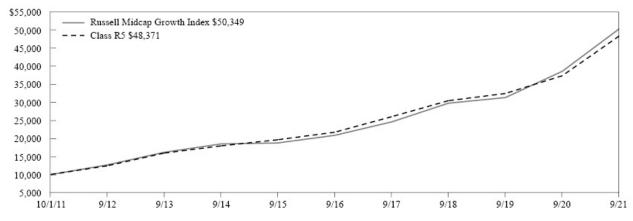

In Frontier's view, while demand remains strong, persistent supply-chain pressures and paradoxical labor shortages limit the U.S. economy's potential. Frontier believes that these factors are likely to temper earnings growth, particularly among the companies that lack pricing power. Also, Frontier believes that concerns about high energy prices, combined with the looming fears of Federal Reserve tapering and escalating debt ceiling contention, could weaken market sentiment. Nevertheless, Frontier observes that economies are reopening on firmer footings despite recent virus spikes; companies are finding ways to post record profits even in the face of increasing input costs – and consumer finances remain healthy. As we get past the peak holiday season, Frontier is optimistic that supply-chain bottlenecks and labor shortages could eventually subside.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

In the Wellington Management component of the Fund, favorable security selection within the financial and information technology sectors was a primary driver of performance for the period ended September 30, 2021. Sector allocation, a residual of Wellington Management's bottom-up stock selection process, also contributed to relative performance due to the Fund's underweight allocations to the health care and utilities sectors, and overweight allocation to the financial sector. An underweight allocation to the energy sector detracted, partially offsetting results. Fund component holdings that were among the top relative contributors for the period included SunPower (information technology) and Western Alliance (financial). Shares of solar panel maker SunPower ended the period higher after shares soared in January. To meet the growing demand for solar, SunPower announced substantial expansion plans for its SunPower Residential Installation program, which helps homeowners access the renewable energy sector. Shares of Western Alliance ended the period higher, as the stock price surged in the first quarter of 2021 after the company reported strong fourth-quarter earnings. Wellington Management eliminated both positions from the Fund component's portfolio. Fund component holdings that were top detractors from relative returns included DraftKings and Ollie's Bargain Outlet (both in the consumer discretionary sector). The share price of DraftKings, an online sports entertainment service that includes online sports betting, fell in the second quarter of 2021 after setting alligne highs in March. Wellington Management eliminated DraftKings from its portfolio. Shares of Ollie's Bargain Outlet fell during the period, as investors reacted negatively to the discount retailer's second-quarter earnings report. Results were weak against last year's record results when the company benefited from the initial COVID-19 retail backdrop by keeping its stores open. Wellington Management trimmed its position but continued to hold the n

With respect to the Invesco component of the Fund, strong stock selection within the information technology and industrial sectors, as well as stock selection and an underweight allocation to the health care sector were the primary performance drivers during the reporting period. This was partially offset by weaker stock selection within the consumer discretionary and communication services sectors. The top-performing Fund component holdings were Repligen Corporation, Lattice Semiconductor, and Kornit Digital. Repligen Corporation, a supplier of bioprocessing equipment, reported strong third-quarter 2020 financial results in part due to accelerated orders for equipment that will be used to help manufacture COVID-19 vaccines and therapeutics. Lattice Semiconductor's revenue growth accelerated as a result of its new Field Programmable Gate Arrays semiconductor devices, combined with strong global demand. Kornit Digital's printers offer significant costs savings compared to analog printers and provide greater customization capabilities for sports apparel companies. Fund component holdings that were among the top detractors from Invesco's performance included iRythm Technologies, Bandwidth, and Magnite. iRhythm Technologies' stock underperformed due to a surprising cut to Medicare reimbursement for its ambulatory cardiac monitor, which was announced in February. Bandwidth, which offers voice-over internet, integrated phone systems, smartphones, and business-grade internet connectivity solutions through cloud-based communications, experienced decelerating revenue growth. Finally, Magnite is a leading sell-side platform for digital programmatic advertising on the internet with a strong position in CTV (streaming TV). The company, which helps publishers monetize digital ad inventory, detracted from performance for a number of reasons, including a high valuation that weighed on the name.

Wellington Management's investment approach emphasizes individual stock selection; sector weights are a residual of its bottom-up investment process. Wellington Management strives to find attractively valued investment opportunities created by the inefficiencies frequently found among small-cap companies.

Invesco notes that, although the Delta variant of COVID-19 reduced the pace of growth this past summer, fiscal and monetary stimulus remains robust and COVID-19 cases seem to be receding. As a result, Invesco anticipates economic activity to gain strength in the final months of 2021 and into early 2022. Invesco also believe rates of economic and corporate earnings growth have peaked for this cycle, with headwinds from supply chain difficulties, inflationary pressures, and labor shortages gaining strength. Invesco plans to continue to focus on harnessing the power of compound growth by identifying companies best positioned to thrive in an ever-changing environment.

MM MSCI EAFE[®] International Index Fund – Portfolio Manager Report (Unaudited)

What is the investment approach of MM MSCI EAFE[®] International Index Fund, and who is the Fund's subadviser?

The Fund seeks to provide investment results approximating (before fees and expenses) the aggregate price and dividend performance of the securities included in the MSCI EAFE Index* (the "Index"). Under normal circumstances, the Fund invests at least 80% (and, typically, substantially all) of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in the equity securities of companies included in the Index, in weightings that approximate the relative composition of the securities contained in the Index, and in Index futures contracts. The Fund's subadviser is Northern Trust Investments, Inc. (NTI).

* The Fund is not sponsored, endorsed, sold, or promoted by MSCI Inc. ("MSCI"), any of its affiliates, any of its information providers, or any other third party involved in, or related to, compiling, computing, or creating any MSCI index (collectively, the "MSCI Parties"). The MSCI indexes are the exclusive property of MSCI. MSCI and the MSCI index names are service mark(s) of MSCI or its affiliates and have been licensed for use for certain purposes by MassMutual. None of the MSCI Parties makes any representation or warranty, express or implied, to the issuer or owners of the Fund or any other person or entity regarding the advisability of investing in funds generally or in the Fund particularly or the ability of any MSCI index to track corresponding stock market performance.

How did the Fund perform during the 12 months ended September 30, 2021?

The Fund's Class I shares returned 24.95%, underperforming the 25.73% return of the Index, which measures the performance of large- and mid-cap segments of developed markets, excluding the U.S. and Canada equity securities. It is free float-adjusted market-capitalization weighted.

For a discussion on the economic and market environment during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2021, please see the Economic and Market Overview, beginning on page 3.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

Generally, the Fund's underperformance versus the Index was mainly attributable to the impact of fees and expenses necessary for the management and operation of the Fund. The Index is not subject to fees or expenses and it is not possible to invest directly in the Index.

During the period ended September 30, 2021, global equities continued to rally from the 2020 lows brought on by COVID-19. The fourth quarter of 2020 was strongly positive, with a major boost from positive news around vaccine development and distribution. During the first quarter of 2021, continued rising interest rates and inflation concerns weighed on equity returns – but inoculation, economic reopening, and stimulus tailwinds proved powerful enough to result in modestly positive returns. In the second quarter, government bond yields settled, while U.S. equities – and growth stocks in particular – rebounded from mid-quarter pressure. Global equities advanced, as improving economic growth, policy support, and strong earnings overcame peak growth and excess inflation. Global equities were flat in the third quarter due to investor concerns on peak growth, inflation, and unwinding stimulus in September. U.S. small-cap value stocks were the strongest-performing market segment for the year, while emerging markets were the weakest, although still in positive territory.

The top-performing sectors within the Index were energy and financial, returning 63.97% and 45.04%, respectively. Utilities and consumer staples were the worst-performing sectors for this period, with returns of 4.71% and 9.09%, respectively.

The top-performing countries were Austria and Norway, returning 99.82% and 47.05%, respectively. New Zealand and Hong Kong were the worst-performing countries for this period, with returns of -1.97% and 15.02%, respectively.

The Fund uses equity futures to equitize/gain market exposure for relatively small amounts of cash in the Fund in order to minimize the uninvested cash balances and reduce the impact of any cash drag. Derivatives are securities that derive their value from the performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Derivatives can be used for hedging, speculation, or both.

Subadviser outlook

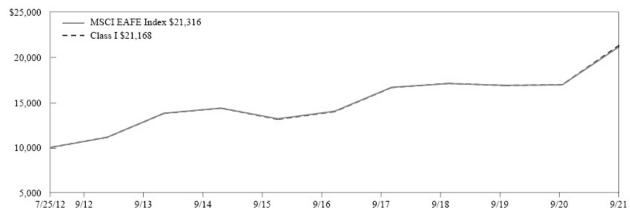

Looking ahead, NTI believes that the uncertainty concerning inflation and unwinding of stimulus measures is likely to prevail.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

For the period ended September 30, 2021, with respect to the MFS component of the Fund, stock selection and an overweight allocation to the industrial sector, relative to the benchmark, contributed to relative returns. Overweight allocations to certain Fund component holdings – including electronics company Hitachi (Japan), diversified industrial manufacturer Rolls-Royce (United Kingdom), and electrical distribution equipment manufacturer Schneider Electric (France) were primary drivers of performance. Stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector further strengthened relative returns. There, the Fund's overweight allocation to shares of luxury goods company LVMH (France) bolstered relative results. Elsewhere, the Fund's overweight allocations to consulting services provider Capgemini (France), financial services firm ING (Netherlands), banking firm KBC (Belgium), and pharmaceutical company Merck (United States) aided relative results.

On the downside, security selection and an underweight allocation to the financial sector weakened relative results for the MFS component of the Fund, led by its overweight allocation to stock exchange Deutsche Boerse (Germany). Fund component holdings in other sectors that weighed on relative results included overweight allocations to industrial and medical gas supplier Air Liquide (France), cosmetic products manufacturer Beiersdorf (Germany), telecommunications services provider Koninklijke Philips (Netherlands), life sciences company Bayer (Germany), and household products manufacturer Reckitt Benckiser (United Kingdom).

For the Harris Fund component of the Fund, the U.K. provided the best relative performance, as all 18 underlying holdings posted positive returns. Switzerland produced the next-best result, owing to share price advances for seven of eight underlying holdings in this geography, followed by France, where seven of nine underlying holdings produced positive absolute returns. Fund component holdings in Australia detracted most from relative performance, driven by share price declines from materials company Orica and financial firm AMP. The next largest negative relative results came from Fund component holdings in China and South Africa. From a sector perspective, the financial sector furnished the best relative result, owing to positive outcomes from both stock selection (as 12 of 14 underlying holdings advanced) as well as a greater-than-benchmark weighting. Fund component holdings in the industrial and materials sectors delivered the next-best relative results. Technology sector holdings had the largest negative relative performance, due in large part to a less-than-benchmark weighting. The Harris Fund component's performance. Subadviser outlook

MFS observes that while arguably, equity markets have enjoyed the tailwinds of a near-perfect investment world – strong earnings growth, abundant liquidity, low interest rates, and volatility at new post-COVID lows – perhaps behavioral themes have reconditioned investors. MFS questions whether equity markets will keep going up just because of FOMO (the "fear of missing out"), or because there is no viable alternative to owning equities when bond yields are so low. One of the hallmarks of MFS's strategy for long-term investing has been to adopt a patient approach, while avoiding overpaying for assets. MFS believes the macro environment remains supportive for equity markets as investors await a change in the direction of monetary policy. While equities offer value relative to bonds provided there is profitable growth, MFS believes they look expensive in absolute terms.

Despite the macro noise, Harris remains committed to focusing on finding investments that Fund management believes will provide shareholder value over the long term.

Subadviser discussion of factors that contributed to the Fund's performance

T. Rowe Price takes a core approach to investing, which provides exposure to both growth and value styles of investing. For the year ended September 30, 2021, stock selection in international developed value allocation was the largest contributor to relative returns. Fund holdings in the emerging markets value equity allocation also added value, while stock selection in the emerging markets stock allocation negatively impacted relative results. An overweight allocation to emerging markets equities, which trailed international developed stocks, detracted from the Fund's relative performance.

Within the international equity value allocation, favorable stock selection in the industrial and business services sectors contributed to relative results, led by Fund holdings in the aerospace and defense industry. Conversely, the consumer discretionary sector detracted from relative performance, due to unfavorable security selection. Regionally, favorable security selection in developed Europe lifted relative returns, driven by holdings in the Netherlands.

Within the emerging markets value equity allocation, an underweight allocation to, and security selection within, the consumer discretionary sector contributed to relative performance, driven by holdings within the internet and direct marketing retail industry. However, an underweight allocation to, and security selection within, the health care sector detracted from relative performance. From a regional perspective, security selection in Pacific ex-Japan was the largest contributor to relative performance, led by Fund holdings in China. However, an out-of-benchmark exposure to the developed Europe region held back relative results.

In the international core equity allocation, security selection in the industrial and business services sector contributed the most to relative performance, led by holdings in the aerospace and defense industry. Conversely, stock selection within the consumer discretionary sector detracted from relative returns. Regionally, stock selection in Japan added value for the period. However, security selection and an underweight allocation to developed Europe weighed on relative results.

The international equity growth allocation posted positive absolute returns, but less-than-favorable stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector was the largest detractor from relative returns, driven by holdings within the internet and direct marketing retail industry. Conversely, security selection and a favorable overweight allocation to the financial sector lifted relative results, led by holdings in the banking industry. Regionally, unfavorable security selection in developed Europe detracted. However, an out-of-benchmark allocation to Canada added value for the period.

The emerging markets equity allocation delivered positive absolute returns, but an underweight allocation to, coupled with security selection within the materials sector detracted from relative results, driven by holdings in the metals and mining industry. Conversely, a favorable overweight allocation coupled with security selection in the financial sector contributed to relative results. From a country perspective, unfavorable stock selection in China weighed on relative returns, although the negative impact was partially offset by an underweight allocation. However, an overweight allocation and security selection in Argentina added value.

As of September 30, 2021, the Fund held equity options and rights. The use of rights detracted slightly from performance, whereas the estimated return impact from employing equity options was negligible. Derivatives are securities that derive their value from the performance of one or more other investments and take the form of a contract between two or more parties. Derivatives can be used for hedging, speculation, or both.

Subadviser outlook

T. Rowe Price notes that global equity markets have posted strong returns for the year, although the pace of gains has slowed in recent months. While in Fund management's view the global recovery could continue and the economic environment remain favorable, T. Rowe Price believes that there are reasons to be cautious. In Fund management's opinion, a more modest allocation to equities may be prudent, as valuations are elevated in key markets and looming headwinds could potentially cause volatility in the near term.

* Contracts are subject to a Master Netting Agreement.

 Rating is determined by Western Asset Management Company and represents a weighted average of the ratings of all securities included in the underlying index for the credit default swap. Ratings used in the weighted average are from Moody's Investors Service, Inc., S&P Global Ratings, or Fitch Ratings, whichever is the highest for each constituent. All ratings are as of the report date and do not reflect subsequent changes.

Payment is based on a percentage of the index. Reference entities are a number of individual issuers comprising the index.

†† For each credit derivative with sold protection, the credit ratings of the entities referenced, as rated by any rating organization, are included in the equivalent S&P Global Ratings or Western Asset Management Company's rating category, as applicable. The reference entity rating represents the creditworthiness of the underlying issuer. As the credit rating declines, the likelihood of payment by the fund increases. Notional amounts represent the maximum potential amount of future payments (undiscounted) the Fund could be required to make under the credit derivatives with sold protection.

c Per share amount calculated on the average shares method.

d Amount is less than $0.005 per share.

j Computed after giving effect to an agreement by MML Advisers to waive certain fees and expenses of the Fund.

k Amount waived had no impact on the ratio of expenses to average daily net assets.

l Employee retirement benefit plans that invest plan assets in the Separate Investment Accounts (SIAs) may be subject to certain charges as set forth in their respective Plan Documents. Total return figures would be lower for the periods presented if they reflected these charges.

m Total return excludes sales charges, if any, and would be lower for the period presented if it reflected these charges.

1. The Funds

MassMutual Select Funds (the "Trust") is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"), as an open-end management investment company. The Trust is organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as a Massachusetts business trust pursuant to an Agreement and Declaration of Trust dated May 28, 1993, as amended and restated as of November 21, 2011, as it may be further amended from time to time. The following are 19 series of the Trust (each individually referred to as a "Fund" or collectively as the "Funds"):

MassMutual Total Return Bond Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Total Return Bond Fund) ("Total Return Bond Fund") MassMutual Strategic Bond Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Strategic Bond Fund) ("Strategic Bond Fund") MassMutual Diversified Value Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Diversified Value Fund) ("Diversified Value Fund") MassMutual Fundamental Value Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Fundamental Value Fund) ("Fundamental Value Fund") MM S&P 500[®] Index Fund ("S&P 500 Index Fund") MassMutual Equity Opportunities Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Equity Opportunities Fund) ("Equity Opportunities Fund") MassMutual Fundamental Growth Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Fundamental Growth Fund) ("Fundamental Growth Fund") MassMutual Blue Chip Growth Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Blue Chip Growth Fund) ("Blue Chip Growth Fund") MassMutual Growth Opportunities Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Growth Opportunities Fund) ("Growth Opportunities Fund") MassMutual Mid Cap Value Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Mid-Cap Value Fund) ("Mid Cap Value Fund") MassMutual Small Cap Value Equity Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Small Cap Value Equity Fund) ("Small Cap Value Equity Fund") MassMutual Small Company Value Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Small Company Value Fund) ("Small Company Value Fund") MM S&P[®] Mid Cap Index Fund ("S&P Mid Cap Index Fund") MM Russell 2000[®] Small Cap Index Fund ("Russell 2000 Small Cap Index Fund") MassMutual Mid Cap Growth Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Mid Cap Growth Fund) ("Mid Cap Growth Fund") MassMutual Small Cap Growth Equity Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Small Cap Growth Equity Fund) ("Small Cap Growth Equity Fund")

MassMutual Overseas Fund (formerly known as MassMutual Select Overseas Fund) ("Overseas Fund")

MassMutual Select T. Rowe Price International Equity Fund ("MM Select T. Rowe Price International Equity Fund")

Each share class of a Fund represents an interest in the same portfolio of assets. The principal difference among the classes is the level of service and administration fees, and shareholder and distribution service expenses borne by the classes. Because each class will have different fees and expenses, performance and share prices will vary between the classes. The classes of shares are offered to different types of investors, as outlined in the Funds' Prospectus.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

The following is a summary of significant accounting policies followed consistently by each Fund in the preparation of the financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("generally accepted accounting principles"). The preparation of the financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Each Fund is an investment company and accordingly follows the investment company accounting and reporting guidance of the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") Accounting Standards Codification Topic 946, Financial Services – Investment Companies.

Investment Valuation

The net asset value of each Fund's shares is determined once daily as of the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE"), on each day the NYSE is open for trading (a "business day"). The NYSE normally closes at 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time, but may close earlier on some days. If the NYSE is scheduled to close early, the business day will be considered to end as of the time of the NYSE's scheduled close. A Fund will not treat an intraday disruption in NYSE trading or other event that causes an unscheduled closing of the NYSE as a close of business of the NYSE for these purposes and will instead fair value securities in accordance with procedures approved annually by the Board of Trustees ("Trustees"), and under the general oversight of the Trustees. On holidays and other days when the NYSE is closed, each Fund's net asset value generally is not calculated and the Funds do not anticipate accepting buy or sell orders. However, the value of each Fund's assets may still be affected on such days to the extent that a Fund holds foreign securities that trade on days that foreign securities markets are open.

Equity securities and derivative contracts that are actively traded on a national securities exchange or contract market are valued on the basis of information furnished by a pricing service, which provides the last reported sale price, or, in the case of futures contracts, the settlement price, for securities or derivatives listed on the exchange or contract market or the official closing price on the NASDAQ National Market System ("NASDAQ System"), or in the case of over-the-counter ("OTC") securities for which an official closing price is unavailable or not reported on the NASDAQ System, the last reported bid price. Portfolio securities traded on more than one national securities exchange are valued at the last price at the close of the exchange representing the principal market for such securities. Debt securities are valued on the basis of valuations furnished by a pricing service, which generally determines valuations taking into account factors such as institutional-size trading in similar securities, yield, quality, coupon rate, maturity, type of issue, trading characteristics, and other market data. Shares of other open-end mutual funds are valued at their closing net asset values as reported on each business day.

Investments for which market quotations are readily available are marked to market daily based on those quotations. Market quotations may be provided by third-party vendors or market makers, and may be determined on the basis of a variety of factors, such as broker quotations, financial modeling, and other market data, such as market indexes and yield curves, counterparty information, and foreign exchange rates. U.S. Government and agency securities may be valued on the basis of market quotations or using a model that may incorporate market observable data such as reported sales of similar securities, broker quotes, yields, bids, offers, quoted market prices, and reference data. The fair values of OTC derivative contracts, including forward, swap, and option contracts related to interest rates, foreign currencies, credit standing of reference entities, equity prices, or commodity prices, may be based on market quotations or may be modeled using a series of techniques, including simulation models, depending on the contract and the terms of the transaction. The fair values of asset-backed securities and mortgage-backed securities are estimated based on models that consider the estimated cash flows of each debt tranche of the issuer, established benchmark yield, and estimated tranche-specific spread to the benchmark yield based on the unique attributes of the tranche, including, but not limited to, prepayment speed assumptions and attributes of the collateral.

Investments for which market quotations are not available or for which a pricing service or vendor does not provide a value, or for which such market quotations or values are considered by the investment adviser or subadviser to be unreliable (including, for example, certain foreign securities, thinly-traded securities, certain restricted securities, certain initial public offerings, or securities whose values may have been affected by a significant event) are stated at fair valuations determined in good faith by the Funds' Valuation Committee¹ in accordance with procedures approved annually by the Trustees, and under the general oversight of the Trustees. The Funds' Valuation Committee employs various methods to determine fair valuations including a regular review of significant inputs and assumptions and review of any related market activity. The Funds' Valuation Committee reports to the Trustees at its regularly scheduled meetings. It is possible that fair value prices will be used by the Funds to a significant extent. The value determined for an investment using the Funds' fair value procedures may differ from recent market prices for the investment and may be significantly different from the value realized upon the sale of such investment.

1 The voting members of the Valuation Committee consist of the President, Treasurer, Assistant Treasurers, Vice Presidents (except for the CCO, Secretary, and Assistant Secretaries) of the Trust, as well as such other members as the Trustees may from time to time designate. The non-voting members of the Valuation Committee consist of the CCO, Secretary, and Assistant Secretaries. The Valuation Committee reviews and determines the fair valuation of portfolio securities and the Funds' pricing procedures in general.

The Funds may invest in securities that are traded principally in foreign markets and that trade on weekends and other days when the Funds do not price their shares. As a result, the values of the Funds' portfolio securities may change on days when the prices of the Funds' shares are not calculated. The prices of the Funds' shares will reflect any such changes when the prices of the Funds' shares are next calculated, which is the next business day. The Funds may use fair value pricing more frequently for securities primarily traded in foreign markets because, among other things, most foreign markets close well before the Funds value their securities. The earlier close of these foreign markets gives rise to the possibility that significant events, including broad market moves, may have occurred in the interim. The Funds' investments may be priced based on fair values provided by a third-party vendor, based on certain factors and methodologies applied by such vendor, in the event that there is movement in the U.S. market, between the close of the foreign market and the time the Funds calculate their net asset values. All assets and liabilities expressed in foreign currencies are converted into U.S. dollars at the mean between the buying and selling rates of such currencies against the U.S. dollar at the end of each business day.

For investments in equity or debt issued by privately held companies or funds ("Private Company" or collectively, the "Private Companies") and any other investments fair valued using significant unobservable inputs, as described below, the fair valuation approaches used by third party service providers and/or the Funds' subadvisers utilize one or a combination of, but not limited to, the following inputs:

Market approach: (i) recent market transactions, including subsequent rounds of financing, in the underlying investment or comparable issuers; (ii) recapitalizations and other transactions across the capital structure; and (iii) market multiples of comparable issuers.

Income approach: (i) future cash flows discounted to present value and adjusted as appropriate for liquidity, credit, and/or market risks; (ii) quoted prices for similar investments or assets in active markets; and (iii) other risk factors, such as interest rates, yield curves, volatilities, prepayment speeds, loss severities, credit risks, recovery rates, liquidation amounts, and/or default rates.

Cost approach: (i) audited or unaudited financial statements, investor communications, and financial or operational metrics issued by the Private Company; (ii) changes in the valuation of relevant indices or publicly traded companies comparable to the Private Company; (iii) relevant news and other public sources; and (iv) known secondary market transactions in the Private Company's interests and merger or acquisition activity in companies comparable to the Private Company.

Investments in series of preferred stock issued by Private Companies are typically valued utilizing Market approach in determining the enterprise value of the company. Such investments often contain rights and preferences that differ from other series of preferred and common stock of the same issuer. Valuation techniques such as the current value method ("CVM"), an option pricing model ("OPM"), a probability weighted expected return model ("PWERM"), or a hybrid of those techniques are used in allocating enterprise value of the company, as deemed appropriate under the circumstances. The CVM allocates value among the various parts of a company's capital structure assuming that the value of convertible preferred stock is represented by the most favorable claim the preferred stockholders have on the enterprise value as of the valuation date. The use of OPM and PWERM techniques involve a determination of the exit scenarios of the investment in order to appropriately allocate the enterprise value of the company among the various parts of its capital structure.

The Private Companies are not subject to the public company disclosure, timing, and reporting standards as other investments held by a Fund. Typically, the most recently available information for a Private Company is as of a date that is earlier than the date a Fund is calculating its net asset value. This factor may result in a difference between the value of the investment and the price a Fund could receive upon the sale of the investment.

Fair value is defined as the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. A three-tier hierarchy is utilized to maximize the use of observable market data inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs and to establish classification of fair value measurements for disclosure purposes. Inputs refer broadly to the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability, including assumptions about risk, for example, the risk inherent in a particular valuation technique used to measure fair value (such as a pricing model) and/or the risk inherent in the inputs to the valuation technique. Inputs may be observable or unobservable.

Observable inputs are inputs that reflect the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability and are developed based on market data obtained from sources independent of the reporting entity. Unobservable inputs are inputs that reflect the reporting entity's own assumptions about the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability and are developed based on the best information available in the circumstances. The three-tier hierarchy of inputs is summarized in the three broad Levels listed below. The inputs or methodology used for valuing investments are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those investments and the determination of the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgment and consideration of factors specific to each security.

Level 1 - quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical investments that the Funds can access at the measurement date

Level 2 - other significant observable inputs (including quoted prices for similar investments, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.)

Level 3 – significant unobservable inputs, to the extent observable inputs are not available (including the Funds' own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments)

The availability of observable inputs can vary from security to security and is affected by a wide variety of factors, including, for example, the type of security, whether the security is new and not yet established in the marketplace, the liquidity of markets, and other characteristics particular to the security. To the extent that valuation is based on models or inputs that are less observable or unobservable in the market, the determination of fair value requires more judgment. Accordingly, the degree of judgment exercised in determining fair value is greatest for instruments categorized in Level 3.

Changes in valuation techniques may result in transfers in or out of an investment's assigned Level within the hierarchy. In addition, in periods of market dislocation, the observability of prices and inputs may be reduced for many instruments. This condition, as well as changes related to liquidity of investments, could cause a security to be reclassified between Levels.

In certain cases, the inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different Levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, for disclosure purposes, the Level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement falls is determined based on the lowest Level input that is significant to the overall fair value measurement.

The Fundamental Value Fund, Fundamental Growth Fund, and Growth Opportunities Fund characterized all long-term investments at Level 1, and all short-term investments at Level 2, as of September 30, 2021. For each Fund noted in the preceding sentence, the level classification by major category of investments is the same as the category presentation in the Portfolio of Investments.

The following is the aggregate value by input level, as of September 30, 2021, for the remaining Funds' investments:

* Includes foreign equity securities whose values were adjusted to reflect market trading of comparable securities or other correlated instruments after the close of trading in their respective foreign markets, as applicable.

 None of the unobservable inputs for Level 3 assets, individually or collectively, had a material impact on the Fund(s). Level 3 investments at September 30, 2021 in relation to net assets were not significant.

 Unfunded loan commitments are valued at the unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on the commitment.

+ Represents a security at $0 value as of September 30, 2021.

For certain Fund(s) the Statement of Assets and Liabilities shows receivables from investments sold on a delayed delivery basis, collateral pledged for open futures and options contracts, and collateral pledged for open swap agreements, as well as, any applicable liabilities for investments purchased on a delayed delivery basis and collateral held for securities on loan. These amounts approximate fair value and would be categorized at Level 2 for each applicable Fund as of September 30, 2021.

The Funds had no Level 3 transfers during the year ended September 30, 2021.

Following is a reconciliation of investments for which significant unobservable inputs (Level 3) were used in determining value:

The Mid Cap Growth Fund fair values certain of its Level 3 investments using acquisition cost, although the transaction may not have occurred during the current reporting period. These investments are generally privately held investments, but may include defaulted securities and new debt issuances. There may not be a secondary market for such investments, and/or there are a limited number of investors. The determination to fair value such investments at cost is based upon factors consistent with the principles of fair value measurement that are reasonably available to the Valuation Committee. Valuations are reviewed by members of the Valuation Committee utilizing available market information to determine if the carrying value of these investments should be adjusted. Such market data may include, but is not limited to, observations of the trading multiples of public companies considered comparable to the private companies being valued, financial or operational information released by the company, and/ or news or corporate events that affect the investment, also referred to as enterprise value (EV) to earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortization (EBITDA) ratios. Valuations may be adjusted to account for company-specific issues, the lack of liquidity inherent in a nonpublic investment, and the fact that comparable public companies are not identical to the investments being fair valued by the Mid Cap Growth Fund. All market variables are assessed on a regular frequency and calibrated as necessary.

(a) Represents the directional change in the fair value of the Level 3 investments that could have resulted from an increase in the corresponding input as of the reporting date. A decrease in the unobservable input would have had the opposite effect. Significant changes in these inputs may have resulted in a significantly higher or lower fair value measurement at the reporting date.

Abbreviation Legend

EV/(year) EBITDA - financial ratio of comparable public companies' total market capitalization to earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization; measures the value of a comparable company in terms of its expected earnings for a given year

Derivative Instruments

Derivatives are financial instruments whose values are based on the values of one or more indicators, such as a security, asset, currency, interest rate, or index. Derivative transactions can create investment leverage and may be highly volatile. Losses from derivatives can be substantially greater than the derivatives' original cost and can sometimes be unlimited. A Fund may not be able to close out a derivative transaction at a favorable time or price.

At September 30, 2021, and during the year then ended, the Fund(s) had the following derivatives and transactions in derivatives, grouped into the indicated risk categories:

† Amount(s) disclosed represent average number of contracts for futures contracts, notional amounts for forward contracts, swap agreements, purchased swaptions and written swaptions, or shares/units outstanding for purchased options and written options, based on absolute values, which is indicative of volume of this derivative type, for the months that the Fund held such derivatives during the year ended September 30, 2021.

The Portfolio of Investments included in a Fund's financial statements shows the assets or liabilities of the Fund associated with individual derivatives transactions. The terms of many of those transactions contemplate that derivatives receivables and payables between the same two parties may be netted and that the parties will collateralize certain obligations. The following tables provide an illustration of the possible effect of netting provisions and of collateral (delivered or received) on a Fund's derivatives exposure as of September 30, 2021. Netting arrangements vary among different counterparties, and the actual disposition of derivatives receivables and payables, and of collateral, in a bankruptcy or insolvency can be complicated and difficult to predict.

The following table presents derivative assets by counterparty net of amounts available for offset under a master netting agreement ("MNA") or similar agreement and net of the related collateral received by the Fund(s) as of September 30, 2021.

* Represents the net amount receivable from the counterparty in the event of default.

 Represents the net amount payable to the counterparty in the event of default.

 The amount presented here may be less than the total amount of collateral received/pledged as the net amount of derivative assets and liabilities for a counterparty cannot be less than $0.

† The amount presented here may be less than the total amount shown in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities as some derivatives held by the counterparty are not covered within an MNA or similar agreement.

Such agreements typically permit a single net payment in the event of default, including the bankruptcy or insolvency of the counterparty. The Fund(s) and counterparties may not be permitted to sell, re-pledge, or use the collateral they receive. In the event that cash collateral is restricted for use, the balance will be reflected as restricted cash within the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

Further details regarding the derivatives and other investments held by the Fund(s) during the year ended September 30, 2021, are discussed below.

Foreign Currency Exchange Transactions

A Fund may engage in foreign currency exchange transactions for hedging purposes in order to protect against uncertainty in the level of future foreign currency exchange rates, or for other, non-hedging purposes.

A Fund may enter into foreign currency exchange transactions, including foreign currency forward contracts. These contracts call for the Fund to deliver in the future an amount of one currency in return for an amount of another currency, at an exchange rate determined at the time the contract is entered into. Forward contracts are private contractual arrangements and a Fund is subject to the risk that its counterparty will not, or will not be able to, perform its obligations. This type of arrangement may require the Fund to post margin. A Fund may also buy and sell options on currencies. When the Fund buys an option, its loss should generally be limited to the amount of the premium paid and any transaction costs. If a Fund sells an option on a currency, it is subject generally to the same risks as if it had entered into a futures contract or forward contract with respect to that currency. For example, futures contracts are exchange-traded and typically have minimal exposure to counterparty risk and forward contracts are private contractual arrangements and a Fund is subject to the risk that its counterparty will not, or will not be able to, perform its obligations. A Fund may also buy and sells an option on a currency, it is subject generally to the same risks as if it had entered into a futures contract or forward contract with respect to that currency. For example, futures contracts are exchange-traded and typically have minimal exposure to counterparty risk and forward contracts are private contractual arrangements and a Fund is subject to the risk that its counterparty will not, or will not be able to, perform its obligations. A Fund may enter into foreign currency exchange transactions in order to hedge against changes in the values of the assets or liabilities denominated in one or more foreign currencies, or otherwise to increase or reduce a Fund's exposure to various foreign currencies. The use of foreign currency exchange transactions may create investment leverage.

Whenever a Fund enters into a foreign currency exchange transaction, it is subject to the risk that the value of the transaction will move in a direction unfavorable to it. When the Fund uses the transactions for hedging purposes, it is likely that the Fund will have an asset or liability that will offset any loss (or gain) on the transactions, at least in part. If a Fund enters into foreign currency exchange transactions other than for hedging purposes (for example, seeking to profit from an anticipated change in the values of currencies by creating directional exposures in the portfolio with respect to one or more currencies), it will generally be subject to the same risks, but is less likely to have assets or liabilities that will offset any losses on the transactions. There can be no assurance that a Fund will be able to terminate any foreign currency exchange transaction.

Forward foreign currency contracts are marked to market daily and the change in their value is recorded by the Funds as an unrealized gain or loss. Forward foreign currency contracts are valued at the settlement price established through dealers or other market sources on the day which they are traded. When a forward foreign currency contract is extinguished, through delivery or offset by entering into another forward foreign currency contract, the Funds record a realized gain or loss equal to the difference between the value of the contract at the time it was opened and the value of the contract at the time it was extinguished or offset. The notional or contractual amounts of these instruments do not necessarily represent the amounts potentially subject to risk. The measurement of the risk associated with these instruments is meaningful only when all related and offsetting transactions and counterparty risks are considered. For information regarding the accounting treatment of options, see "Options, Rights, and Warrants" below.

A Fund's current exposure to a counterparty is the unrealized appreciation on the contract.

Futures Contracts

A Fund may seek to manage a variety of different risks, such as interest rate risk, equity price risk, and currency risk, through the use of futures contracts and related options.

Futures Contracts. A Fund may use interest rate futures contracts to adjust the interest rate sensitivity (duration) of its portfolio or the credit exposure of the portfolio. Interest rate futures contracts obligate the long or short holder to take or make delivery of a specified quantity of a financial instrument, such as a specific fixed income security, during a specified future period at a specified price. A Fund may use index futures contracts to hedge against broad market risks to its portfolio or to gain broad market exposure when it holds uninvested cash or as an inexpensive substitute for cash investments directly in securities or other assets, including commodities and precious metals. Securities index futures contracts to buy or sell units of a securities index at a specified future date at a price agreed upon when the contract is made and are settled in cash. Positions in futures contracts may be closed out only on an exchange or board of trade which provides a secondary market for such futures. Because futures contracts are exchange-traded, they typically have minimal exposure to counterparty risk.

Parties to a futures contract are not required to post the entire notional amount of the contract, but rather a small percentage of that amount (by way of margin), both at the time they enter into futures transactions, and then on a daily basis if their positions decline in value; as a result, futures contracts are highly leveraged. Such payments are known as variation margin and are recorded by the Funds as unrealized gains or losses. Because futures markets are highly leveraged, they can be extremely volatile, and there can be no assurance that the pricing of a futures contract will correlate precisely with the pricing of the asset or index underlying it or the asset or liability of the Fund that is the subject of the hedge. It may not always be possible for a Fund to enter into a closing transaction with respect to a futures contract it has entered into, at a favorable time or price. When a Fund enters into a futures transaction, it is subject to the risk that the value of the futures contract will offset any loss (or gain) on the transactions, at least in part.

Options on Futures Contracts. If a Fund buys an option on a futures contract, it will have the right to assume a futures contract at a particular price during the course of the option. Its potential loss should generally be limited to the amount of the premium paid and any transaction costs. If a Fund sells an option on a futures contract, it is subject generally to the same risks as if it had entered into a futures contract underlying the option itself.

When a futures contract is closed, the Fund records a realized gain or loss equal to the difference between the value of the contract at the time it was opened and the value at the time it was closed. Futures contracts are valued at the settlement price established each day by the board of trade or exchange on which they are traded. For information regarding the accounting treatment of options, see "Options, Rights, and Warrants" below.

Swap Agreements

Swap agreements are typically two-party contracts entered into primarily by institutional investors. In a standard "swap" transaction, two parties agree to exchange the returns (or differentials in rates of return) earned or realized on particular predetermined investments or instruments or rates, which may be adjusted for an interest factor. The gross returns to be exchanged or "swapped" between the parties are generally calculated with respect to a "notional amount," (i.e., the return on or increase in value of a particular dollar amount invested at a particular interest rate or in a "basket" of securities representing a particular index).

Interest Rate Swaps. When a Fund enters into an interest rate swap, it typically agrees to make payments to its counterparty based on a specified long- or short-term interest rate and will receive payments from its counterparty based on another interest rate. Other forms of interest rate swap agreements include, among others, interest rate caps, under which, in return for a specified payment stream, one party agrees to make payments to the other to the extent that interest rates exceed a specified rate, or "cap"; interest rate floors, under which, in return for a specified payment stream, one party agrees to make payments to the other to the extent that interest rates fall below a specified rate, or "floor"; and interest rate collars, under which a party sells a cap and purchases a floor or vice versa in an attempt to protect itself against interest rate movements exceeding given minimum or maximum levels. A Fund may enter into an interest rate swap in order, for example, to hedge against the effect of interest rate changes on the value of specific securities in its portfolio, or to adjust the interest rate sensitivity (duration) or the credit exposure of its portfolio overall, or otherwise as a substitute for a direct investment in debt securities.

Credit Default Swaps. A Fund also may enter into credit default swap transactions, as a "buyer" or "seller" of credit protection. In a credit default swap, one party provides what is in effect insurance against a default or other adverse credit event affecting an issuer of debt securities (typically referred to as a "reference entity"). In general, the buyer of credit protection is obligated to pay the protection seller an upfront amount or a periodic stream of payments over the term of the swap. If a "credit event" occurs, the buyer has the right to deliver to the seller bonds or other obligations. Credit events that would trigger a request that the seller make payment are specific to each credit default swap agreement, but generally include bankruptcy, failure to pay, restructuring, acceleration, default, or repudiation/moratorium. When a Fund buys protection, it may or may not own securities of the reference entity. If it does own securities of the reference entity, the swap serves as a hedge against a decline in the value of the securities due to the occurrence of a credit event involving the issuer of the securities. If the Fund does not own securities of the reference entity, the credit default swap may be seen to create a short position in the reference entity. If a Fund is a buyer and no credit event occurs, the Fund will typically recover nothing under the swap, but will have had to pay the required upfront payment and stream of continuing payments under the swap. When a Fund sells protection under a credit default swap, the position may have the effect of creating leverage in the Fund's portfolio through the Fund's indirect long exposure to the issuer or securities on which the swap is written. When a Fund sells protection, it may do so either to earn additional income or to create a "synthetic" long position.

Whenever a Fund enters into a swap agreement, it takes on counterparty risk — the risk that its counterparty will be unable or unwilling to meet its obligations under the swap agreement. The Fund also takes the risk that the market will move against its position in the swap agreement. In the case of an interest rate swap, the value of the swap may increase or decrease depending on changes in interest rates. In the case of a credit default swap, the swap will become more or less valuable depending on the credit of the issuer of the underlying security, and, if a credit event occurs under a swap where the Fund is the seller of credit protection, the Fund could be required to purchase the security at par value, resulting in a significant loss to the Fund. When the Fund enters into any type of swap for hedging purposes, it is likely that the Fund will have an asset or liability that will offset any loss (or gain) on the swap, at least in part. Swap agreements may be non-transferable or otherwise highly illiquid, and a Fund may not be able to terminate or transfer a swap agreement at any particular time or at an acceptable price.

Swaptions. A Fund may also enter into options on swap agreements ("swaptions"). A swaption is a contract that gives a counterparty the right (but not the obligation) to enter into a new swap agreement or to shorten, extend, cancel, or otherwise modify an existing swap agreement, at some designated future time on specified terms. A Fund may write (sell) and purchase put and call swaptions. Depending on the terms of the particular option agreement, a Fund will generally incur a greater degree of risk when it writes a swaption than it will incur when it purchases a swaption. When a Fund purchases a swaption, it risks losing only the amount of the premium it has paid should it decide to let the option expire unexercised. However, when a Fund writes a swaption, upon exercise of the option the Fund will become obligated according to the terms of the underlying agreement. A Fund may enter into swaptions for the same purposes as swaps. For information regarding the accounting treatment of options, see "Options, Rights, and Warrants" below.

Centrally Cleared Swaps. Certain clearinghouses currently offer clearing for limited types of derivatives transactions, principally certain interest rate swaps, certain index swaps, and credit derivatives. In a cleared derivative transaction, a Fund typically enters into the transaction with a financial institution counterparty, and performance of the transaction is effectively guaranteed by a central clearinghouse, thereby reducing or eliminating the Fund's exposure to the credit risk of its original counterparty. The Fund will be required to post amounts ("initial margin") with the clearinghouse or at the instruction of the clearinghouse. The initial margin required by a clearinghouse may be greater than the initial margin the Fund would be required to post in an uncleared transaction. If cash is deposited as the initial margin, it is shown as collateral on a Fund's Statement of Assets and Liabilities. Swap agreements are marked-to-market daily and subsequent payments ("variation margin") are made or received by a Fund depending on whether unrealized gains or losses are incurred. These amounts are reflected as receivables or payables on a Fund's Statement of Assets and Liabilities ("Variation margin on open derivative instruments") and as a component of net change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on a Fund's Statement of Operations. Only a limited number of transaction types are currently eligible for clearing.

During the term of a swap transaction, changes in the value of the swap are recognized as unrealized gains or losses by marking to market to reflect the market value of the swap. When the swap is terminated, a Fund will record a realized gain or loss equal to the difference, if any, between the proceeds from (or cost of) the closing transaction and a Fund's basis in the agreement. Upfront swap premium payments paid or received by a Fund, if any, are recorded within the value of the open swap agreement on the Fund's Statement of Assets and Liabilities and represent payments paid or received upon entering into the swap agreement to compensate for differences between stated terms of the swap agreement and prevailing market conditions (credit spreads, currency exchange rates, and other relevant factors). These upfront payments are recorded as realized gain or loss on the Fund's Statement of Operations upon termination or maturity of the swap agreement.

During the term of a swap transaction, the periodic net payments can be made for a set period of time or may be triggered by a predetermined credit event. The net periodic payments may be based on a fixed or variable interest rate, the change in market value of a specified security, basket of securities or index, or the return generated by a security. These periodic payments received or made by the Funds are recorded in the accompanying Statements of Operations as realized gains and losses, respectively.

A Fund's current exposure to a counterparty is the fair value of the transaction.

Options, Rights, and Warrants

A Fund may purchase and sell put and call options on securities or an index of securities to enhance investment performance or to protect against changes in market prices. A Fund that invests in debt securities may also purchase and sell put and call options to adjust the interest rate sensitivity of its portfolio or the credit exposure of the portfolio.

Call Options. A call option gives the holder the right to purchase, and obligates the writer to sell, a security at the strike price at any time before the expiration date.

Put Options. A put option gives the holder the right to sell, and obligates the writer to buy, a security at the exercise price at any time before the expiration date.

Writing put and call options. A Fund may write call options on a security it owns, in a "directional" strategy hoping to realize a greater current return through the receipt of premiums. In return for the option premium, the Fund takes the risk that it will have to forego any increase in the value of the security over the strike price. When a Fund has written a call option on a security it does not own, its exposure on such an option is theoretically unlimited. A Fund may enter into closing purchase transactions in order to realize a profit or limit a loss on a previously written call option or, in the case of a call option on a security it owns, to free itself to sell the underlying security or to write another call on the security, or protect a security from being called in an unexpected market rise. Any profits from a closing purchase transaction in the case of a call option on a security a Fund owns may be offset by a decline in the value of the underlying security. Conversely, because increases in the market price of a call option on a security a Fund owns is likely to be offset in whole or in part by unrealized appreciation of the underlying security owned by the Fund. A Fund may not be able to close out a call option that it has previously written. A Fund may write put options in order to enhance its current return by taking a long directional position as to a security or index of securities. By writing a put option, the Fund assumes the risk that it may be required to purchase the underlying security later appreciates in value. A Fund may terminate a put option that it has written before it expires by entering into a closing purchase transaction. Any loss from this transaction may be partially or entirely offset by the premium received on the terminated option. A Fund may not be able to close out a put option. A Fund may not be able to close out a cult option that it has written before it expires by entering into a closing purchase transaction. Any loss from this transaction may be partially or entire

When a Fund writes a call or put option, an amount equal to the premium received is recorded as a liability. Premiums received from writing options which expire are treated as realized gains. Premiums received from writing options which are exercised or closed are added to the proceeds or offset against the amount paid on the underlying investment to determine the realized gain or loss.

Purchasing put and call options. A Fund may purchase put options to protect portfolio holdings against a decline in market value of a security or securities held by it. A Fund may also purchase a put option hoping to profit from an anticipated decline in the value of the underlying security. If the Fund holds the security underlying the option, the option premium and any transaction costs will reduce any profit the Fund might have realized had it sold the underlying security instead of buying the put option. A Fund may purchase call options to hedge against an increase in the price of securities that the Fund wants ultimately to buy. A Fund may also purchase a call option as a long directional investment hoping to profit from an anticipated increase in the value of the underlying security. In order for a call option to be profitable, the market price of the underlying security must rise sufficiently above the exercise price to cover the premium and transaction costs. These costs will reduce any profit the Fund might have realized had it bought the underlying security at the time it purchased the call option.

When a Fund purchases an option, it runs the risk that it will lose its entire investment in the option in a relatively short period of time, unless the Fund exercises the option or enters into a closing sale transaction before the option's expiration. If the price of the underlying security does not rise (in the case of a call) or fall (in the case of a put) to an extent sufficient to cover the option premium and transaction costs, the Fund will lose part or all of its investment in the option. This contrasts with an investment by a Fund in the underlying security, since the Fund will not realize a loss if the security's price does not change. Premiums paid for purchasing options that expire are treated as realized losses.

Exchange Traded Options. Exchange traded options purchased or sold by a Fund may be traded on a securities or options exchange or market. Such options typically have minimal exposure to counterparty risk. However, an exchange or market may at times find it necessary to impose restrictions on particular types of options transactions, such as opening transactions. If an underlying security ceases to meet qualifications imposed by the market or the Options Clearing Corporation, new series of options on that security will no longer be opened to replace expiring series, and opening transactions in existing series may be prohibited. Exchange traded options are valued at the last sale price, or if no sales are reported, the last bid price.

OTC Options. OTC options purchased or sold by a Fund are not traded on securities or options exchanges or backed by clearinghouses. Rather, they are entered into directly between a Fund and the counterparty to the option. In the case of an OTC option purchased by the Fund, the value of the option to the Fund will depend on the willingness and ability of the option writer to perform its obligations to the Fund. In addition, OTC options may not be transferable and there may be little or no secondary market for them, so they may be considered illiquid. It may not be possible to enter into closing transactions with respect to OTC options or otherwise to terminate such options, and as a result a Fund may be required to remain obligated on an unfavorable OTC option until its expiration. OTC options are valued using prices supplied by a primary pricing source, selected pursuant to procedures approved by the Trustees.

Rights and Warrants. A Fund may purchase or hold warrants or rights in order to gain exposure to the underlying security without owning the security, including, for example, cases where the Fund hopes to lock in the price today of a security it may wish to purchase in the future. Warrants generally give the holder the right, but not the obligation, to buy a security at a stated price. In order for a warrant to be profitable, the market price of the underlying security must rise sufficiently above the exercise price to cover any premium and transaction costs. Rights may similarly confer on the holder the right to purchase or acquire securities, including through participation in a so-called rights offering. Bonds may be issued with warrants or other rights attached to purchase or acquire equity or other debt securities, typically of the bond issuer. The market prices of bonds with warrants or rights attached to purchase equity securities or bonds may, to some degree, reflect changes in the values of the underlying securities.

When a Fund purchases or otherwise acquires warrants or other rights, it runs the risk that it will lose its entire investment in the warrants or rights, unless the Fund exercises the warrant or right, acquires the underlying securities, or enters into a closing transaction before expiration. If the price of the underlying security does not rise to an extent sufficient to cover any premium and transaction costs, the Fund will lose part or all of its investment. Any premiums or purchase price paid for warrants or other rights that expire are treated as realized losses. Warrants and similar rights differ from options in that they are typically written by the issuer of the security underlying the warrant or right. Although some warrants and rights may be non-transferable, others may be traded over-the-counter or on an exchange.

Hybrid Instruments

A hybrid instrument may be a debt security, preferred stock, warrant, convertible security, certificate of deposit, or other evidence of indebtedness on which a portion of or all interest payments, and/or the principal or stated amount payable at maturity, redemption, or retirement, is determined by reference to one or more underlying assets, indexes, economic factors, or other benchmarks. Because hybrid instruments may be designed to provide indirect exposures to virtually any type of derivative instrument, a Fund may invest in a hybrid instrument for any purpose it might engage in derivatives transactions. Hybrid instruments may take a number of forms, including, for example, debt instruments with interest or principal payments or redemption terms determined by reference to the value of an index, security, or other measure at a future time, preferred stock with dividend rates determined by reference to the value of a currency, or convertible securities where the conversion terms relate to a particular commodity. The risks of investing in a hybrid instrument may, depending on the nature of the instrument, reflect a combination of the risks of investing in securities, options, futures, currencies or other types of investments, and will depend upon the terms of the instrument. Such risks generally depend upon factors unrelated to the operations or credit quality of the issuer of the hybrid instrument, and may not be foreseen by the purchaser, such as financial or market developments, economic and political events, the supply and demand of the underlying assets, and interest rate movements. Hybrid instruments may be highly volatile and their use by a Fund may not be successful. The terms of a hybrid instrument may create investment leverage. Hybrid instruments are typically privately issued, presenting credit risk of the issuer, and may be highly illiquid and difficult to value.

Inflation-Linked Securities

Inflation-linked securities are typically fixed income securities whose principal values are periodically adjusted according to a measure of inflation. If the index measuring inflation falls, the principal value of an inflation-linked security will be adjusted downward, and consequently the interest payable on the security (calculated with respect to a smaller principal amount) will be reduced. Repayment of the original principal of the security upon maturity (as adjusted for inflation) is guaranteed in the case of U.S. Treasury inflation-linked securities. For securities that do not provide a similar guarantee, the adjusted principal value of the security repaid at maturity may be less than the original principal.

Alternatively, the interest rates payable on certain inflation-linked securities may be adjusted according to a measure of inflation. As a result, the principal values of such securities do not adjust according to the rate of inflation, although the interest payable on such securities may decline during times of falling inflation.

The values of inflation-linked securities are expected to change in response to changes in real interest rates. Real interest rates are tied to the relationship between nominal interest rates and the rate of inflation. If nominal interest rates increase at a faster rate than inflation, real interest rates may rise, leading to a decrease in value of inflation-linked securities. Inflation-linked securities may cause a potential cash flow mismatch to investors, because an increase in the principal amount of an inflation-linked security will be treated as interest income currently subject to tax at ordinary income rates even though investors will not receive repayment of principal until maturity. If a Fund invests in such securities, it will be required to distribute such interest income in order to qualify for treatment as a regulated investment company and eliminate the Fund-level tax, without a corresponding receipt of cash, and therefore may be required to dispose of portfolio securities at a time when it may not be advantageous to do so in order to make such distributions.

Bank Loans

A Fund may invest in bank loans including, for example, corporate loans, loan participations, direct debt, bank debt, and bridge debt. A Fund may invest in a loan by lending money to a borrower directly as part of a syndicate of lenders. In a syndicated loan, the agent that originated and structured the loan typically administers and enforces the loan on behalf of the syndicate. Failure by the agent to fulfill its obligations may delay or adversely affect receipt of payment by a Fund. A Fund may also invest in loans through novations, assignments, and participation interests. In a novation, a Fund typically assumes all of the rights of a lending institution in a loan, including the right to receive payments of principal and interest and other amounts directly from the borrower and to enforce its rights as a lender directly against the borrower. When a Fund takes an assignment of a loan, the Fund acquires some or all of the interest of another lender (or assignee) in the loan. In such cases, the Fund may be required generally to rely upon the assignor to demand payment and enforce rights under the loan. If a Fund acquires a participation investor, not with the borrower. As a result, a Fund may have the right to receive payments of principal, interest, and any fees to which it is entitled only from the loan investor selling the participation and only upon receipt by such loan investor of such payments from the borrower. In such cases, a Fund assumes the credit risk of both the borrower and the loan investor selling the participation, and the Fund may be unable to realize some or all of the value of its interest in the loan in the event of the insolvency of the third party.

Changes in the financial condition of the borrower or economic conditions or other circumstances may reduce the capacity of the borrower to make principal and interest payments on such instruments and may lead to defaults. The value of any collateral securing a bank loan may decline after the Fund invests, and there is a risk that the value of the collateral may not be sufficient to cover the amount owed to the Fund.

The Total Return Bond Fund entered into certain loan agreements which are unfunded. The Total Return Bond Fund is obligated to fund these commitments at the borrower's discretion. These commitments are disclosed in the Total Return Bond Fund's Portfolio of Investments. At September 30, 2021, the Total Return Bond Fund had sufficient cash and/or securities to cover these commitments.

Repurchase Agreements

Each Fund may enter into repurchase agreements with certain banks and broker-dealers whereby a Fund acquires a security for cash and obtains a simultaneous commitment from the seller to repurchase the security at an agreed upon price and date. A Fund, through its custodian, takes possession of the securities collateralizing the repurchase agreement in a segregated account. Repurchase agreements must be fully collateralized at all times, but involve some risk to a Fund if the other party should default on its obligation and the Fund is delayed or prevented from recovering the collateral, or if the Fund is required to return collateral to a borrower at a time when it may realize a loss on the investment of that collateral.

When-Issued, Delayed-Delivery, Forward Commitment, and To-Be-Announced Transactions

A Fund may enter into when-issued, delayed-delivery, forward commitment, or to-be-announced ("TBA") transactions (collectively, the "Forward Transactions") in order to lock in the purchase price of the underlying security, or in order to adjust the interest rate exposure of the Fund's existing portfolio. In Forward Transactions, a Fund commits to purchase or sell particular securities, with payment and delivery to take place at a future date. In the case of TBA purchase commitments, the unit price and the estimated principal amount are established when the Fund enters into a commitment, with the actual principal amount being within a specified range of the estimate. Although a Fund does not typically pay for the securities in these types of transactions until they are delivered, it immediately assumes the risks of ownership, including the risk of price fluctuation. As a result, each of these types of transactions may create investment leverage in a Fund's portfolio and increase the volatility of the Fund. If a Fund's counterparty fails to deliver a security purchased in a Forward Transaction, there may be a loss, and the Fund may have missed an opportunity to make an alternative investment.

These securities are valued on the basis of valuations furnished by a pricing service, selected pursuant to procedures approved by the Trustees, which determines valuations taking into account appropriate factors such as institutional-size trading in similar groups of securities, yield, quality, coupon rate, maturity, type of issue, trading characteristics, and other market data. Securities for which no market quotation is available are valued at fair value in accordance with procedures approved by the Trustees. The Funds record on a daily basis the unrealized appreciation (depreciation) based upon changes in the values of these securities. When a Forward Transaction is closed, the Funds record a realized gain or loss equal to the difference between the value of the transaction at the time it was opened and the value of the transaction at the time it was closed.

Dollar Roll Transactions

A Fund may enter into dollar roll transactions, in which the Fund sells mortgage-backed securities for delivery in the current month and simultaneously contracts to purchase substantially similar securities on a specified future date from the same party. A Fund may invest in dollar rolls in order to benefit from anticipated changes in pricing for the mortgage-backed securities during the term of the transaction, or for the purpose of creating investment leverage. In a dollar roll, the securities that are to be purchased will be of the same type as the securities sold, but will be supported by different pools of mortgages.

Dollar rolls involve the risk that the Fund's counterparty will be unable to deliver the mortgage-backed securities underlying the dollar roll at the fixed time. If the counterparty files for bankruptcy or becomes insolvent, a Fund's use of the transaction proceeds may be restricted pending a determination by the counterparty or its representative, whether to enforce the Fund's obligation to repurchase the securities. A Fund can incur a loss on a dollar roll transaction (either because its counterparty fails to perform or because the value of the mortgages subject to the transaction declines) and on the investments made by the Fund with the proceeds of the dollar roll transaction.

A Fund accounts for a dollar roll transaction as a purchase and sale whereby the difference in the sales price and purchase price of the security sold is recorded as a realized gain (loss). If certain criteria are met, these dollar roll transactions may be considered financing transactions, whereby the difference in the sales price and the future purchase price is recorded as an adjustment to interest income. Dollar roll transactions generally have the effect of creating leverage in a Fund's portfolio.

Securities Lending

Each Fund may lend its securities; however, lending cannot exceed 33% of the total assets of the Fund taken at current value. The Funds' securities lending activities are governed by a Securities Lending Agency Agreement ("Lending Agreement") between each Fund and the lending agent ("Agent"). The Lending Agreement authorizes the Agent to lend portfolio securities held by a Fund to approved borrowers (each, a "Borrower").

Each Fund expects that in connection with any securities on loan, the loan will be secured continuously by collateral consisting of cash (U.S. currency) and/or securities (U.S. Treasury and Agency obligations) adjusted daily to have value at least equal to the current market value of the securities loaned. The market value of the loaned securities is determined at the close of business of a Fund and any additional collateral is delivered to the Fund the next business day. The Funds bear the risk of loss with respect to the investment of cash collateral. As with other extensions of credit, the Funds may bear the risk of delay in recovery of the loaned securities or even loss of rights in the collateral should the Borrower of the securities fail financially. Pursuant to the Lending Agreement, the Agent has provided indemnification to the Funds in the event of default by a Borrower with respect to a loan. The Funds receive compensation for lending their securities in the form of a securities loan fee paid by the Borrower, as well as a share of the income earned on investment of the cash collateral received for the loaned securities. At September 30, 2021, the Funds' collateral was equal to or greater than 100% of the market value of securities on loan.

Subject to the terms of the Lending Agreement and the agreement between the Agent and the applicable Borrower ("Borrowing Agreement"), security loans can be terminated by the Agent, the Fund, or the Borrower and the related securities must be returned within the earlier of the customary settlement period for such securities or the period of time specified in the Borrowing Agreement.

The Funds employ the Agent to implement their securities lending program and the Agent receives a fee from the Funds for its services. In addition, the Funds may be required to pay a rebate to the Borrower. Accordingly, a Fund's compensation for lending its securities is reduced by any such fees or rebate paid to the Agent or Borrower, respectively. Income received by the Funds in securities lending transactions during the year ended September 30, 2021, is reflected as securities lending income on the Statement of Operations.

Accounting for Investment Transactions

Investment transactions are accounted for on the trade date. Realized gains and losses on sales of investments and unrealized appreciation and depreciation of investments are computed by the specific identification cost method. Proceeds received from litigation, if any, are included in realized gains on investment transactions for any investments that are no longer held in the portfolio and as a reduction in cost for investments that continue to be held in the portfolio. Interest income, adjusted for amortization of discounts and premiums on debt securities, is earned from the settlement date and is recorded on the accrual basis. Dividend income and realized capital gain distributions are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Non-cash dividends received in the form of stock are recorded as dividend income at market value. Withholding taxes on foreign interest, dividends, and capital gains have been provided for in accordance with the applicable country's tax rules and rates. Foreign dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date or as soon as practicable after the Fund determines the existence of a dividend declaration after exercising reasonable due diligence. Distributions received on securities that represent a return of capital or capital gains are recorded as a reduction of cost of investments and/or as a realized gain.

Foreign Currency Translation

The books and records of the Funds are maintained in U.S. dollars. The market values of foreign currencies, foreign securities, and other assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into U.S. dollars at the mean of the buying and selling rates of such currencies against the U.S. dollar at the end of each business day. Purchases and sales of foreign securities and income and expense items are translated at the rates of exchange prevailing on the respective dates of such transactions. The Funds do not isolate that portion of the results of operations arising from changes in the exchange rates from that portion arising from changes in the market prices of securities. Net realized foreign currency gains and losses resulting from changes in exchange rates include foreign currency gains and losses between trade date and settlement date on investment securities transactions, foreign currency transactions, and the difference between the amounts of dividends or interest recorded on the books of the Funds and the amount actually received.

Allocation of Operating Activity

In maintaining the records for the Funds, the income and expense accounts are allocated daily to each class of shares. Investment income and loss, and unrealized and realized gains or losses are prorated among the classes of shares based on the relative net assets of each. Expenses are allocated to each class of shares depending on the nature of the expenditures. Administration and service fees, if any, which are directly attributable to a class of shares, are charged to that class's operations. Expenses of a Fund not directly attributable to the operations of any specific class of shares of the Fund are prorated among the classes to which the expense relates based on relative net assets or another alternative method.

Foreign Securities

Each of the MSCI EAFE International Index Fund, Overseas Fund, and MM Select T. Rowe Price International Equity Fund invests substantially all of its assets in foreign securities. The other Funds may also invest in foreign securities. Foreign securities, including American Depositary Receipts, are subject to additional risks compared to securities of U.S. issuers, including international trade, currency, political, regulatory, and diplomatic risks. In addition, fluctuations in currency exchange rates may adversely affect the values of foreign securities and the price of a Fund's shares. Emerging markets securities are subject to greater risks than securities issued in developed foreign markets, including less liquidity, greater price volatility, higher relative rates of inflation, greater political, economic, and social instability, greater custody and operational risks, and greater volatility in currency exchange rates.

Federal Income Tax

It is each Fund's intent to continue to comply with the provisions of Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), applicable to a regulated investment company. Under such provisions, the Funds would not be subject to federal income taxes on their ordinary income and net realized capital gains to the extent they are distributed or deemed to have been distributed to their shareholders. Therefore, the Funds have not made any provision for federal income tax.

Dividends and Distributions to Shareholders

Dividends from net investment income and distributions of any net realized capital gains of each Fund are declared and paid annually and at other times as may be required to satisfy tax or regulatory requirements.

Distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Income and capital gain distributions are determined in accordance with income tax regulations, which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles. As a result, net investment income and net realized capital gains on investment transactions for a reporting period may differ significantly from distributions during such period.

Net capital loss carryforwards may be applied against any net realized taxable gains in succeeding years. On December 22, 2010, the Regulated Investment Company Modernization Act of 2010 (the "Modernization Act") was signed by the President. The Modernization Act changed the capital loss carryforward rules as they relate to regulated investment companies. Capital losses generated in tax years beginning after the date of enactment may now be carried forward indefinitely, and retain the character of the original loss.

At September 30, 2021, for federal income tax purposes, there were no unused capital losses.

Generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America require that only distributions in excess of tax basis earnings and profits be reported in the financial statements as a return of capital.

The tax character of distributions (including capital gain dividends, if any, designated pursuant to Section 852 of the Code) paid during the year ended September 30, 2021, was as follows:

Capital accounts within the financial statements are periodically adjusted for permanent differences between book and tax accounting. These adjustments have no impact on net assets or the results of operations. Temporary book and tax accounting differences will reverse in subsequent periods. At September 30, 2021, temporary book and tax accounting differences were primarily attributable to the deferral of wash sale losses, deferred Trustee compensation, and other temporary basis adjustments.

At September 30, 2021, the components of distributable earnings on a tax basis were as follows:

The Funds did not have any unrecognized tax benefits at September 30, 2021, nor were there any increases or decreases in unrecognized tax benefits for the year then ended. The Funds recognize interest and penalties, if any, related to unrecognized tax benefits as an income tax expense in the Statements of Operations. During the year ended September 30, 2021, the Funds did not incur any such interest or penalties. The Funds are subject to examination by U.S. federal and state tax authorities for returns filed for the prior three fiscal years. Foreign taxes are provided for based on the Funds' understanding of the tax rules and rates that exist in the foreign markets in which they invest.

7. Indemnifications

Under the Funds' organizational documents, current and former Trustees and Officers are provided with specified rights to indemnification against liabilities arising in connection with the performance of their duties to the Funds, and shareholders are indemnified against personal liability for obligations of the Funds. In the normal course of business, the Funds may also enter into contracts that provide general indemnifications. The Funds' maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown as this would be dependent on future claims that may be made against the Funds. The risk of material loss from such claims is considered remote.

8. New Accounting Pronouncements

In October 2020, Accounting Standards Update 2017-08, Receivables — Nonrefundable Fees and Other Costs (Subtopic 310-20): Premium Amortization on Purchased Callable Debt Securities ("ASU 2017-08") was amended by Accounting Standards Update 2020-08, Codification Improvements to Subtopic 310-20, Receivables — Nonrefundable Fees and Other Costs ("ASU 2020-08"). ASU 2020-08 requires entities to reevaluate whether callable debt securities fall within the scope of ASU 2017-08 at each reporting period. ASU 2020-08 also amends the relevant guidance to require premiums to be amortized to the "next call date" rather than the "earliest call date," and further clarifies the definition of "next call date." ASU 2020-08 is effective for fiscal years, and interim periods within those fiscal years, beginning after December 15, 2020. As of September 30, 2021, Management has fully implemented the new rule and there was no material impact.

In January 2021, FASB issued Accounting Standards Update 2021-01 — Reference Rate Reform (Topic 848) — Scope ("ASU 2021-01") as an update to Accounting Standards Update 2020-04 — Reference Rate Reform (Topic 848) — Facilitation of the Effects of Reference Rate Reform on Financial Reporting ("ASU 2020-04") in order to make certain clarifications. ASU 2020-04 and ASU 2021-01 provide optional temporary financial reporting relief from the effect of certain types of contract modifications due to the planned discontinuation of the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR") and other interbank-offered based reference rates. The temporary relief provided by ASU 2020-04 and ASU 2021-01 is effective for certain reference rate-related contract modifications that occur during the period March 12, 2020 through December 31, 2022. Management does not believe the impact of adopting ASU 2020-04 and ASU 2021-01 will have a material impact on the financial statements.

9. Legal Proceedings

On December 7, 2010, the Trust was named as a defendant and putative member of the proposed defendant class of shareholders named in an adversary proceeding brought by The Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors of Tribune Company (the "Official Committee") in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, in connection with Tribune Company's Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding (In re Tribune Company). The proceeding relates to a leveraged buyout ("LBO") transaction by which Tribune Company converted to a privately-held company in 2007, and the putative defendant class is comprised of beneficial owners of shares of Tribune Company who received proceeds (the "Proceeds") of the LBO. The Official Committee seeks to recover payments of those Proceeds. On April 5, 2012, the adversary proceeding was transferred to the Southern District of

New York for consolidated pretrial proceedings. The action is now being prosecuted by the litigation trustee ("Trustee") for the Tribune Litigation Trust. This case has been dismissed by the district court and dismissal was affirmed by the Second Circuit Court of Appeals. The Trustee recently filed with the Second Circuit a petition for rehearing en banc.

The potential amounts sought to be recovered from the Diversified Value Fund and S&P 500 Index Fund, are approximately $1,621,800 and $1,186,430, respectively, plus interest and the Official Committee's court costs.

In addition, on June 2, 2011, the Diversified Value Fund and S&P 500 Index Fund, were named as defendants in a closely related, parallel adversary proceeding brought in connection with the Tribune Company's LBO by Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas, in its capacity as successor indenture trustee for a certain series of Senior Notes, Law Debenture Trust Company of New York, in its capacity as successor indenture trustee for a certain series of Senior Notes, and Wilmington Trust Company, in its capacity as successor indenture trustee for the PHONES Notes (together, the "Plaintiffs"), in the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts. The Plaintiffs also seek to recover payments of the Proceeds. On December 20, 2011, these actions were transferred to the Southern District of New York for consolidated pretrial proceedings. This case also has been dismissed. The district court's dismissal of the case was affirmed by the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, and the Plaintiffs' petition for certiorari was denied by the United States Supreme Court.

The Funds cannot predict the outcome of these proceedings. Accordingly, the Funds have not accrued any amounts related to these proceedings. If the proceedings were to be decided in a manner adverse to the Funds, or if the Funds were to enter into a settlement agreement with the Trustee or the Plaintiffs, as applicable, the payment of such judgment or settlement could potentially have a material adverse effect on the Funds' net asset values depending on the net assets of each applicable Fund at the time of such judgment or settlement.

10. Coronavirus (COVID-19) Pandemic

The global pandemic outbreak of the novel coronavirus known as COVID-19 and efforts to contain its spread have produced, and will likely continue to produce, substantial market volatility, severe market dislocations and liquidity constraints in many markets, exchange trading suspensions and closures, higher default rates, and global business disruption, and they may result in future significant adverse effects, such as declines in global financial markets and a substantial economic downturn or recession throughout the world. Such factors may have a significant adverse effect on a Fund's performance and have the potential to impair the ability of a Fund's investment adviser, subadviser, or other service providers to serve the Fund and could lead to disruptions that negatively impact the Fund.

11. Subsequent Events

In preparation of these financial statements, management has evaluated the events and transactions subsequent to September 30, 2021, through the date when the financial statements were issued, and determined that there are no subsequent events or transactions that would require adjustments to or disclosures in the Funds' financial statements other than those disclosed below.

The Board of Trustees of the MassMutual Select Funds has approved a Plan of Liquidation and Termination for each of the S&P Mid Cap Index Fund, Russell 2000 Small Cap Index Fund, and MSCI EAFE International Index Fund (each, a "Fund") pursuant to which it is expected that each Fund will be dissolved. Effective on or about June 24, 2022 (the "Termination Date"), shareholders of the various classes of shares of each Fund will receive proceeds in proportion to the number of shares of such class held by each shareholder on the Termination Date.

Please note that prior to the Termination Date, each Fund may hold most or all of its assets in cash or cash equivalents and therefore may not be able to meet its investment objective.

Basis for Opinion

These financial statements and financial highlights are the responsibility of the Funds' management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Funds' financial statements and financial highlights based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (PCAOB) and are required to be independent with respect to the Funds in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements and financial highlights are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud. The Funds are not required to have, nor were we engaged to perform, an audit of their internal control over financial reporting. As part of our audits we are required to obtain an understanding of internal control over financial reporting but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Funds' internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion.

Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements and financial highlights, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements and financial highlights. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements and financial highlights. Our procedures included confirmation of securities owned as of September 30, 2021, by correspondence with the custodian, brokers and agent banks; when replies were not received from brokers or agent banks, we performed other auditing procedures. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Trustees' Approval of Investment Advisory Contracts

At their meetings in May and June 2021, the Contract Committee (the "Committee") and the Trustees, including the Trustees who are not "interested persons" (as such term is defined in the 1940 Act) of the Trust, MML Advisers, or the subadvisers (the "Independent Trustees"), re-approved the existing advisory and subadvisory agreements (collectively, the "Contracts") for each of the Total Return Bond Fund, Strategic Bond Fund, Diversified Value Fund, Fundamental Value Fund, S&P 500 Index Fund, Equity Opportunities Fund, Fundamental Growth Fund, Blue Chip Growth Fund, Growth Opportunities Fund, Mid Cap Value Fund, Small Cap Value Equity Fund, Small Cap Index Fund, Russell 2000 Small Cap Index Fund, Mid Cap Growth Fund, Small Cap Growth Equity Fund, MSCI EAFE International Index Fund, Overseas Fund, and MM Select T. Rowe Price International Equity Fund. In preparation for the meetings, the Trustees requested, and MML Advisers and the subadvisers provided in advance, certain materials relevant to the consideration of the Contracts (the "Meeting Materials"). In all of their deliberations, the Trustees were advised by independent counsel.

The Committee received in advance of the meetings (i) a memorandum from MML Advisers discussing the nature and quality of the services it provides as investment adviser to the Funds; (ii) a profitability analysis prepared by MML Advisers; and (iii) a fee and performance study report (the "Third-Party Report") with respect to each Fund prepared by an independent third-party vendor (the "Third-Party"). The Third-Party Report provided detailed comparative advisory fee, total expense, and performance information for each Fund to assist the Committee in its evaluation of the Contracts. The Committee also considered information presented to it throughout the year regarding MML Advisers and each of the subadvisers.

The Committee considered the nature, scope, and quality of services MML Advisers provides to the Funds, including: (i) the financial condition, stability, and business strategy of MML Advisers; (ii) the capabilities of MML Advisers with respect to regulatory compliance and its ability to monitor compliance with the investment policies of the Funds; (iii) MML Advisers' ability to provide investment oversight and provide for administrative and shareholder services to the Funds; and (iv) the experience and qualifications of the personnel of MML Advisers that perform, or oversee the performance of, the services provided to the Funds, and the needs of the Funds for administrative and shareholder services. The Committee noted that it had received in the Meeting Materials or during the course of the past year: (i) detailed information regarding MML Advisers' ability to provide investment oversight and provide for administrative and shareholder services to the Funds; and (ii) a wide range of information about the subadvisers and their personnel with responsibility for providing services to the Funds and the fees payable to each subadviser by MML Advisers. MML Advisers reviewed with the Committee in detail the work MML Advisers does in its oversight roles, the expertise it brings to these roles, the size of its teams, and the financial commitment it has made to provide those services.

The Committee then reviewed and considered, for each Fund separately, the detailed information presented in the Third-Party Report regarding: (i) Fund expenses, including, among other things, both the Fund's net advisory fee and total net expense ratio against peer funds; and (ii) the Fund's relative performance (over various time periods against funds in its "category" and a benchmark index). In connection with the Committee's review, MML Advisers provided commentary and analysis regarding each Fund's expenses and performance and a recommendation as to the action to be taken by the Committee. Throughout the discussion, MML Advisers responded to Committee members' questions and provided additional information concerning each Fund.

The Committee reviewed the expense and performance information for each Fund. (References to any one- or three-year period below are to periods ended December 31, 2020. The three-year periods do not apply for any Fund that does not yet have a three- year performance history. In all cases, the comparative expense information is that of a Fund's "performance category.")

The Committee considered that the total net expense ratios for the Total Return Bond Fund, Strategic Bond Fund, Diversified Value Fund, Fundamental Value Fund, S&P 500 Index Fund, Fundamental Growth Fund, Blue Chip Growth Fund, Growth Opportunities Fund, Mid Cap Value Fund, Small Company Value Fund, S&P Mid Cap Index Fund, Mid Cap Growth Fund, Small Cap Growth Equity Fund, MSCI EAFE International Index Fund, Overseas Fund, and MM Select T. Rowe Price International Equity Fund were within the top forty percent of their peer groups. The Small Cap Value Equity Fund had a total net expense ratio in the third comparative quintile. All of the foregoing Funds had net advisory fees at or below the medians of their peers except the Diversified Value Fund, Growth Opportunities Fund, and Small Company Value Fund, the levels of whose net advisory fees the Committee did not consider to be inconsistent with the advisory agreements' continuation, in light of the Funds' generally acceptable total net expense ratios and/or general favorable investment performance over time.

As to the Equity Opportunities Fund, the Committee considered MML Advisers' statement that, although the Fund's net advisory fee was at the 75th comparative percentile, MML Advisers recommended maintaining the fee in light of the Fund's generally favorable performance over the long term and in light of the fact that the Fund's total net expense ratio, at the 67th comparative percentile, was competitive at only four basis points above the peer group median. As to the Russell 2000 Small Cap Index Fund, the Committee considered MML Advisers' statement that, although the Fund's total net expense ratio and net advisory fee, each at the 67th comparative percentile, were 11 and six basis points above the peer group median, respectively, the peer group includes large index fund providers where scale has a significant influence on total expenses, and the Fund's expenses compare more favorably against similarly situated peer Funds; and that the Fund's performance ranked in the top half of its performance category for the one- and three-year periods.

The Committee determined on the basis of these factors that the levels of the Funds' net advisory fees, and the total net expenses of the Funds generally, were consistent with the continuation of their advisory agreements.

The Committee considered that the Total Return Bond Fund, Strategic Bond Fund, S&P 500 Index Fund, Equity Opportunities Fund, Fundamental Growth Fund, Blue Chip Growth Fund, Growth Opportunities Fund, Mid Cap Value Fund, Small Cap Value Equity Fund, Small Company Value Fund, S&P Mid Cap Index Fund, Russell 2000 Small Cap Index Fund, Small Cap Growth Equity Fund, and Overseas Fund had achieved three-year investment performance above the medians of their performance categories, or in the top sixty percent of their performance categories. The Committee considered that the Fundamental Value Fund experienced three-year investment performance for the one-year period to the 57th comparative percentile.

The Committee considered that the Mid Cap Growth Fund and Diversified Value Fund had each experienced one- and three-year performance below the sixtieth comparative percentiles of their performance categories. The Committee considered MML Advisers' statement that a contributor to each Fund's underperformance was a relatively low exposure to high-growth stocks during the recent high growth-oriented equity markets, and MML Advisers' confidence in each Fund's investment strategy and subadviser(s) over the long term.

As to MSCI EAFE International Index Fund, the Committee noted that the Fund had experienced performance for the one- and three-year periods in the 84th and 75th comparative percentiles, respectively. The Committee considered MML Advisers' statements that the Fund's underperformance was due in part to a number of funds in the performance category being designed to track indices that have outperformed the index that the Fund is tracking, and that the subadviser has successfully replicated performance of the index and performance category with minimal tracking error.

As to the MM Select T. Rowe Price International Equity Fund, the Committee noted that the Fund had not yet achieved a three-year performance record as of December 31, 2020. The Committee considered information regarding the one-year performance of the Fund and considered MML Advisers' statement that, although the period of time the Fund had been operational was too short to evaluate performance meaningfully, the Fund was performing appropriately in the view of MML Advisers. The Committee generally agreed with this perspective and analysis.

The Committee also reviewed and considered information included in the Meeting Materials, or discussed at the meeting and during the course of the year, concerning economies of scale and the profitability of MML Advisers' advisory relationship with the various Funds, including: (i) a description of MML Advisers' revenues from the Funds (including advisory fees and administrative and shareholder services fees, as applicable) and the expense allocation methodology employed by MML Advisers; and (ii) profitability information for each individual Fund. The discussions included consideration of the intangible benefits derived by MML Advisers and its affiliates resulting from their relationships with the Funds and any so-called "fallout benefits" to MML Advisers (which were not considered to be substantial in any event), such as any reputational value derived from serving as investment adviser to the Funds, and benefits accruing to subadvisers due to so-called "soft-dollar arrangements."

Prior to the votes being taken to approve the Contracts, the Committee met separately in executive session to discuss the appropriateness of such contracts. The Committee weighed the foregoing matters in light of the advice given to them by their independent legal counsel as to the law applicable to the review of investment advisory contracts. In arriving at a decision, the Committee did not identify any single matter as all-important or controlling. The foregoing summary does not detail all of the matters considered.

As to each of the Funds, the Committee concluded that: (i) overall, it was satisfied with the nature, extent, and quality of services provided, and expected to be provided in the future, under the Contracts, including the level of MML Advisers' oversight of each Fund and the subadvisory process; (ii) MML Advisers' levels of profitability from its relationship with the various Funds are not excessive and the advisory fees payable under the advisory agreements and each Fund's total net expenses are fair and reasonable; (iii) the investment processes, research capabilities, and philosophies of the subadvisers generally appear well suited to the Funds, given their investment objectives and policies; (iv) either the relative or absolute performance of a Fund (in each case, taking into account the applicable investment strategy and risk profile of the Fund), or the steps MML Advisers has proposed in respect of the underperformance of a Fund, are sufficient to warrant continuation of the Contracts for each of the Funds; and (v) the terms of the Contracts are fair and reasonable with respect to each Fund and are in the best interests of each Fund's shareholders.

Also at their meeting in June 2021, the Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, approved a new subadvisory agreement with Brandywine Global Investment Management, LLC ("Brandywine Global") for the Strategic Bond Fund (the "June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement"). In preparation for the meeting, the Trustees requested, and MML Advisers provided in advance, certain materials relevant to the consideration of the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement. In all of their deliberations, the Trustees were advised by independent counsel.

In reviewing the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement, the Independent Trustees discussed with MML Advisers and considered a wide range of information about, among other things: (i) Brandywine Global and its personnel with responsibility for providing services to the Strategic Bond Fund; (ii) the terms of the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement; (iii) the scope and quality of the services that Brandywine Global is expected to provide under the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement; (iv) the historical investment performance track record of Brandywine Global; and (v) the fees payable to Brandywine Global by MML Advisers with respect to the Strategic Bond Fund, the effect of such fees on the profitability to MML Advisers, and any information provided by Brandywine Global regarding the fees paid to Brandywine Global by other funds with similar investment objectives as the Strategic Bond Fund. The Independent Trustees noted the fact that MML Advisers was proposing to add a five basis point contractual management fee waiver for the Strategic Bond Fund.

Prior to the votes being taken to approve the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement, the Independent Trustees met separately in executive session to discuss the appropriateness of such contract. The Independent Trustees weighed the foregoing matters in light of the advice given to them by their independent legal counsel as to the law applicable to the review of investment advisory contracts. In arriving at a decision, the Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, did not identify any single matter as all-important or controlling. The foregoing summary does not detail all of the matters considered.

Based on the foregoing, and following their review, the Trustees concluded, with respect to the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement, that (i) overall, they were satisfied with the nature, extent, and quality of services expected to be provided under the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement; (ii) MML Advisers' projected level of profitability due to the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement is not excessive and the subadvisory fee under the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement is fair and reasonable; (iii) the investment process and strategy of Brandywine Global appear well suited to the Strategic Bond Fund given its investment objective and policies; and (iv) the terms of the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement are fair and reasonable with respect to the Strategic Bond Fund, and are in the best interests of the Strategic Bond Fund's shareholders. After carefully considering the information summarized above, the Trustees, including a majority of the Independent Trustees voting separately, unanimously voted to approve the June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement.

The June Brandywine Subadvisory Agreement became effective on August 10, 2021.

Also at their meeting in June 2021, the Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, approved a new subadvisory agreement with Thompson, Siegel & Walmsley LLC ("TSW") for the Mid Cap Value Fund (the "June TSW Subadvisory Agreement") due to an expected change in control, whereby Pendal Group Ltd. ("Pendal") will acquire 100% equity interest in TSW through its acquisition of BrightSphere Investment Group Inc.'s ("BrightSphere") and TSW employees' equity interests in TSW. The acquisition by Pendal of BrightSphere's and TSW employees' equity interests in TSW will trigger the automatic assignment of the current subadvisory agreement, necessitating the need for the June TSW Subadvisory Agreement, which is substantially identical to the current subadvisory agreement. The Trustees considered the nature of the transaction and that the transaction would not result in any change in the investment strategies or portfolio management team of the Mid Cap Value Fund, or in the fees or expenses of the Mid Cap Value Fund. In addition, the Trustees considered the statements of Pendal and TSW that the change in control was not expected to have any material impact on TSW or the services it provides to the Mid Cap Value Fund, including the personnel providing services to the Mid Cap Value Fund.

Prior to the votes being taken to approve the June TSW Subadvisory Agreement discussed above, the Independent Trustees met separately in executive session to discuss the appropriateness of such contract. The Independent Trustees weighed the foregoing matters in light of the advice given to them by their independent legal counsel as to the law applicable to the review of investment advisory contracts. In arriving at a decision, the Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, did not identify any single matter as all-important or controlling. The foregoing summary does not detail all of the matters considered.

The June TSW Subadvisory Agreement became effective on July 22, 2021.

At their meeting in September 2021, the Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, reviewed and approved a proposal to make changes to the existing subadvisory agreement between MML Advisers and Loomis, Sayles & Company, L.P. ("Loomis Sayles") for the Blue Chip Growth Fund in order to lower the subadvisory fee paid on behalf of the Blue Chip Growth Fund. In arriving at their decision, the Trustees discussed the fees payable to Loomis Sayles by MML Advisers under the amended subadvisory agreement and the effect of such fees on the profitability to MML Advisers. The Trustees concluded that they were satisfied that MML Advisers' projected level of profitability due to the amended subadvisory agreement is not excessive and the subadvisory fee amount under the amended subadvisory agreement is fair and reasonable. In their deliberations, the Trustees were advised by independent counsel.

Prior to the vote being taken to approve the amendment to the subadvisory agreement discussed above, the Independent Trustees met separately in executive session to discuss the appropriateness of such contract. The Independent Trustees weighed the foregoing matters in light of the advice given to them by their independent legal counsel as to the law applicable to the review of investment advisory contracts. In arriving at a decision, the Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, did not identify any single matter as all-important or controlling. The foregoing summary does not detail all of the matters considered.

The amended subadvisory agreement became effective on October 1, 2021.

Fund Expenses September 30, 2021

Expense Examples:

The following information is in regards to expenses for the six months ended September 30, 2021:

As a shareholder of the Funds, you may incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, including sales charges (loads) on purchase payments or redemptions; and (2) ongoing costs, including advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees, and other Fund expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Funds and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds. These examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested for the six months ended September 30, 2021.

Actual Expenses:

The first four columns of the table below provide information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use this information, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number under the heading entitled "Operating Expenses Incurred" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes:

The last two columns of the table below provide information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs. Therefore, the last two columns of the table are useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher.
