Investment approach

- Seeks to track the performance of the Bloomberg U.S. Treasury STRIPS 20–30 Year Equal Par Bond Index.
- Passively managed using index sampling.
- Broad exposure to the long-term Treasury STRIPS market.
- Provides current income with high credit quality.

About the benchmark

- The Bloomberg U.S. Treasury STRIPS 20–30 Year Equal Par Bond Index measures the investment return of Treasury STRIPS with maturities ranging from 20 to 30 years. A Treasury STRIP represents a single coupon or principal payment on a U.S. Treasury security that has been “stripped” into separately tradable components. The index includes zero-coupon U.S. Treasury securities with maturities ranging from 20 to 30 years.

¹ As reported in the most recent prospectus. A fund's current expense ratio may be lower or higher than the figure reported in the prospectus.

² Figures for periods of less than one year are cumulative returns. All other figures represent average annual returns. Fund performance figures assume the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions; the figures are pre-tax and net of expenses. The above widely used comparative index represents unmanaged or average returns on various financial assets that can be compared with the fund's total returns for the purpose of measuring relative performance.

³ As of 4 p.m., Eastern time, when the regular trading session of the New York Stock Exchange typically closes.

⁴ Market price returns are calculated using the midpoint between the bid and offer prices at the time NAV is calculated, typically 4 p.m., Eastern time.

² Credit-quality ratings are measured on a scale that generally ranges from AAA (highest) to D (lowest). "NR" is used to classify securities for which a rating is not available. NR securities may include a fund's investment in Vanguard Market Liquidity Fund or Vanguard Municipal Cash Management Fund, each of which invests in high-quality money market instruments and may serve as a cash management vehicle for the Vanguard funds, trusts, and accounts. U.S. Treasury, U.S. Agency, and U.S. Agency mortgage-backed securities appear under "U.S. Government." Credit-quality ratings for each issue are obtained from Bloomberg using ratings derived from Moody's Investors Service (Moody's), Fitch Ratings (Fitch), and Standard & Poor's (S&P). When ratings from all three agencies are available, the median rating is used. When ratings are available from two of the agencies, the lower rating is used. When one rating is available, that rating is used.

Vanguard ETF® Shares are not redeemable with the issuing Fund other than in very large aggregations worth millions of dollars. Instead, investors must buy or sell Vanguard ETF Shares in the secondary market and hold those shares in a brokerage account. In doing so, the investor may incur brokerage commissions and may pay more than net asset value when buying and receive less than net asset value when selling.

All ETF products are subject to risk, which may result in the loss of principal. Investments in bond ETF products are subject to interest rate, credit, and inflation risk. The fund is primarily intended for pension plans and other institutional investors that desire to closely match long-term liabilities with a portfolio of U.S. Treasury securities of similar long-term duration. Interest rate risk is expected to be extremely high for the fund because it invests mainly in zero-coupon long-term bonds, which have prices that are very sensitive to interest rate changes. Because the fund invests mainly in Treasury STRIPS with maturities ranging from 20 to 30 years, rising interest rates may cause the value of the fund's investments to decline significantly. Prospective investors are urged to consult with their own advisors to determine the suitability of an investment in the fund and the relationship of such an investment to their overall investment program and financial and tax positions.
