

Vanguard Russell 1000 Growth ETF

As of June 30, 2022

Investment approach

- Seeks to track the performance of the Russell 1000 Growth Index.
- Large-cap growth equity.
- Employs a passively managed, full-replication strategy.
- The fund remains fully invested.
- Low expenses minimize net tracking error.

The fund may become nondiversified, as defined under the Investment Company Act of 1940, solely as a result of a change in relative market capitalization or index weighting of one or more constituents of the index.

About the benchmark

- The Russell 1000 Growth Index measures the performance of the large-cap growth segment of the U.S. equity universe.
- It includes those Russell 1000 companies with higher price-to-book ratios and higher forecasted and historical growth values.

¹ As reported in the most recent prospectus. A fund's current expense ratio may be lower or higher than the figure reported in the prospectus.

² Figures for periods of less than one year are cumulative returns. All other figures represent average annual returns. Fund performance figures assume the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions; the figures are pre-tax and net of expenses. The above widely used comparative index represents unmanaged or average returns on various financial assets that can be compared with the fund's total returns for the purpose of measuring relative performance.

³ As of 4 p.m., Eastern time, when the regular trading session of the New York Stock Exchange typically closes.

⁴ Market price returns are calculated using the midpoint between the bid and offer prices at the time NAV is calculated, typically 4 p.m., Eastern time.

² For most recent fiscal year. Turnover rate excludes the value of portfolio securities received or delivered as a result of in-kind purchases or redemptions of the fund's capital shares, including Vanguard ETF Creation Units.

⁴ The holdings listed exclude any temporary cash investments and equity index products.

⁵ Sector categories are based on the Industry Classification Benchmark system ("ICB"), except for the "Other" category (if applicable), which includes securities that have not been provided an ICB classification as of the effective reporting period.

Vanguard ETF® Shares are not redeemable with the issuing Fund other than in very large aggregations worth millions of dollars. Instead, investors must buy or sell Vanguard ETF Shares in the secondary market and hold those shares in a brokerage account. In doing so, the investor may incur brokerage commissions and may pay more than net asset value when buying and receive less than net asset value when selling.

All ETF products are subject to risk, which may result in the loss of principal.
