INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The fund seeks long-term growth of capital through investments primarily in the common stocks of large-cap companies throughout the world, including the U.S.

Investing in at least five different countries, including the U.S., the fund targets blue chip companies.

It takes a growth approach to investing, seeking opportunities that have potential for above-average earnings.

BENEFITS AND RISKS

The fund is broadly diversified across international markets, which can help reduce volatility relative to funds that concentrate on a particular region or country. Diversification cannot assure a profit or protect against loss in a declining market.

Since the fund is actively managed and invests overseas, its foreign holdings could be affected by declining foreign currencies or adverse political or economic events.

The fund's growth approach carries risk: Because growth funds have higher valuations and lower dividend yields than slower-growth or cyclical companies, the share price volatility may be higher. As such, fund prices could decline further in market downturns than those of non growth-oriented funds.

CUMULATIVE RETURNS

Growth of $10,000

Definitions

Beta: A measure of market risk of an investment option that shows how responsive the investment is to a given market index, such as the Standard & Poor's 500 Index. By definition, the beta of the benchmark is 1.00. An investment with a beta of 1.10 is expected to perform 10% better than the index in up markets and 10% worse in down markets. Usually, higher betas represent riskier investments. Figures are calculated using monthly data and are net of fees.
