Growth of a $10,000 Investment<sup>1</sup>

A hypothetical $10,000 investment in the fund's Class A shares on 1/1/88 would have been worth $427,056 on 9/30/22.

This does not reflect the 5.75% maximum front-end sales load applicable to Class A shares which, if reflected, would have lowered performance. Assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains. Performance for the fund's other share classes would vary.

<sup>1</sup>On 3/31/09 existing shares were designated Class I shares and the fund began to offer Class A and C shares. The total return performance figures for Class A presented for periods prior to 3/31/09 reflect the performance of the fund's Class I shares, adjusted to reflect the applicable sales load for that class. The total return performance figures for Class Z and Class Y shares of the fund represent the performance of the fund's Class I shares for periods prior to 1/19/18 and 7/1/13, the inception date for Class Z and Class Y shares, and the performance of Class Z and Class Y, respectively, from that inception date. Performance reflects the applicable class's distribution/servicing fees since the inception date. Had these fees and expenses been reflected for periods prior, performance would have been different. Investors should consider, when deciding whether to purchase a particular class of shares, the investment amount, anticipated holding period and other relevant factors. <sup>2</sup>Portfolio composition is as of 9/30/2022 and is subject to change at any time. <sup>3</sup>Performance figures may reflect reimbursements or fee waivers, without which the performance would have been lower. Risks: Equities are subject to market, market sector, market liquidity, issuer, and investment style risks, among other factors, to varying degrees. Small and midsize company stocks tend to be more volatile and less liquid than larger company stocks as these companies are less established and have more volatile earnings histories. Recent market risks include pandemic risks related to COVID-19. The effects of COVID-19 have contributed to increased volatility in global markets and will likely affect certain countries, companies, industries and market sectors more dramatically than others. To the extent the fund may overweight its investments in certain countries, companies, industries or market sectors, such positions will increase the fund's exposure to risk of loss from adverse developments affecting those countries, companies, industries or sectors.
