INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

Zacks Investment Management believes the following: Markets are very efficient over the long run and the ability to outperform using active management is limited to managers who have the discipline to maintain a proven investment process through all market environments. Academic research shows equity anomalies exist but the excess returns generated from these anomalies can only be realized by holding stocks exposed to the anomaly over long periods of time. Proven multi-factor strategies run in a systematic and disciplined manner can generate meaningful alpha over a full market cycle, while simultaneously tempering the periods of underperformance that would be experienced by a single anomaly. Zacks Investment Management utilizes tools and models developed in-house to create investment strategies based on statistical anomalies backed by academic and proprietary research. With regard to their Small Cap Core strategy, ZIM's believes that estimate revisions are a leading indicator of future stock performance and that small- to mid-size companies exhibit stronger price response to earnings estimate revisions.

PORTFOLIO MANAGER COMMENTARY

During Q3 2022, small-cap stocks as an asset class outperformed mid-cap and large cap stocks. During the quarter, employment growth and the US economy as a whole remained relatively resilient. Russia's war in Ukraine continued to strain the global energy supply, while China maintained its Zero- COVID policy further applying pressure to global supply chains. All of these factors contributed to broad and high inflation. In an attempt to bring inflation down, the Federal Reserve continued the tightening of financial conditions by raising interest rates faster, while winding down its balance sheet. Global markets appeared to anticipate a slowdown in economic growth that may lead to a global recession. In this environment, small-cap companies with a domestic focus outperformed.

In the Saratoga Advantage Trust Small Capitalization Portfolio, both the Energy and Health Care sectors outperformed while Real Estate, Utilities, Consumer Staples, Technology, and Materials underperformed. The portfolio's overweight exposure to Energy and underweight exposure to Consumer Staples, Utilities, and Technology sectors helped relative performance, while an underweight to Health Care and overweight to Materials detracted.

IMPORTANT RISK INFORMATION AND DISCLOSURE

Mutual Funds involve risk, including possible loss of principal. Investments in lesser-known, small and medium capitalization companies may be more vulnerable than larger, more established organizations. Micro-cap stocks may offer greater opportunity for capital appreciation than the stocks of larger and more established companies; however, they also involve substantially greater risks of loss and price fluctuations. Micro-cap companies carry additional risks because their earnings and revenues tend to be less predictable.

Investors should carefully consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the Saratoga Funds. This and other information about the Saratoga Funds is contained in the prospectus, which can be obtained by calling (800) 807-FUND and should be read carefully before investing.
