INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The fund seeks long-term growth of capital by investing primarily in common stocks of small growth companies.

The fund will normally invest primarily in small-cap growth companies. The portfolio seeks to be broadly diversified, and the top 25 holdings will not constitute a large portion of assets.

We employ a number of quantitative models developed by T. Rowe Price to identify stocks that could be included in the portfolio.

BENEFITS AND RISKS

The fund should offer greater capital appreciation potential than large-company stocks.

The fund's broad diversification may make it less volatile than small-cap growth funds that have more concentrated portfolios.

The fund is subject to the risks of stock investing, including possible loss of principal. Small-cap stocks have generally been more volatile in price than the large-cap stocks. The fund's strategy relies heavily on quantitative models to analyze data and construct investment portfolios. Relying on these models entails the risk that the models themselves may be limited or incorrect, that the data the models rely on may be incorrect or incomplete, and that the adviser may not be successful in selecting companies for investment or determining the weighting of particular stocks.

Diversification cannot assure a profit or protect against loss in a declining market.

INVEST WITH CONFIDENCE®

Definitions

Beta: A measure of market risk of an investment option that shows how responsive the investment is to a given market index, such as the Standard & Poor's 500 Index. By definition, the beta of the benchmark is 1.00. An investment with a beta of 1.10 is expected to perform 10% better than the index in up markets and 10% worse in down markets. Usually, higher betas represent riskier investments. Figures are calculated using monthly data and are net of fees.
